Legion ... Dewey S... With Truman On Training

Governor Evokes Cheers in Revealing Favorable Stand; President Absent

Takes Issue With Taft

29th Convention Opens

New York, Aug. 28 (AP).—President Truman and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, titular heads of the Democratic and Republican Parties, told the twenty-ninth national American Legion convention today they solidly backed the Legion's fight for a powerful national defense establishment.

The President, in a message, to the convention's opening session, declared that in a world where "war remains a dread possibility," the Nation "must be so strong that no aggressor, however rash, can persuade himself that we are open to conquest."

Holds UMT Peace Guaranty

Dewey, who welcomed the fighting men from two world wars to the State, put himself on record for the first time behind the Legion's drive to enact a universal military training law.

The governor drew volleys of cheers from the Legionnaires jampacked in Madison Square Garden with his statement "is is our duty to provide a program involving participation by all able-bodied young American men under universal military training.

"We do not desire such a program, as has been suggested, to take the place of our educational system or to teach our young men to brush their teeth. Hard as military training may be, it is a powerful bulwark against far greater hardship—war itself."

Considered a top contender for his party's presidential nomination in 1948, Dewey's declaration on universal training joined him with Mr. Truman in espousal of the program.

Asks Legion Advice on Housing

The President, who originally had been scheduled to address the convention today but failed to make it because of "the unremitting pressure of official business," said in his message that a training law—"the foundation of the security structure"—still was lacking.

Unification of the armed forces was achieved in the last session of Congress with strong Legion support, Mr. Truman pointed out.

Turning to veterans' problems, the President said World War II fighting men "have made long and rapid strides toward readjust-

Sunny and Warm Forecast Today—Peak in Low 80's

Sunny and warm weather, like yesterday afternoon's, was forecast for the Washington area today.

The weatherman predicted today's temperature would rise to the low 80s, just as it did by 5:55 p. m. yesterday when it reached a high of 82 degrees. The warm afternoon followed a dreary morning of comfortably low temperatures and misty rains.

Washington's almost atomized rain yesterday totaled but .05 inch in official rain gauges.

At Virginia Beach, Va., however, one of the heaviest rains recorded fell there. Between 3 and 5 a. m., yesterday, 4:28 inches were measured at Cape Henry and 4 inches at Virginia Beach itself.

...naria Bus Line Heir, Wife Murdered in Nebraska

Omaha, Nebr., Aug. 28 (U.P.).—Robert Lee May 2d, 22, son of a wealthy Virginia family, and his 22-year-old bride were found murdered near a blood-smeared highway today and police said evidence indicated they had been slain and robbed by a hitch-hiker.

May was the grandson of Robert L. May, owner of the Alexandria, Barcroft and Washington Transit Co. which serves suburban communities in the Washington area. His father, Beverly C. May, 16 Belfield rd., Belle Haven, Alexandria, Va. is general manager of the company.

Young May and his pretty wife, Elizabeth of 1138 Valley dr., Parkfairfax, Va., had been married only six months. They were on a motor tour and were en route to Omaha from Englewood, Colo., where they had visited friends.

Their bodies were found at 8:30 a. m. in a clump of bushes 2½ miles west of Boys' Town, Nebr., by two 13-year-old farm boys, Bill Wehby and Dick Benge, who were going to work in a cornfield.

Each had been shot once in the head. Mrs. May's pocketbook and her husband's wallet were missing. Only a small amount of change was found in May's pocket. County Physician Thomas D. Boler estimated the victims had been dead several hours when discovered.

A 1946 model Chrysler, owned by May's grandparents and which the couple was using on their tour, was found spattered with blood three hours after the bodies were discovered. The car was found in an out-of-the-way parking lot behind a coal company in an industrial section of Omaha. The door was unlocked and both front and rear seats were stained with blood.

Blood on the door was dripping

Judge Raedy Fails to Keep Hearing Dates

Plea of 'Not Guilty' To Hit-Run Charge To Be Filed by Lawyer

By Alfred E. Lewis
Post Reporter

Municipal Court Judge Ellen K. Raedy failed twice to make promised appearances for preliminary hearing yesterday morning and afternoon in connection with hit-and-run charges filed against her.

Her attorney, Charles E. Ford, later told reporters that she would not appear at any preliminary hearing that he would file a plea of "not guilty" today and ask a trial date be set, invoking rule 14 of the Municipal Court code.

Judges Switch

Earlier Judge John P. McMahon had ruled that he could not accept a not guilty plea offered by Ford without her personal appearance or written consent. Ford told Judge McMahon his client was ill and that he had hoped she would recover sufficiently to attend the hearing.

A crowded court room and newspaper photographers, two at each of the four entrances to the courthouse waited in vain for her appearance.

Judge Raedy was first scheduled to appear before Judge Nadine Gallagher at 10 a. m. At 11 a. m. Attorney Ford appeared before Judge Gallagher and asked for a postponement until 1:30. Assistant Corporation Counsel Clark King, prosecutor in the case, consented to the postponement.

At 1:30 p. m. Judge Raedy again failed to appear. In the interim, because of the pressure of business in other courts, Judge Gallagher was transferred to Small Claims

Barrett Asks Jury Inquiry In Clegg Case

U. S. Attorney Given Copy of Truscott's Investigation Report

By Robert Bruskin
Post Reporter

A request for grand jury action was formally made yesterday by Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett on charges by Julius Willie Clegg that he was beaten by police.

Barrett and Chief of Detectives Floyd A. Truscott called on United States Attorney George Morris Fay and handed him a copy of Truscott's investigation.

Fay said he would read the report and give it to Assistant United States Attorney John W. Fihelly for study before presenting the evidence compiled by Truscott to the grand jury.

Grand Jury Now Busy

He declined to estimate how soon that might be. Court attaches pointed out that the grand jury would be kept busy for several weeks with Department of Justice investigations.

Clegg, 26, a Negro war veteran and employe of The Washington Post, charged that he was detained illegally by police at the First Precinct for 34 hours without charge, and was beaten at Detective Bureau headquarters.

He was arrested at 6 a.m. August 2 by Pvt. J. C. Gibboney of the First Precinct while returning to work from his lunch hour. Police said they suspected him of making lewd remarks to white women. The woman who made the accusation afterwards was unable to identify Clegg.

He identified two Sex Squad detectives from a lineup of ten as those who beat him. Police declined to disclose their names. The two denied slapping Clegg.

Slappings Are Charged

Clegg declared in his complaint that he was slapped several times, called a "black son-of-a-bitch" and slapped again after he refused to sign a statement without reading it first. After that, Clegg declared the second detective "said that if I ever came back, he would shoot both of my eyes out and then he slapped me again."

Roger Robb, attorney for Clegg, asked for a grand jury investiga-

Pollen Takes No Holiday

Hay Fever Sufferers of D. C. Cautioned on Motor Trips

Labor Day weekend motor trips will beckon many Washingtonians, but smart hay fever sufferers will shake their heads at the invitation—at the same time taking care not to disturb the atmosphere.

For this weekend is the eve of the sneeziest period of the sniffling season—September 2 and 3 topped the ragweed pollen sneezemeters last year. And one of the best ways to get that handkerchief exercise is by driving along a country road where ragweed is in full blossom.

Yesterday's ragweed pollen count, recorded by the D. C. Medical Society, was 98 grains per cubic yard of air, and it was partially incomplete because of the overnight rain, which may have washed some grains of the uncomfortable substance off the recording slides.

Under the present method of recording the pollen count reported daily in The Washington Post, it is possible to obtain a fairly accurate count of pollen even during a rainfall. This is the standard method approved by the American Academy of Allergy, employing a recording device partially sheltered from rainfall.

Rain does not necessarily decrease the amount of pollen in the air as some people believe, an allergy specialist pointed out. There is often a heavy concentration of pollen 4000 to 6000 feet above the ground which can be waften down to the sneeze suffers despite the rainfall.

While most weekenders will be hoping for reasonably cool weather, that may be no help whatever to hay fever suffers—70 degrees is an ideal temperature for pollenization. Only excessive heat or excessive cold halts pollenization.

And incidentally, if you heed all this and decide to do your sniffling at home, stay away from fans. The cool air may lower your temperature, but it will also raise hob with your sneezing, spreading pollen all over the place.

Pope Backs Truman in Peace Effort

Letter Exchange Agrees Mankind Must Not Endure Collectivist Chains

(Texts on Page 19)

Rome, Aug. 28 (AP).—President Truman and Pope Pius exchanged pledges today to work together for an enduring world peace.

The President declared it his aim to encourage the faith that mankind will not live "in the chains of collectivist organization." The Pontiff replied that "once the state, to the exclusion of God, makes itself the source of the rights of the human person, man is forthwith reduced to the condition of slave," and the result is war.

In his letter the President called for a moral crusade of "men of good will everywhere to banish war and the causes of war from the world."

Formidable Task Acknowledged

"Unless the moral forces of the world now join their strength," he wrote, "discouragement must inevitably deepen, and the strength and effectiveness which thereby would be lost by these moral forces would be gained by those which oppose and seek to destroy them."

Replying, Pope Pius said "We hasten to express our satisfaction and thanks for this latest testimony to the desire and determination of a great and free people to dedicate themselves to the noble task of that peace for which all peoples of the earth are longing."

Mr. Truman observed that "the tasks now confronting us are formidable. The conditions for meeting the heavy problems of the war settlement and of new problems still unsolved are accompanied by multiplied discouragements."

Faith Called Great Need

Declaring "an enduring peace can be built only upon Christian principles," the President said his aim was to "encourage renewed faith in the dignity and worth of the human person in all lands."

He added that "the greatest need of the world today, fundamental to all else, is a renewal of faith . . . We must have faith in the inevitable triumph of truth and decency, faith that mankind shall live in freedom, not in the chains of untruth nor in the chains of a collectivist organization of their lives, faith of such fullness that it will energize men and women everywhere to build with tenacity the better social world order under self-rule.

Pope Pius replied that "the munificent charity shown by the American people to the suffering and oppressed in every part of the world . . . is a fair token of their sincere desire for universal peace and prosperity. The vast majority of the peoples of the world, we feel sure, share that desire, even in countries where free expression is smothered."

Air Combat Merger Plan Is Blocked

Army Ground Force Protests Prevent Proposed Creation Of Single Command

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 28.—Strong protests by the Army Ground Forces have blocked a plan to merge the AAF's Strategic and Tactical Air Commands into a single Combat Air Force under the new Department of Air Force.

Many ranking air officers, including Gen. George C. Kenney, Strategic Air Commander, have urged such a single force. They contend it would enable the new separate air force to put stronger combat forces into action by saving on overhead—servicing and housekeeping units, staffs, etc.—and by eliminating some of the specialized types of planes now employed.

Protested by Devers

Gen. Jacob L. Devers, Army Ground Forces commander, however, protested that such a merger would destroy the excellent ground-air coordination which now exists between his forces and Maj. Gen. Elwood R. Quesada's Tactical Air Command.

Quesada's headquarters are at Langley Field, Va., close by Devers' headquarters at Fort Monroe, Va. His light bombers, fighters, reconnaissance craft and troop carriers for airborne infantry now work closely with the ground forces at posts all over the country. Were Tactical Air Command abolished, Devers fears, the tendency would be to emphasize the independent strategic missions of the combat air force at the expense of their tactical duties.

Gen. Carl Spaatz, AAF commander, who is slated to become the first commander of the new Air Force, has ruled against the Kenney proposal, The Washington Post has learned.

Both Gen. Devers and Gen. Quesada confirmed the fact that Tactical Air Comand will be continued substantially as at present under the new Air Force Department. Its headquarters is expected to remain at Langley and that of the Army Ground Forces at Ft. Monroe.

Principal argument against the proposed Combat Air Force, which won favor in top defense circles in Washington, it is understood, is that elimination of TAC would lead to Army demands that it be allowed to set up its own tactical aviation to assure close air-ground support. They could point to the fact that the Navy retained its tactical aviation. The result might be the opposite of unification.

In Much Better Shape

General Quesada reported that his command is in much better shape than it was last Spring. He now has 11 groups at approximately full peace-time strength. A shortage of radar and communications personnel has eased and there is more stability in all units.

Troubles with the P-80 Shooting Star have been overcome, Quesada said, and the fighters are now carrying on "realistic" training, being able to fire their guns and drop bombs at high speed. The latter difficulty is not expected to be completely licked, however, until deliveries begin on the P-80B next summer.

TAC now has four fighter groups, one light bomber group, three

For Possible Unhappy Landing

Truman Plane to Carry Rafts And Carbines on Rio Flight

By the United Press

When President Truman and his official party hop off on their 5000-mile flight to Rio de Janeiro Sunday their plane will carry a "survival" load of rubber life rafts in the event of a crash landing at sea, plus machetes and carbines in case they are forced down in the dense Brazilian jungles.

Lieut. Col. Henry T. Myers, who will pilot the presidential plane Independence, is taking every precaution for Mr. Truman's first trip in the new Air Transport Command ship.

Myers said he has added to the Independence's normal equipment an Army Air Forces jungle kit, which includes three heavy machetes for chopping through undergrowth, fishing tackle, and water purification tablets.

The ship also will have two carbines aboard. These are standard equipment carried on all flights.

The Independence will fly over a vast stretch of trackless Amazon jungle on the final 1500-mile leg of the flight from Belem to Rio.

For the flight across the Caribbean, the plane will carry collapsible life rafts, complete with food and water, oars and sails.

The plane is due to take off from Washington at 9 a. m. (EDT.) Sunday, reaching Rio Monday afternoon, after an overnight stop Sunday at Trinidad and a refueling stop in Belem.

Mr. Truman will address the Inter-American Defense Conference at its final plenary session Tuesday and witness the signing of the Inter-American defense treaty later that day.

He will remain in Brazil as a guest of that government until September 7, when he will participate in ceremonies commemorating the 125th anniversary of Brazilian independence.

He plans to return to Washington aboard the battleship Missouri some time between September 16 and 20, probably making stops en route home at Saint Thomas, Virgin Islands, and San Juan, Puerto Rico.

With the President will be Mrs. Truman, their daughter, Margaret, and a group of official aides, including Admiral William D. Leahy, his chief of staff, Presidential Counsel Clark M. Clifford, and John R. Steelman, the President's assistant.

Also aboard will be Brazilian Ambassador Carlos Martins and Mrs. Martins.

Hartley Definitely Will Retire in '48

Representative Hartley (R., N. J.), chairman of the House Labor Committee and coauthor of the Taft-Hartley labor law, said yesterday he "definitely" would retire from Congress at the end of his present term.

"I made this announcement during my campaign last year, and I haven't changed my mind," he said. "Next year I will have rounded out 20 years in Congress. When I leave, my present plans are to devote my time to my farm in New Jersey."

Crisis Appears Unsolved

Greek Leaders Pick Maximos For Attempt at New Cabinet

U. S. Rushes Expert To Athens to Consult With Representatives

The State Department last night rushed one of its top experts to Greece to obtain first-hand reports on its current political and economic crisis.

Loy Henderson of the office of Near Eastern and African Affairs was ordered to leave immediately for consultations with United States Ambassador Lincoln MacVeagh and Dwight Griswold, chief of the American mission to Greece.

The visit will be brief, but Henderson is expected to return with information on "the continuing threat to Greece from the north, its economic problems, together with the current cabinet situation," the announcement said.

Associated Press dispatches from Greece yesterday indicated that all was not well between the American chiefs there.

Wednesday Constantin Tsaldaris, Populist (Monarchist) Party, largest in Parliament requested that MacVeagh clarify Griswold's status in his discussions with political leaders. Tsaldaris' hopes of forming a rightist government collapsed when Stylianos Gonatas of the National Liberals abruptly changed his mind about going along after a conference with Griswold. Griswold said his "mission would be handicapped by a narrow cabinet."

Both Griswold and MacVeagh denied today that any important disagreement had arisen between them.

Premier Who Lost Reins Saturday Says He Won't Take Post

Athens, Aug. 28 (AP).—Greece's political leaders announced the choice of Demetrios Maximos for Prime Minister tonight, but the country's six-day political crisis was not immediately resolved.

Maximos, 72-year-old financier and Prime Minister of the cabinet that resigned only Saturday, told friends three hours after the announcement that he had not been invited to the royal palace to accept, and furthermore that he would not take the post.

Constantin Tsaldaris, who had been designated to form a cabinet several days ago and failed, went into conference with Maximos in an effort to persuade him to accept. United States Ambassador Lincoln MacVeagh also planned to see Maximos.

There also remained a possibility that the solution agreed upon by political leaders might blow up in a precise division of cabinet posts.

Two of the leaders, George Papandreou and Sophocles Venizelos, indicated new obstacles had developed after earlier news from their conferences had indicated Greece would emerge from the crisis with virtually the same cabinet that resigned and precipitated the turmoil.

Miners' Strike Jeopardizes British Plans

President of Union Denounces Walkout As 'Sheer Anarchy'

London, Aug. 28 (U.P.).—The government's austerity program to save Britain from bankruptcy was jeopardized today by a swiftly growing strike of Yorkshire coal miners, with 10,000 to 15,000 men already idle in 12 pits.

Will Lawther, president of the National Union of Mine Workers, denounced the strikes as "disgraceful—sheer anarchy," and called on the governmental National Coal Board to prosecute every striker "even if there are 50,000 or 100,000 of them."

Meanwhile, used car prices tumbled 40 per cent in the first 24 hours after the prohibition on pleasure motoring was announced, but the press demanded greater curbs and industrial leaders urged higher taxes. Both scored the government for timidity in a time of crisis.

Miners Ignore Agreement

The Yorkshire strike was in sympathy with 140 Grimethorpe colliery workers who struck and were fired as slackers August 14. The miners had refused to accept a decision increasing their coal-face working area from 7 yards to 7 yards and 2 feet.

The decision was agreed upon both by the government's National Coal Board and the miners union. Despite this, the full 2700-man Grimethorpe crew walked out, followed by others. It was predicted the strike would soon cover all 50,000 Yorkshire miners.

The strike so far has knocked 82,000 tons of coal off Britain's production at a time when every ton is vitally needed to stoke export industries trying to build up British trade until it balances with imports.

The powerful Federation of British Industries, spokesman for 4200 industrial firms and 300 trade associations and the most important employer group in Britain urged an even more drastic program than announced by the government.

The FBI demanded higher taxa-

French Lose German Zone Output Fight

U. S. and Britain to Publish Industry Level Plan Tomorrow

By Ferdinand Kuhn, Jr.
Post Reporter

France has failed in its attempt to prevent the United States and Great Britain from raising the permitted level of industrial production in western Germany at this time.

A communique released simultaneously last night in Washington, London and Paris showed that the French had been overruled in the three-power conference on the subject of German industry which met in London a week ago and which adjourned yesterday.

Not Yet Eye to Eye

The communique announced that the United States and Great Britain "could not postpone" publication of their level-of-industry plan for their combined western zone in Germany, and would publish it in Berlin tomorrow. It also announced that the French delegation "could not withdraw its objections" for the present.

Between the lines, the communique indicates that the three western powers do not yet see eye to eye on Germany, although they have made big strides toward full agreement since the early weeks of the Foreign Ministers' conference in Moscow last March.

Last month the French objected strenuously when the American and British commanders in Germany were on the point of announcing a new level of industry plan. The plan would have lifted the permitted ceiling of German steel output, for example, to 10 million tons a year; the present permitted ceiling, fixed early last year, was 5,800,000 tons.

Given Many Assurances

Present steel output in western Germany has not nearly reached the existing ceiling and the French argued that the proposed increase in the permitted level would be a threat to the security of France and of the world. They felt it would make Germany too strong in military potential as against her neighbors.

The communique released last night shows that the Americans

Speed-Up Seen in Order

Marshall Planners Plagued By French Economic Squeeze

By Eugene Meyer
Chairman of the Board, The Washington Post

Paris, Aug., 27 (Delayed).—Time is overtaking the efforts of the Marshall planners here in Paris.

It appears that France, like England, is now facing a dollar crisis. Events are inevitably forcing the French Government to a radical reduction of imports without delay. Not only will the import of non-essential goods have to be entirely cut out, but reductions will be forced in what, even in war, was regarded as essential to a decent standard of living.

Such measures will cut into bread rations and greatly curtail supplies of fuel oil and gasoline. Bread has been the staff of life in France to an extraordinary degree. Per capita consumption before the war was 1000 grams. The 350 grams of last January was reduced to 300, then to its present 250 and will be 200 from now on. Transportation will be forcibly reduced to a minimum by cutting imports of liquid fuel. Only industrial and commercial services will get rations.

Coming on top of the British crisis, the developments indicate that if United States is really to keep Europe on its legs, immediate steps must be taken to cover the intervals before adoption of the broad gauged Marshall plan.

Perhaps such stopgap transactions may be handled by the International Bank or monetary fund, or perhaps by the Export-Import Bank. But time may not permit waiting for the regular session of Congress. The situation may require speeding up of our timetable.

Real Estate Probe Put In Hands Of Sonnett

Realty Boards' Indictment Seen As Start of Wide Housing Inquiry

By Charles E. Davis, Jr.
Post Reporter

Assistant Attorney General John F. Sonnett yesterday took command of what appears to be a far-flung Government investigation into the high price of housing.

Sonnett, who has headed the Justice Department's Anti-Trust Division since May 1, received authority to personally direct the probe from Attorney General Tom Clark.

Sonnett's appearance as an active participant in the investigation followed by a few hours an indictment charging the National Association of Real Estate Boards and the Washington Real Estate Board with fixing commission rates in violation of the anti-trust laws.

Called Reprisal

The indictment, returned Wednesday, brought an indignant charge from the National Association of Real Estate Boards yesterday that this was Government "reprisals" against the association for opposing Federal housing policies.

The indictment ended for the time being the testimony before the regular July grand jury into real estate and housing.

The jury resumed its hearing of regular matters yesterday. It was learned that the Justice Department had instructed that the jury's services would not be needed immediately.

However, the qualification of Assistant Attorney General Sonnett as an investigator was taken as a sure indication that the Government is preparing to launch a new query into other aspects of housing.

It has been reported repeatedly that the building supply industry will be the next to face the probe.

A letter from the Attorney General authorizing Sonnett to appear before the grand jury as a prober was filed late Wednesday with the clerk of the criminal division in District Court.

Conducted by Kramer

Under the law, Sonnett must have such authorization in order to question witnesses before the grand jury. Questioning of the realtors was conducted by Victor Kramer, a special assistant to the Attorney General.

Connett's letter of authorization was in almost the same words as was Kramer's.

It authorizes him to investigate alleged violations of the Sherman and Clayton Antitrust Act by

Realtors Score Indictment as Act of Reprisal

The National Association of Real Estate Boards, indicted here Wednesday by a grand jury for alleged violation of the anti-trust laws, charged yesterday it was the victim of Government reprisal.

Fitch

Morgan L. Fitch of Chicago, NAREB president, authorized a lengthy statement containing the charge. The statement declared real estate men of the Nation were "outraged" at the indictment returned against NAREB and the Washington Real Estate Board.

The statement declared it seemed "significant" that the indictment should be obtained after a period in which NAREB sought to "protect property owners and home owners by opposing certain types of Federal legislation designed to maintain indefinitely and permanently the controls of Government over the homes and property of the Nation."

It added:

"We have frankly told the Administration and Congress what we believe should be done concerning housing in the public interest. It seems an outrage that we cannot do this without danger of reprisals."

Dewey, Taft Split On Training Issue

League Formed

Eisenhower Draft Move Is Started

Organization of a "Draft Eisenhower for President League," described as "a nonprofit organization along nonpartisan lines," was announced here yesterday.

Maurice B. Mumford, executive vice president of the league, said leaders of the group had not consulted Eisenhower "because we don't want to put him on the spot."

A statement issued by Mumford, together with H. D. Spalding, chairman and treasurer of the group, and Robert H. Haar, president, said they will organize affiliated "Eisenhower for President Clubs" throughout the country.

The statement said the group included Democrats as well as Republicans, and was formed in the belief "that the precarious 'peace' existing in the world today and the storm clouds which loom on the horizon call for a quality of leadership and capacity for administration with which few men are endowed," adding:

"The founders are fully cognizant that 'General Ike' has, in the past, been opposed to any suggestion that he announce himself as a possible candidate for the Presidency of the United States. But it is felt that the time has arrived when personal considerations must be laid aside in the interests of our country's welfare."

Queried by The Washington Post, Mumford said he, Spalding and Haar started talking about forming a "Draft Eisenhower" league nearly a year ago. All three are in the export-import business. He described himself as a lifelong Republican, Spalding as active in Maryland Young Republican circles, but said Haar, a World War II Army flyer, is a Democrat. He said the organization group includes many from both parties.

New Yorker's Talk To Legion Is First Point of Cleavage

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York yesterday for the first time squared away on a national issue with Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

His New York American Legion convention call for universal military training was viewed here as aimed directly at Taft.

Dewey declared for training in terms as unequivocal as Taft has repeatedly denounced it.

Brings Issue Into Open

Thus the two leading unannounced rivals for the 1948 Republican Presidential nomination were committed to opposite positions on an issue that could split the Republican convention.

Dewey, recently back from a Western political "vacation," has been chastised by both Taft and Gov. Harold E. Stassen for failure to speak out on national questions.

The "smoking out" campaign was expected to continue through Taft's own projected tour of the West.

Taking his time, Dewey spoke up on universal training within two weeks of the start of Taft's trip.

Dewey's Statement

Said Dewey:

"It is our duty to provide a program involving participation by all able-bodied young American men under universal military training."

The 1944 GOP nominee followed this up with a call for "a permanent military establishment adequate to the defense of this country at all times and also sufficient to perform our obligations to the United Nations."

President Truman's repeated call for universal military training, telegraphed to the same convention, coupled with Dewey's commitment, might have taken the issue out of campaign politics were it not for Taft's known stand.

Taft's Stand Definite

In an authorized interview two months ago the Ohio Republican denounced universal training as un-American, wasteful and obsolete and declared he would "fight it to the bitter end," adding:

"It affects every family and every boy. It subjects American youth to the complete domination of the Government during their most formative period."

In fact, former Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts, chairman of the recently former Citizens Emergency Committee for Universal Training, charged Taft with blocking action last session on pending training legislation.

Denies Blocking Bill

In a statement, before Congress adjourned, Roberts called Taft "one of those sincere but, I think, misguided people whose aversion to war is so great they cannot tolerate effective military preparation."

Commenting to newsmen, Taft at that time reiterated his opposition to compulsory peacetime training but denied Roberts' charge that as chairman of the Senate majority policy committee he had obstructed the legislation.

GOP leaders on both sides of the Capitol agreed not to put training legislation on the agenda last session. The House Armed Services Committee, however, after extended hearings, favorably reported a bill. No hearings were held by the Senate Armed Services Committee but there was talk of consideration immediately after Congress returns.

Taft On Vacation

Taft yesterday was still vacationing at his summer home in Murray Bay, Canada, but associates here said his position on the training issue was unchanged. One stressed however that Taft has always been in favor of a "strong professional Army, adequate to our defense."

Among others prominently in the 1948 picture, only one besides Dewey has declared flatly for a universal military training program—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. As chief of staff, Eisenhower has repeatedly urged Congress to pass legislation. So far as could be learned, former Governor Stassen of Minnesota and Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan are not yet on record.

$2,500,000 In Dutch Gems Are Returned

Frankfurt, Aug. 28 (AP).—Seventeen thousand carats of cut diamonds valued at $2,500,000, taken by the Nazis from Dutch merchants during the occupation were returned to the Netherlands today by a United States troop convoy.

Heavily armed, the convoy took the gems to Beek, a frontier town near Nijmegen, to turn them over to the Dutch economics minister.

"We are restituting the precious stones in time for Queen Wilhelmina of Holland's birthday on Sunday," said Col. William G. Brey, chief of the United States Military Government's foreign exchange depository.

The diamonds were packed in 15 wooden cases. They were seized by the Nazis in 1942 when they ordered all Dutch diamond merchants to turn in their stocks. The Germans kept the stones at Arnhem, Holland, trying to force the owners to sell at "ridiculously low prices," Brey said. After the Allied airborne landing at Arnhem, the gems were transferred by the Germans to the Friedrichshall salt mine at Stassfurt, in Prussia, where they were recovered in 1945 by the United States Ninth Army.

Among the stones is a red diamond valued at $45,000.

U. S. Forces In Italy Get Replacements

By Barrett McGurn

Leghorn, Aug. 28.—The reversed American plans for the evacuation of Italy took on visible form today as troop replacements arrived for the first time in six months.

The soldiers arrived from New Orleans aboard the United States army transport Blanche F. Sigman. The ship carried 546 enlisted men. Most of them already have been earmarked for duty in Trieste and along the Morgan Line, which is manned by opposing Anglo-American and Yugoslav forces.

The troops gave many indications that their shipment to Italy was decided on a sudden basis. One of them revealed that his indoctrination had been so sketchy that he had never heard of Trieste.

Unlike the eighteen and nineteen-year-olds who dominated previous shipments to Italy, the troops brought in by the Blanche F. Sigman included many seasoned combat troops.

Courageous Girl Clerk Defies Thief, Saves Firm $600

Miss Shirley Salisbury, 20, clerk at Motor Credit Co., 523 8th st. ne., yesterday saved $600 of the company's money from a thief when she refused to yield up her purse.

When Miss Salisbury stepped out of the office back door about 1:30 p. m. to go to a bank, a man attempted to snatch her cash-filled purse.

When she screamed and hung on to the purse, the man fled south on 6th st. ne.

Miss Salisbury, 423 7th st. ne., discribed the man as stocky, between 18 and 23 years of age, about 5 feet 6 inches in height, and wearing a gray coat and trousers and a dirty gray felt hat.

Women Hold Key to Peace, Legion Auxiliary Is Told

New York, Aug. 28 (AP).—Mrs. Norton H. Pearl, president of the Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion, said today the Nation's women, by the "merest action, decision, influence, may turn the tide one way or another" to peace or war.

"Today the world stands confused at a crossroad, where one road leads to peace and freedom, the other to unimaginable horror of another war and universal dictatorship," she told delegates to the opening session of the auxiliary's convention.

Mrs. Pearl, who retires Saturday, declared it was "high time we faced the facts of postwar life." She urged the auxiliary's 920,000 members to stop "dreaming of a quick return to a prewar world that no longer exists," and urged that "we reawaken our interest in an ordered world and subordinate ourselves to the common good of all mankind."

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, greeting the delegates, emphasized "the importance of women's role" in the coming year when he said "we will be living in one of our most critical periods in which the peace may be once again endangered."

Delegates and alternates from all States and territories attended the assembly, which was devoted to routine business, introductions and some flag pageantry. Auxiliary members adjourned at noon to join the Legion session, at which Mrs. Pearl, a Detroit resident, was the only woman speaker.

There, she said auxiliary membership had increased from 800,000 to 920,000 and would top a million "in the near future."

She said the auxiliary had trained more than 5000 volunteer hospital workers who gave about 400,000 hours of service in 112 veterans' hospitals.

She said also that the auxiliary had organized Christmas gift shops in 111 veterans' hospitals, had expanded family contact service to include 12,500 families and spent almost three million dollars for rehabilitation work and for needy children of veterans.

Unintended Bargain

Wichita, Kan. (U.P.).—A rummage sale is no place to leave your hat, Lewis Worford can testify. A city license investigator, Worford made a routine check of a rummage sale on a hot day. He took his hat off and laid it on a table. A few minutes later he found that it had been sold for a trifle to an unidentified customer.

Legion Head Decries Cut In Size of Armed Forces

New York, Aug. 28 (AP).—National Commander Paul H. Griffith, in his annual report to the twenty-ninth annual convention of the American Legion, today scored "false governmental economy" which he said had cut American armed forces at home and abroad "to a level where our international commitments are definitely endangered."

"If there was ever an example of a penny-wise and pound-foolish economy, this trend toward deteriorating our Army, Navy and Air Forces to this extent is a glaring example," he declared.

Griffith said another example of false economy was any cut in Government expenditures which might result in hardships to disabled veterans.

Stating that as early as the seventy-ninth Congress such economics at the expense of veterans were indicated, Griffith said:

"I would admonish the Legion to see to it that our program of service to the disabled and their dependents is always kept as the primary objective of the American Legion and that our efforts are directed toward keeping America American."

Eyes Legislation

He said it might be "more important to forestall legislation adversely affecting veterans than to urge passage of new legislation placed before Congress by the Legion.

The retiring national commander said that in his 134,000-mile tour to every department of the Legion in the continental United States and outlying and foreign departments he found members "overwhelmingly in support" of a program to aid "countries who are seeking to prevent being engulfed by the spreading virus of communism."

"To my mind," he declared, "there is no useful purpose to be served in any Legionnaire, these days, quibbling or dodging the issue that the prime menace to world peace rests with the machinations of Moscow. There is every good reason for American public opinion to be continually alerted to that danger."

Few Laws Passed

Griffith said that although the Eightieth Congress enacted 32 bills of concern to veterans, "a very small percentage" of the Legion's legislative program has been enacted into law.

He said Congress had not "seen fit" to enact peacetime universal military legislation, despite the fact that "national polls showed 70 per cent of the American people favored such a program and the President and high command of the armed forces backed it."

Griffith said he hoped the convention would adopt a program for veterans' housing that would produce homes for veterans and would have "merit enough to be enacted into law where legislation is necessary."

5 Railway Unions Plan to Seek Wage Increases

Providence, R. I., Aug. 28 (INS).—President A. F. Whitney of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen said today the five big brotherhoods would meet September 8 in Cleveland and plan to ask for general wage increases. Whitney did not disclose any details.

The brotherhood president was in Providence to attend the convention of the New England association of the railroad brotherhood.

He reiterated his statement of last July 19 when asked if he would support President Truman. At that time he was quoted as saying: "There is no candidate for President mentioned by the Republicans that labor can support."

Brazil Loses In U. N. Vote On Egypt

Lake Success, Aug. 28 (AP).—A Security Council minority succeeded today in defeating a Brazilian plan for Egypt and Britain to settle their dispute between themselves.

The council was forced, however, to defer its final verdict for at least 24 hours on Egypt's case arising from dispositions of British troops on Egyptian lands bordering the Suez Canal and over the future of the Sudan administration.

The delegates acted without taking notice of a noisy taxi-borne demonstration put on in the United Nations parking lot under the leadership of two Egyptian spectators who twice previously had interrupted council sessions with shouted denunciations of Britain.

Not one untoward sound was heard in the decorous room and the shouting throng finally drifted back to New York City.

Among the demonstrators was a delegation whose members said they represented the seamen's branch of the CIO National Maritime Union. Their affiliation could not be verified here.

There were these tense developmnts in the council chambr:

1. The Brazilian plan for another try by Britain and Egypt toward settlement of their differences failed of adoption. It got a simple majority of six votes and thus was short of the required affirmative majority of seven.

2. Colombia then threw in a resolution along the same lines.

3. Premier Nokrashy Pasha of Egypt, strongly obpected to the Colombian resolution. He said no progress could be made on negotiations until British troops were out of Egypt.

Brazil accepted the Colombian proposal but Andrei A. Gromyko of Russia said this was a new issue and he would have to have time to study it. He suggested the Council meet at 3 p. m. tomorrow, which was agreed to by Faris El Khoury of Syria, Council president.

Most delegates frankly did not were strong indications the Colombian proposals also would fail.

If it is lost tomorrow, the Council will be right back where it started August 5—without any definite proposals to act on the Egyptian complaint.

The vote on the Brazilian resolution found the United States, Brazil, China, France, Australia and Belgium supporting it—one short of the required affirmative majority of seven. Poland voted against it; Colombia, Russia and Syria abstained. Britain could not vote as a party to the dispute.

Legation Bombed

Cairo, Egypt (Friday), Aug. 29 (AP).—A bomb explosion outside the Brazilian legation was reported early today, climaxing a day and night of demonstrations protesting the United Nations Security Council's handling of the Egyptian case.

Activities In U. N. Day Summarized

Lake Success, Aug. 28.—Following is a summary of today's activities of the United Nations:

1. Budget—A nine-nation advisory committee demanded a slash of $4,108,098 in the secretary-general's proposed 1948 budget of $39,403,792. The committee charged the U. N. with inefficiency, and demanded that all staff personnel be rescreened.

2. Egyptian case before Security Council.

3. Territories—In the first meeting of a special committee to consider data on the world's nonself-governing territories, Britain and France opposed Philippine and Russian proposals that the committee discuss information that has been submitted to it on the political status of some of the 160 million subject peoples.

(4) Social Affairs—Dr. Frantisek Kraus, chairman of the 18-nation social commission, told the commission that real action must be started in the social field. General debate opens tomorrow.

(5) Statistical—Tentative agreement on a proposed world agricultural census in 1950 was reached by the statistical commission.

(6) Food—Norris E. Dodd, of the United States, told the food and agricultural organization, meeting in Geneva, that the decline of American maize and oats crops this year is alone expected to equal total American exports of all grains in 1946. "If the world is to be fed even like last year," he said, "the United States would need to export between 18 and 20 million tons of grain, yet it will be fortunate to be able to repeat the record 14,500,000 tons exported last year."

(7) Palestine—The report of U. N. special committee on Palestine, in Geneva, is due to arrive here within the next few days.

Community Property Statutes Approved

The Bureau of Internal Revenue said yesterday it had approved community property laws recently passed by Pennsylvania and Nebraska, enabling married couples in those States to save money on Federal income tax.

Thirteen States and Hawaii now have received approval for such statutes, which mean tax savings for couples who divide their income to gain the benefit of lower tax percentages.

The border village is near Hoshiarpur, 90 miles east of Lahore, capital of Pakistan. Reports of ter ror along the border continued yesterday. Thousands Fill Roads of India In Flight From Death Threat

(Writer of the following dispatch, is an Associated Press staff photographer from Washington now traveling through Punjab in northwest India.)

By Max Desfor

Lahore, Pakistan, Aug. 28 (AP).—Thousands of Sikh and Hindu refugees are streaming from Pakistan to India and more thousands of Moslems from India to Pakistan to escape death in communal riots in the Punjab, divided on the recent independence day.

Occasionally they meet and clash, but I saw them as dispirited people weary of fighting and homesick.

Said one leader of a group of Hindus and Sikhs:

"We were happy in our homes before partition. Look as us now, in danger of our lives, impoverished, miserably running in the hope of survival."

English-speaking Moslems uttered somewhat similar sentiments.

Deaths in Thousands

I photographed a point 23 miles south of Lahore, where the Hindu-Sikh and Moslem lines intersected.

These lines extended in both directions as far as the onlooker could see. The refugees were in every imaginable vehicle and on foot. Men carried women and the infirm, the latter with beds, on their shoulders.

The line of March was littered with personal effects abandoned in flight from roving, bloodthirsty bands. By military estimate, the death toll of these bands on both sides of the border in the last 18 days has been in the thousands.

A group of Sikhs and Hindus would pass while the Moslems waited. Then a Moslem party would pass while the Sikh-Hindu line halted.

Livestock Dying

The leader of one Sikh group said his refugees had been attacked four times en route and that 200 to 300 had been killed.

A British officer confirmed the report of one of these attacks and an Indian officer the report of another.

Livestock lay dying of exhaustion and malnutrition along the way because the refugees could not pause long enough to let them feed.

The Indians wore their finest clothing in an effort to save it. Their garments were rainsoaked and mud-splashed.

In Delhi a British traveler reported that Moslems invaded his train compartment near Lahore and told him, "Sahib, you're safe if you don't interfere." He said they then decapitated a Hindu traveler in the compartment and left.

Dutch Army Reports 19 Java Clashes

Batavia, Java., Aug. 28 (AP).—The Dutch army said today that 19 clashes with Republican forces occurred yesterday despite the cease-fire order, and the Republican army reported from Jogjakarta that it had fought the Dutch at five new points in Java during the past week.

The Dutch said their casualties were two killed and eight wounded yesterday, bringing their losses since the cease-fire order of August 5 to 87 dead, 242 wounded and two missing.

The Jogjakarta communique said Republican casualties were five dead and "many wounded."

Java to Recall Minister

Batavia, Java, Aug. 28 (U.P.).—The Republican government has decided to recall Foreign Minister Hadji Agus Salim from New York for a full report on United Nations Security Council action in the Indonesian dispute, radio Jogjakarta reported today.

The broadcast denied that any decision yet had been made on nominations for the three-nation commission which will arbitrate the dispute, but said political circles in Jogjakarta were mentioning Australia, Syria and Poland.

Group Abandons Plan for College

Pittsfield, Mass., Aug. 28 (AP).—Abandonment of a plan to found a liberal arts college on the Hanna estate here dedicated to the "100 greak books" program to be financed by the Old Dominion Foundation was announced today.

The announcement came in a statement by Stringfellow Barr and Scott Buchanan, who said that inability to obtain funds for new buildings was the principal reason for the decision.

They added that since no institution has been found which is capable of housing the project, the $4,500,000 which was to have been disbursed by the Old Dominion Foundation will revert to the general funds of the foundation.

District Has Snowfall, But It's Synthetic

By The Associated Press

Snow fell in Washington yesterday—but only for a select group of Army and Navy officers.

To demonstrate the chain reaction method that has coaxed small quantities of snow and rain from clouds, Dr. Irving Langmuir and Vincent Shaefer, General Electric scientists scrapped a few flakes off a cake of dry ice and let them fall into a deep freeze locker. Soon thousands of tiny glittering crystals formed within the locker, and turned into snow.

Capt. Howard Orville, Navy meteorologist, hoped the process might be used to temper the fury of typhoons and hurricans, and said the Navy is planning to test this possibility.

Dr. Langmuir pointed out some of the dangers of tinkering with the weather, such as an unwanted blanket of snow on a city, or altering the climate of a whole region by constant interception of rain clouds.

Dewey Sides With Truman on Training

ment" but declared two obstacles remain to "full readjustment."

"These are high prices and insufficient housing."

The President said "The country will await an expression of your considered judgment on this problem of insufficient housing."

In advocating a universal training program, Mr. Truman said, "Against the possibility of total war, we must have the certainty of total defense, using every resource of our being in the effort.

Only universal "military training can assure that sufficient forces will be available in the critical initial phase of another emergency. The weight and speed of war have multiplied. Its weapons have become horrible in their destructive power.

"But the effectiveness of defense and offense is still dependent on the skill and courage of men."

The Legionnaires met for the initial session of their four-day convention.

James V. Forrestal, named by Mr. Truman as the Nation's first Secretary of National Defense, joined the President and Dewey in urging universal military training, which he said was necessary to complement the unification program.

Forrestal said the unification plan should give the United States "the most effective force for the maintenance of peace in our own—and I dare say—in the world's history," but he added its purpose was "not to start the country on the dangerous fatal road of conquest."

One of our first objectives, he said, is the securing of peace treaties with "our late enemies" so they may go back to work.

Europe and the world were stabilized in the nineteenth century by the strength of the British fleet and the economic and political leadership of Britain, he said, commenting that "in this century much of that leadership now devolves upon us, and we are finding it a lonely road."

Fred Vinson, Chief Justice of the United States and United States Senator Edward Martin (R., Pa.) were presented the Legion's distinguished service medals at the opening convention session.

Communism All Right—in Russia

Martin, a retired major general who served in three wars, told the convention that "The Legion hates war, but it will not be bluffed by threats from any bully nation, no matter what color its flag or its shirts."

Louis A. Johnson of Clarksburg, W. Va., a past Legion national commander, who responded to welcoming speeches by Dewey and Mayor William O'Dwyer, expressed a belief there was "entirely too much talk" of a new war.

"We are now told that the world will not be free for democracy until we have fought and defeated Soviet Russia," he said.

"The American Legion's position on the issue of communism has not changed since it was first established nearly 30 years ago. It is simply this: We are opposed with all our might and strength to communism in America but we harbor no desire to rescue the Russians from communism if they choose to live under it."

Kenneth C. Royall, newly designated Secretary of the Army, told the Legionnaires the armed forces were selecting high-type men for the postwar military establishment.

"The men of the new Army and Navy and Air Force come from good homes," he said. "We are selecting not much more than 50 per cent of the men who offer themselves for enlistment.

Field Marshal Viscount Harold Alexander, Governor General of Canada and World War II British military chieftain, called for unilateral settlement of international postwar problems where broader agreement cannot be achieved. He said:

"If others disagree with us and if we cannot persuade them to our way of thought, then the next best thing we can do is to settle our affairs with those whose views coincide with our own."

Dewey, in his speech, asserted that "the hard fact is that peace seems further away than ever" and remarked "we are witnessing on the world scene conditions which are hauntingly like those which followed the First World War.

He said "everyone knows there is now a movement which is advancing an ambitious, well-organized program to undermine and then overthrow the free societies of the world."

2 Plead Guilty Of Stealing 300 Pounds of Meat

Two men, charged with stealing more than 300 pounds of meat from the Pennsylvania Railroad's Benning yard terminal, pleaded guilty yesterday in District Court.

They were Joseph V. Shipman, 34, of 3910 Burns pl. se., and Arthur C. Cornwell, 44, of 1256 6th st. sw.

The case was referred to the probation officer by Justice Richmond B. Keech, who allowed the men to remain out on bond pending sentence.

The two were arrested Tuesday by Prince Georges County police, after meat, alleged to be stolen from a boxcar, was found in their car.

The men said they found the meat among weeds.

Maritime Board Reports Firms Set To Turn Back Ship

The Maritime Commission announced last night that 77 firms chartering ships from it for the foreign trade have advised they will turn back 143 vessels rather than keep them under the new charter terms.

These same firms, however, will retain about 1300 other ships under the new terms, the commission said.

One other firm is yet to be heard from.

The new terms maintain the basic charter rate of 15 per cent but require separate accountings for additional charter hire for all voyages ended by Sept. 1 and those started that date. They also require charterers to accept a ship for a minimum of 75 days.

Col. Syran Accepts Call From MacArthur

Col. Arthur G. Syran, special assistant to the United States Maritime Commission, yesterday accepted a call from General of the Army Douglas MacArthur to head a group of American shipping executives who will direct enough rehabilitation of Japan's merchant shipping to restore the nation's home economy.

Colonel Syran, who served during the war as chief of the ocean traffic branch of the Army Transportation Corps, will leave for Tokyo within the next three weeks to take control of what little is left of the Japanese merchant marine. Before leaving, he will participate in choosing five or six other American shipping experts who will assist him in his task.

Colombia Will Fight to Revise Defense Pact

Quitandinha, Brazil, Aug. 28 (AP).—The Colombian delegation to the Inter-American Conference, still dissatisfied with certain features of the mutual defense treaty now virtually complete, prepared tonight to fight for revision through committees and, if necessary, at the final plenary sessions.

Meanwhile, the drafting committee approved a vast "zone of maritime security," extending from Pole to Pole, and spreading from only a few miles off Russian Siberia to east of Greenland.

Under the treaty, any attack against this zone would invoke immediately joint armed resistance of all the signatory American republics.

Colombia Outlines Stand

The Colombian delegation said the group was dissatisfied because it feared the right of individual legitimate defense and the right to assist a nation attacked from within the hemisphere might be subverted by the provision for consultations to settle the dispute through peaceful means.

Colombian delegates said they wanted the right of individual and collective defense and assistance to have overriding priority in any enforcement action to maintain peace in the hemisphere. They declined to confirm or deny rumors they might not sign the treaty, pointing out they were awaiting instructions from President Ospina Perez.

The Colombian opposition to the present treaty provisions for dealing with aggression within the hemisphere has brought out the story of the committee battles which preceded it. Peruvian Delegate Victor Andres Belaunde proposed that a consultative conference of foreign ministers attempt to settle conflicts between two or more American states by pacific means.

U. S. Opposes Proposal

This proposal, informants said, was strongly opposed by Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.), U. S. delegate, who said there should be no possibility for vacillation in such a situation. Vandenberg championed the viewpoint that other American nations should use force immediately to assist an invaded country, these sources said.

Finally, after four days, Article E, specifying that the right of individual legitimate defense and the right of other American states to lend assistance to the country attacked, was adopted.

Arguing for revision of this article before the committee last night, Antonio Rocha, Colombian delegate, said that within the word "conflict" two totally different situations existed: one of dispute and controversy, and the other of armed attack.

The working committees formally concluded the treaty draft this afternoon.

Luxembourg Granted Loan Of 12 Million

The World Bank yesterday extended its fourth loan—a credit of 12 million dollars to the government of Luxembourg, to finance purchase of steel and railway rolling stock.

Luxembourgh had originally applied for a credit of 20 million dollars to help reconstruct devastated areas and restore industry and agriculture. The bank previously granted loans to France, the Netherlands, and Denmark.

The bank noted that Luxembourg's railroads are of "vital importance" to western Europe and that iron and steel production is the major industry in the country. The credit "should contribute to Europe's recovery," the announcement said.

About $7,500,000 will go for a modern reversing steel strip mill which will help the country to produce finished steel plates by more modern methods.

The bank said Luxembourg will spend $4,500,000 to buy locomotives, box and gondola freight cars, baggage cars and miscellaneous railroad equipment.

The equivalent of $2,000,000 of this credit will be in Belgian francs the bank noted. This marks the first time the bank has dipped into its treasury for any capital other than dollars.

War Bride Freed In Slaying of Mate

Crestview, Fla., Aug. 28 (AP).—Mrs. Margaret Irene Poland, 21, British war bride, was freed today of charges in the fatal shooting of her American soldier husband and immediately began planning court action if necessary to regain custody of her 16-month-old son.

A grand jury declined to indict her for the death of her husband, Staff Sergt. Graydon Poland, on July 24.

Roberts Calls for Federation To Replace Ineffective U. N.

New York, Aug. 28 (INS).—Owen J. Roberts, former associate justice of the United States Supreme Court, declared tonight that the United Nations cannot keep world peace, and that only a federation of peace-loving states offers hope of global security.

Roberts

The famed jurist made his assertion in the sue of Cosmopolitan magazine.

Roberts said the question of national sovereignty is the biggest stumbling block in the organic structure of the Nnited Nations.

He said the U. N. Charter recognizes this sovereignty and although each member of the U. N. has pledged itself to abide by the pact, the right to break any treaty is inherent in national sovereignty.

The jurist also declared that the General Assembly is merely a debating society, that it cannot make laws to govern all nations because the big powers would never allow themselves to be ruled by the more numerous smaller nations.

In the Security Council, the veto rights of the big five powers automatically prevent the U. N. from taking action against any aggressor whom a permanent member might not want molested or disturbed, he said.

Roberts said the U. N. Charter recognizes that the United States, Russia and Great Britain possess such strength no little nation or group of nations can stand against them, he wrote:

"Thus the United Nations, supposedly an organization of more than 50 nations, is actually an alliance of the world's three great independent sovereign nations.

"There will be no war only as long as these three powers agree on a course of conduct for themselves and for the rest of the countries of the world.

"Their agreement means that a nation opposing them will be soundly punished. That takes care of the possibility of trouble from the little nations. But what happens if one of the Big Three is an offender?

"In that case, the United Nations will cease to function."

No 'Crackdown' On Liquor Law, Says Montgomery

Reports that Montgomery County officials were "cracking down" on residents who purchase more than two bottles of liquor a month in Washington brought a denial yesterday from two Montgomery authorities.

State Attorney Walter W. Dawson and Police Chief Charles M. Orme, denying the "crackdown," said they were concerned only with "routine law enforcement."

According to State law, Montgomery residents may bring into the county only two quarts of liquor a month, one at a time. The law has been in effect since 1933.

Trailer Camp Decision Off Until Tuesday

The future of a disputed trailer camp at Camp Springs, Md., will remain clouded, at least, until next Tuesday's meeting of Prince Georges County Board of Commissioners.

Continuance of the camp, operated by Mr. and Mrs. Harvey W. Ihrig in the 7300 block of Brinkley rd near Andrews Field, has been protested to the board in a petition from nearby residents. The petitioners claim the camp impairs land valuations and constitutes a health menace.

The camp is occupied by 27 veterans, employed at Andrews Field, and their families.

Prince Georges County Sanitary Engineer Charles L. Wood at a commission meeting last Tuesday said the camp had only a temporary permit to house seven trailers. This temporary permit, he said, was granted four years ago.

Any action by the commissioners to grant a permanent permit will have to be taken at an advertised public hearing at which both sides are given opportunity to present their views. A hearing may be advertised only after recepit of a formal request for the new permit.

The Ihrigs said that, although they had held the temporary permit for four years, they had not expanded the camp until this year, and then on request of the present occupants to relieve the housing shortage.

They do not own the trailers, they said, but rent ground space and utilities. The monthly rent is $17 with an additional $1 if elecericity is used for cooking.

The camp does ot have inside toilet facilities, which are required before a permanent permit can be issued. Showers and laundry rooms are in a concrete building.

Commissioner Wood said the camp previously has passed annual sanitary inspections satisfactorily.

The camp owners and a group of their tenants appeared before the commissioners at last Tuesday's meeting to ask for continuance until next Tuesday.

Boys' Head Start Proves Futile in Race With Law

Baltimore, Aug. 28 (INS).—Two boys who were given a 15-minute start on police to make their getaway from the Baltimore courthouse last Thursday were arrested today by authorities in York, Pa.

Baltimore police said the youths are George E. Miller and his cousin, William H. Miller, both of Carroll County, Md.

The boys were charged with the looting of an airplane hanger at Hanover, Pa., from which a plane allegedly was stolen piece by piece.

The head start they received was granted by Judge M. J. Manley in a court order to police not to arrest the boys for 15 minutes after he released them on a habeus corpus writ.

The youths surrended to York authorities after stretching their 15-minute lead to a week.

French Lose Fight to Block Greater German Production

and British gave many assurances designed to remove French fears.

For example, the Americans and British agreed at London "that the measures about to be taken should not result in priority being given to the rehabilitation of Germany over that of the democratic countries of Europe."

"They consider it necessary," said the communique, "that German resources should contribute to the general rehabilitation of Europe."

They also recognized that "disarmament, demilitarization and democratization of Germany remain indispensable to security, and that the plans envisaged for the Anglo-American zones do not prejudice such guarantees in this respect as may be established in the future."

In particular, the communique said, new Anglo-American plans for the management and control of Ruhr coal mines will not stand in the way of measures to keep the Ruhr "from again becoming an instrument of aggression," or to assure other countries of access to Ruhr coal.

Plans Worked Out Here

These new Anglo-American plans have not yet been published; they have been worked out at a two-power conference here in Washington in the past two weeks and probably will be completed next week.

Finally the French tried to get assurances that more Ruhr coal and coke would go to France and other countries which are struggling to revive their own heavy industry. The Americans and British agreed to discuss these French proposals "forthwith" in Berlin, "on the understanding that the coal available for consumption in the Anglo-American zones of Germany . . . would not be diminished."

This promise of immediate discussion on coal distribution was about the only concrete achievement of the French at the London conference, apart from the fact that they had a chance to state their position on this and other major issues of German industry.

Comfort Undetermined

It remains to be seen whether the promises in the communique will be of any aid and comfort to the French government in its unending struggle with the Communists. The French Communists have been attacking the proposed Anglo-American plans for German industry as a device to make Germany industrially and militarily strong at the expense of her neighbors.

Incidentally, the outcome of the London conference suggests that the influence of General Lucius D. Clay, the American commander in Germany, is still powerful in forming American Government policy. Clay has fought the French so strongly and so stubbornly on German issues in the past year that in many French minds he has become to a "Public Enemy No. 1."

The Washington conference on Ruhr coal, summoned over Clay's objections and without Clay's presence, was taken in some quarters here and abroad as a sign that the general had been disavowed in the highest quarters in Washington.

Judging from the communique of the London meeting, his influence is still strong and almost unimpaired. He was present in London as an adviser to Ambassador Lewis Douglas, the American delegate, and his advice appears to have been followed. He has always argued that the Americans and British should go ahead with their plans whether the French like them or not.

Pin Hopes on Berlin Talks

Paris, Aug. 28 (AP).—French officials looked today to forthcoming talks with Great Britain and the United States in Berlin to convince their allies that France's steel industry should have a specified edge over Germany's.

"I don't see how we can reconstruct Europe if we do not reach an agreement in the near future," said Herve Alphand, chief of the French Foreign Ministry's economic section and one of the principal negotiators at the London Conference on an industrial ceiling for Germany, which ended last night.

James A. Thomas Commits Suicide In Takoma Park

James Arlie Thomas, 53, a clerk at Walter Reed General Hospital, shot and killed himself yesterday afternoon at his home, 19 Boyd ave., Takoma Park, Md.

Montgomery County Medical Examiner F. J. Broschart issued a certificate of death by suicide.

A brother, Charles, and a maid, Saran Williams, told police Thomas came home shortly after 3 p. m. and went to a bedroom. A few minutes later, they said, they heard a shot and found him lying on the floor, shot through the neck.

The family said Thomas, a bachelor, had been despondent for several months.

He belonged to the Knights of Columbus, Our Lady of Sorrows Catholic Church, and the Takoma Park (Md.) Volunteer Fire Department. Besides his brother, he leaves three sisters.

tion to curb inflation, urging the government to employ indirect taxation rather than direct, and called for immediate collaboration with western Europe even if it meant exporting coal.

The press declared the new restrictions were inadequate to meet the emergency.

"The time has come for protests," said the Times, until recently a consistent supporter of the government. "The combined effect of the government's uncertainty and the hard fact of the gap between ingoings and outgoings in the national account is inevitably to invite depression . . . Yesterday's announcements have all the air of another postponement of critical decisions."

The Manchester Guardian, another former supporter of the Labor government, chimed in with the almost unanimous press condemnation of timidity.

"The government's statement last night described only a few faltering steps towards the lowering of our standard of living that must follow exhaustion of the American loan," the Guardian said. "The government must have the courage to do much more and do it at once."

Argentine Promises Aid

London, Aug. 28 (AP).—A Board of Trade spokesman said today Argentina has promised to continue sending meat and other prime necessities to Britain even if payment is made in non-convertible sterling.

The spokesman reported this assurance was made "for the time being" and pending the expected talks between the two countries in the near future.

Realtors Call U. S. Indictment Reprisal for Opposing Curbs

tained against them and the Washington Real Estate Board by the Department of Justice alleging a conspiracy to increase housing costs by maintaining recommended schedules of commissions in local real estate boards.

"Real estate boards are old and well-known institutions in nearly every American community. They have consistently sought to improve real estate practices in the public interest.

"Before real estate boards were organized, real estate men too frequently sold homes and other property on the basis of what is called 'net listings.' This meant that a broker would agree to sell a home or any property for a price set by the owner.

"The broker would then keep for himself anything he could get from a buyer above this price. This meant that real estate brokers were in effect speculating in the owner's property at the owner's expense. This led to exorbitant charges and many abuses.

Contract "Reform" Told

"There have been instances where the broker received as much compensation as the owner. Real estate boards introduced into business practice the so-called exclusive listing contract. This contract provides that the broker try to sell the property at the price the owner wants but states definitely the compensation the broker is to receive in terms of a small percentage of the purchase price.

"This reform has done more to protect the public in real estate transactions than any other one thing. Courts have in hundreds of cases recognized this method of doing business as a common-law practice and have generally recognized the customary or established commissions and charges in each community as being fair and reasonable for the service performed.

"The publication of suggested or fair commission charges by a real estate board in any community is therefore in the public interest and tends to reduce the costs of housing.

"It therefore protects everyone engaged in a real estate transaction against exorbitant or unfair charges. It enables any home seller or home buyer to know in advance what the services of a real estate broker will cost.

Practice Common in Professions

"Many businesses and professions issue locally or otherwise recommended schedules of fair charges for business or professional services. This has been true for generations. Lawyers, doctors and architects have recognized and established fair standards of charges for specific services.

"Commission merchants, stock brokers, insurance agents and scores of other businessmen follow this custom because it is necessary to bring some degree of order into the business world. Such norms do not increase costs. They facilitate the doing of business and therefore decrease costs.

"In recent years, several departments of the Federal Government have asked the realtors of the country to agree upon standardized fees for the handling of Federal property or property which the Federal Government is interested in acquiring.

"This was the case in connection with the Home Owners Loan Corporation, which sought to sell several hundred thousand repossessed homes.

"It was the case also with the Federal Public Housing Administration, which sought to establish a Nationwide schedule of brokers' fees and management fees in connection with the sale of its properties.

"Incidentally, the Department of Justice ought to get the facts about NAREB and its membership right. In its charges the department states that NAREB has approximately 800 boards and 28,000 members. The fact is we have 918 boards in the different communities and 38,419 members.

Dispute High Housing Costs

"The indictment against the National Association of Real Estate Boards states that there has been a conspiracy to increase costs of housing by increasing fees, presumably throughout the Nation.

"On the same day that the indictment was returned the Department of Commerce issued a statement indicating that costs of housing are today less than they were in 1939.

"The department states that in 1939 it required 223 weeks' work at the average industrial worker's wage to purchase a $5000 home, whereas now it requires only 191 weeks' work at current industrial wages to purchase the same home which now costs $9100.

"The value of the dollar has dropped 50 per cent due to inflationary policies of the Government and as a consequence costs have doubled. Nevertheless, the cost of housing, according to the Department of Commerce, has not increased so fast as wages have gone up.

"It seems significant to many realtors that this indictment sought by the Department of Justice should have come at his particular moment. The National Association of Real Estate Boards and realtors have for a long time been seeking to protect property owners and home owners by opposing certain types of Federal legislation designed to maintain indefinitely and permanently the controls of Government over the homes and property of the Nation.

"In view of the charges brought against this association, it is apparent that Nation-wide demands by veterans' groups, public bodies and Government agencies for collaboration among the various elements in the housing industry in order to produce better communities and lower costs would subject any participants to criminal charges by the Department of Justice.

"Congress and the Administration are constantly urging business groups to produce more housing at lower cost. Apparently, however, housing for veterans and for our citizens is less important right now than attacking the business interests of the country.

"We have frankly told the Administration and Congress what we believe should be done concerning housing in the public interest. It seems an outrage that we cannot do this without danger of reprisals.

"The national association has spoken out in what it believes to be the public interest in the matter of housing, at times in opposition to the Administration.

"Apparently the time has come when a citizen of this country cannot speak out without being served notice that he does so at the peril of criminal prosecution. This is a sad commentary upon the present status of law enforcement in this country.

"We will fight this indictment and we will continue to speak out for and to act for the best interests of the American public in trying to protect competitive enterprise, to create more livable communities, and to decrease the cost of housing."

Food Supplies Bought For Relief Feeding

By the United Press

The Agriculture Department yesterday announced a $562,000 purchase of food supplies for relief feeding in Austria. The supplies include 2,656,000 pounds of lard and 368,000 pounds of rendered pork fat.

The Department said the average price paid on sealed bids was $18.61 per hundred pounds, or substantially above the market prices on the day the bids were opened.

firms, corporations and associations engaged in production, manufacture, distribution or use of materials used in construction or housing industries, or in rendering professional services involving housing.

Meanwhile, the reconvened April grand jury which has been hearing testimony concerning alleged price fixing on gasoline sales in the District and the nearby Maryland counties of Prince Georges and Montgomery recessed until Monday, September 8.

The gasoline price probe jury which was called into session Monday has heard 26 witnesses this week and W. B. Watson Snyder, special assistant to the Attorney General who is assigned to the investigation, declared yesterday that its work is far from complete.

He said he could not estimate how many more witnesses would be called but commented: "We've passed the hard third."

Information passed along to reporters as they emerged from testifying indicated that considerable interest is being shown in the subject of filling station leases behind the closed doors of the jury room.

The witnesses, most of them spokesmen for major oil and gasoline distributors, have been questioned about the length of leases granted by their companies as well as their terms.

H. L. Beckwith, district manager of Sun Oil Co., said he told the jury that his company leases about 35 stations in the District and two Maryland counties. He said the leases are for one year and permit the lessee to sell the products of any company and at prices he sets himself.

Beckwith said his company owns and operates only one station in the District.

Other witnesses heard yesterday included E. L. Clark, manager of the Independent Oil Co.; R. A. Herrick, executive director of Retail Gasoline Dealers, Inc., a trade organization; A. D. Webster, local manager of Tidewater Associated Oil Co.; D. D. Buck, zone manager of Texas Oil Co.; Sam Parks, district manager of Gulf Oil Co.; W. C. Connelly, division manager of American Oil Co., and Russell Myers, district manager of Shell Oil Co.

Baltimore AVC Asks U. S. to Probe Housing

Baltimore, Aug. 28 (AP).—The Baltimore chapter of the American Veterans Committee today asked a Federal investigation of what it called "outrages" in the financing and building of homes for former GIs.

One Baltimore builder this week agreed to refund $50,000 to 94 veterans for whom his firm had built houses in a development financed with GI loans after the buyers complained they did not come up to specification.

William Boucher III, chairman of the AVC's local chapter, said in a letter to the Department of Justice and the Veterans' Administration that other builders were guilty of similar or worse abuses.

"Government-approved plans and specifications are not worth the paper they are written on," he declared.

"It is time the abuses are stopped. They could not have continued this long with the builders, the lending agencies and the Veterans' Administration knowing of and condoning the situation or being entirely incompetent to administer the program.

A STATEMENT ABOUT BEEF GRADES

Under a policy of long standing, Safeway has handled nothing less than the top grades of beef. This beef is carefully aged the correct number of days required to develop its full natural tenderness and flavor. Trimmed waste-free by our exclusive cutting methods. The meat is unconditionally guaranteed to give top eating enjoyment.

It is upon meats of this kind that we have built our reputation. Normally, we can and do sell them at prices no higher than others ask for ordinary meats. But today's market is not normal. The spread in price between top grades of beef and medium grade beef is unusually wide.

While this condition exists, Safeway will carry some medium grade beef in addition to our regular top grades. The two kinds will be displayed and priced separately. Each customer may then decide whether to buy meat of our usual high quality, priced as low as possible; or meats of the medium grade, priced lower. The regular Safeway money-back guarantee will apply to all purchases, regardless of which grade is selected.

Full Dictatorship Set Up By Mancheno in Ecuador

Quito, Ecuador, Aug. 28 (U.P.)—Col. Carlos Mancheno assumed full dictatorial powers today, repealing the 1944 constitution and restoring that of 1906 which provides for a legalized dictatorship.

Mancheno

Mancheno abandoned the title "Chief of State" which he took after seizing power from President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra last Saturday "President of the Republic."

He abolished censorhship, in force since Saturday, and completed the organization of a cabinet, consisting mostly of liberals, by appointing Leopoldo Chavez as Minister of Economics.

Previously, three liberals and two Socialists had accepted portfolios in the new government.

Having failed to obtain full recognition by the other 19 American republics represented at the Petropolis Inter-American Defense conference, Mancheno dropped all attempts at giving his regime any appearance of legality and took over full dictatorial powers.

He reserved to himself the authority to issue whatever laws and decrees may be necessary to "reach the goals of national renovation and democratic affirmation sought by the preesnt regime."

Mancheno said he would relinquish the office of Minister of Defense which he held under Velasco and retained after his bloodless week-end coup d'etat. A high ranking army officer will be assigned to the post he said.

An immediate result of Mancheno's action was to end the attempts of conservative leader Mariano Suarez Ventimilla to gain recognition as Velasco's legal successor, in his capacity as vice president of the republic and president of Congress.

The Liberal party—strongest in the country for 50 years, up to 1944—appeared to be solidly behind Mancheno.

French Girl, 8, Cured of Malady At Johns Hopkins

Eight-year-old Michelle Rannou will soon be flying back to her native France as a healthy little girl, thanks to the skill of a Johns Hopkins surgeon.

Born a "blue baby," she was believed to have a hopeless affliction, until last year when her father, Francis Rannou, 33, chief electrical foreman of the French National Railroads, heard of the wonderful surgical work done by Dr. Alfred Blalock at Johns Hopkins.

Discharged from the hospital this week, after a three-week stay, she and her dad paid a brief visit to Washington yesterday. She found the city "big and beautiful" and the pastry "very good." They will return to Paris next week after a final checkup at Johns Hopkins.

Technical Group Meets at Howard

The National Technical Association, an organization of engineers, architects and technicians, will open its 19th annual convention at 9 a. m. today in Cook Hall, Howard University.

The business session will open with an address by Dudley Woodward, chairman of the Washington chapter. In the afternoon Dr. James A. Parsons, jr., a metallurgist, is scheduled to speak.

Several technical papers will be presented to the convention. Objectives of the NTA, a spokesman said, are "the collection and dissemination of information concerning the opportunities of colored persons in the technical and engineering fields . . ."

The Washington Chapter of NTA is host to the convention.

Hartley Asks NLRB to Demand Affidavits

By the United Press

Representative Fred A. Hartley (R., N. J.) demanded last night that the National Labor Relations Board compel all unions to file both non-Communist affidavits and financial statements or face dismissal of complaints in 195 unfair labor practice cases pending when the Taft-Hartley law was enacted.

Hartley, coauthor of the new labor law, said he made the demand in a letter which the board will receive today. He was moved to act, he said, by an NLRB decision against the Radio Corp. of America and in favor of the United Electrical Workers (CIO).

In a later radio broadcast, Hartley said that by refusing to sign required affidavits, some unions are "engaging in a reckless and cynical betrayal of the interests of their members."

Unless they sign up, he said, their members will be denied the privileges of the union shop and "employers will be free to commit unfair labor practices against members of noncomplying unions with impunity."

The board has ruled that unions must file the affidavits before final settlement of collective bargaining elections can be made. But it has not yet decided whether unions involved in the pending unfair labor practice complaints must meet the filing provisions of the law.

NLRB General Counsel Robert N. Denham has ruled that unions must file the affidavits within 20 days or face dismissal of some 3000 cases which are at the NLRB regional level and on which hearings have not yet been held.

Hartley wants the board to apply this same rule to cases which had reached the national board.

Hartley, who is cochairman of the joint congressional committee created to supervise administration of the Taft-Hartley Law, acted after a conference with John F. X. Landrigan, attorney for the Radio Communication Assemblers Union, Inc. (Ind.).

Landrigan's union defeated the CIO group in a collective bargaining election among RCA employes. But the CIO brought unfair labor practices charges against RCA and the NLRB set aside the election.

The latest dispute over the controversial non-Communist affidavits came in the midst of hints from the AFL that its top national officials may join CIO leaders in refusing to sign the affidavits. The weekly AFL News said that "a fundamental principle is involved in the filing of such affidavits which makes the decision whether to comply a weighty one."

It said the 15-member AFL executive council would make its decision at a meeting in Chicago on September 8.

Radio Writer Cleared On Charges of Treason

New York, Aug. 28 (AP).—Edward Leo Delaney, 61-year-old writer and radio publicist, was released from custody today after a Federal grand jury refused to indict him on treason charges.

Delaney was arrested August 8 by FBI agents after he had been returned to this country aboard an Army transport. Assistant U. S. Attorney General Raymond Whearty said then that Delaney had been indicted for treason in Washington, D. C., on July 6, 1943, as a result of alleged broadcasts made in behalf of the German propaganda ministry from Germany and Czechoslovakia.

Case of the Mixed Up Buicks Ends Happily for D. C. Man

The Washington Post.

John P. Costianes turns on the key, steps on the starter . . .

All's well that ends well for John P. Costianes of 6501 6th st. nw.—he received a shiny new Buick yesterday afternoon in return for the one shipped to Brazil by mistake a month ago.

It all began on July 25 when Costianes, owner of the Trio Restaurant at 1537 17th st. nw., parked his 1946 Buick roadmaster on Church st., between 17th and 18th sts. nw., and found it gone several hours later.

A clerk, Mrs. Othella Pompier, at the Brazilian Aeronautical Commission, mistook it for the newly purchased 1947 Buick super sedan of Lieut. Col. Jose Vincente de Faria Lima, chief of the commission.

When the key didn't fit she called a locksmith, had a new one made, and drove the car to New York and had it put aboard a boat bound for Brazil.

"Look," said Costianes yesterday, pointing to his shoes, "double soles. I had them put on after the car disappeared."

Then happily, as he leaned against the 1947 roadmaster, given him as a replacement by the Brazilian, "I won't need them anymore."

3 Alexandria Democrats Put On Committee

The Alexandria Democratic Committee yesterday announced appointment of three new members to fill positions left unclaimed in the August 5 election.

Appointed to two-year terms were: Capt. George H. Evans, 322 S. St. Asaph st., First Ward; Richard M. Wright, 412 Queen st., First Ward; and John T. Worthington, 506 W. Braddock rd., Fifth Ward.

The appointments brought committee membership up to full strength with two members now representisg each of the city's six wards.

At the same time, Arthur F. Campbell was re-elected chairman of the committee; Gilbert J. Cox, vice-chairman; and Miss Camille DeLane, secretary. Campbell said that the new members would take office immediately.

Wright is publisher of the Northern Virginia Shopping Journal; Worthington, a life insurance official, and Evans is in the railroad supply business. None of the three has held political office in the city.

Fairfax Ballot Recount Is Set For Sept. 9

Judge Paul O. Brown of Fairfax Circuit Court has set September 9 as the tentative date for a hearing on the petition of Robert J. McCandlish, jr., for a recount of votes in an August 5 primary election tie.

Judge Brown yesterday requested the chief justice of the Supreme Court of Appeals to name two other circuit judges to sit with him when he hears the petition.

The petition asks a recount of votes in the race for Democratic nomination to the House of Delegates.

Unofficial returns first showed incumbent Edwin Lynch the winner by two votes, but an official check of precinct returns later brought McCandlish up to a tie. Lynch was declared the winner at Richmond August 12 when his name was drawn from a hat.

Greeks Turn To Maximos ist), had headed the government since January.

Zervas' Position in Doubt

Gen. Napoleon Zervas, former Minister of Public Order, a post important in the handling of Greece's guerilla problem, was agreed upon by the political leaders to keep that position. But some quarters said, after he conferred with Macveagh, that he might not accept.

The demand of three Centrist leaders in the cabinet—Papandreou, Panayotis Kanellopoulos and Venizelos—that Zervas be dropped brought about the cabinet's collapse last Saturday. The three resigned because Tsaldaris had refused to accede to their demands.

Virtually the only important change between the new and the old cabinet was the possibility that Gen. Alexander Papagos, hero of Greece's stand against Italy in the war, would replace George Stratos as minister of war and would have the gendarmerie under his command in operational areas. The gendarmerie has been under the ministry of public order.

Just before the crisis was believed to have been resolved in day-long conferences, Papagos had been considered a possibility as a "neutral" premier.

The crisis produced many conferences between Greek political leaders and MacVeagh and Dwight P. Griswold, chief of the American mission which is administering the 300-million-dollar aid program in Greece.

Meanwhile guerillas were active in northern Greece. Greek newspaper correspondents said a band of 500 was moving from Mount Tzoumerkas, southeast of Ioannina in Epirus, southeastward toward Agrafa and was being engaged in a battle at Theodorina in the mountain passes. Presumably this band was part of the force which the guerilla radio claimed had captured 100 villages in five days.

Another band burned a railway station 70 miles north of Athens.

Union Hears Weber

Hagerstown, Md., Aug. 28 (AP).—"You face the same opponents in the political field as in the economic field," Palmer Weber, research director for the CIO Political Action Committee, told 100 union members at a meeting here

Weber, declaring the Taft-Hartley law puts a "straitjacket on labor," said when you . . . win on the economic front your opponents move to the political front and they beat your brains out like in 1946."

Joseph E. Craig, president of Amalgamated Local 842, United Auto Workers (CIO), described the Political Action Committee as an "independent organization which is going to consider each Congressman according to the way he voted on labor bills in the past."

Herndon, Va., Aug. 29.—Children enrolling in Fairfax County schools Tuesday must present birth certificates and must have been vaccinated, W. T. D. C. Backers Map Strategy For Malloy

New York, Aug. 28.—Hopeful that a deadlock between other candidates for national commander might boost Joseph J. Malloy's chances for the Legion's top post, District of Columbia delegates mapped strategy at a morning caucus. Former Commander Guy C. Nadean was in charge of strategy of trying to sell Malloy as a World War II candidate to every possible delegate.

Malloy served in both wars and saw service in five battles in the most recent one.

Election of a national commander appeared to be the main convention attraction. Eight candidates are contesting for the post, but four are expected to withdraw before the election Sunday afternoon.

Malloy has the unanimous indorsement of the District delegation, which will vote under the unit rule and is expected to stay in the fight until a final decision is made.

WAA Is Cool To Eastport's Quoddy Bid

By the United Press

The War Assets Administration's Labor Policy Committee last night recommended rejection of any bid of Eastport, Me., for the abandoned Passamaquoddy facilities unless training and employment facilities are limited to persons who can become United States residents.

Eastport originally requested War Assets to grant it permission to use the Passamaquoddy housing and factory building facilities without charge in the training of European refugees for subsequent employment in South America.

It was announced in Eastport last night that War Assets officials would not approve the project as originally proposed on grounds it was "industrial" rather than educational.

The labor policy committee said that any Eastport bid should show conclusively that "the training and employment at the project will be made available only to persons who have the privilege of permanent residence in the United States, including veterans, students, and immigrants, without distinction or emphasis as to race, color or creed."

It also urged rejection of any bid unless it is shown:

"That the project will be operated on a genuine 'training within industry' plan, approved and guided by the United States Office of Education, wherein not less than 50 per cent of the man hours in production will be devoted to the training of workers.

"That all displaced persons who participate in the training plan or employment be regular immigrants who will do so of their own choice without servitude or prior agreements of any kind and with the full freedom and opportunities accorded any other immigrant.

"That all persons working on production processes shall be paid at the local prevailing rates of pay applicable for the work performed without deductions or other charges, except as provided by law."

Road Meeting Called

Richmond, Va., Aug. 28 (AP).—Representatives of the State Planning Board and the State Highway Department will discuss a long-range plan to reduce the State's costs of right-of-way in highway construction and to increase highway safety at a meeting at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

4th Body Mystifies

Bridegroom Runs Amuck, Kills 2, Self

Shelbyville, Ill., Aug. 28 (AP).—A frustrated bridegroom, whose 16-year-old wife was planning to divorce him, shot and killed his bride, his father and himself last night and wounded his mother and 12-year-old brother-in-law.

Helton

As police investigated the triple deaths, resulting from a shooting rampage in a roller skating rink and a farm house, the body of a roller rink employe—the throat slashed and a hole in the head—was found in a park near the rink, and officers attempted to learn if that killing was linked with last night's slayings and suicide.

Dead were Mrs. Jacqueline Helton, 16; her husband, Donald Helton, 22; Helton's father, Earl, about 60, a farmer, and William Mogg, 33, a part time roller rink employe. Police could establish no connection immediately between Mogg's death and those of the Helton family, but Sheriff Cecil Clausen said he believed the shootings and Mogg's death occurred at about the same time.

The young brother, Walter Knearem, 12, was critically wounded when he went to his sister's aid. Helton's mother, Florence, was wounded in the arm and hand.

Near Donald's body, police found a note which said in substance:

"I am sorry for what I have done. I wish to be buried next to my wife. I love her very much, but our marriage could not be a success because of family difficulties."

Greenbelt's Coop Defended

The Federal Government yesterday urged to "honor its present contract obligations" wih Greenbelt Consumer Services, Inc.

The plea was entered by some 300 members of the nearby cooperative, in a resolution which simultaneously blasted the "bias against cooperatives displayed by the subcommittee of the House Small Business Committee during its recent hearing."

The House subcommittee, at the close of two days of hearings, labeled the Greenbelt cooperative a monopoly and called on the Public Housing Administration to "cancel" its contract with GCS.

The Greenbelt resolution, adopted at a regular meeting Wednesday night, did not "oppose the establishment of private enterprises in our town" but insisted "that they provide fair competition and do not build on our park and recreation areas."

The resoluion expressed "complete confidence" that GCS will "continue to serve the best interests of our community and provide us with adequate shopping facilities."

A spokesman for GCS said the resolution will be made available to any residents wishing to sign it. He said a "house-to-house canvass" may develop but is not now planned by GCS.

GU Foreign Service Pupils Get New Quarters

Georgetown University's school of foreign service will take up new quarters with the opening of classes this fall in two converted Navy barracks.

With an expected all-time high enrollment of 5800, the university has spilled out of its hilltop campus in Georgetown.

The barracks from Solomons Island, Md., have been reconstructed to form a second university quadrangle on 37th st. near the entrance to the main campus.

Ten classrooms, an auditorium seating 400, a recreation hall for students, a faculty lounge, reading and seminar rooms and offices will be provided in the two buildings.

A third building, a Government temporary, is being rebuilt just off the main campus to provide three large classrooms for the college. Enrollment in this university division is expected to reach 2000. An additional 500 students are expected to register in the graduate school of arts and sciences.

Veterans are expected to compromise 65 per cent of the total enrollment and as much as 90 per cent of the 1600 foreign service students.

Although more than 1400 new students have applied for admission, the freshman class will be limited to 600, the university said.

Freshmen will report to the university September 18 for a week's program of orientation before the opening of classes September 25. The foreign service school will not open until October 6.

D. C. Man Held In Auto Theft After Fatality

Winchester, Va., Aug. 28 (AP).—John Lee Floyd of High Point, N. C., today was ordered held for Corporation Court grand jury action here on a charge of hit-and-run driving involving a fatality.

In addition, Police Justice John W. Rice ordered Benjamin L. Thompson of Washington, who was arrested with Floyd, held as a material witness. Both men also have been charged with violating the motor vehicle theft act.

Floyd is charged by Chief of Police J. Thomas Boyd with being the driver of an automobile which struck and killed Mrs. Bessie Stottlemeyer of Winchester, as she was crossing Route 50 near her home in the suburbs here August 9.

Floyd entered a plea of innocent.

Less Bumpy, Anyway

Gas Men Gassed

Astoria, Oreg. (U.P.).—Sheriff Paul Kearney left his car in a gasoline service station here to be gassed up, but it was two young mechanics who got the "gas." They inadvertently pushed a button that set off the sheriff's tear-gas gun.

Dead Tell No Tales

Huntington, Ind. (U.P.).—Carl P. Gagen was freed temporarily on a charge of illegal sale of liquor because the affidavit on which the arrest warrant was issued had the name of Michael Carl Gagen, his dead father.

Complete Jap Disarmament Demanded by British Nations

Canberra, Australia, Aug. 28 (AP).—Complete Japanese disarmament and demilitarization were demanded today at the conference of eight British Commonwealth nations of Japan.

The official report on today's session of the conference, which opened Tuesday, said that delegates expressed the view "all armament manufacture should be forbidden and that internal order should be maintained by a non-military police force."

The delegates also "examined in detail measures that might be necessary to insure that the Japanese should not be permitted at present to conduct research in the field of atomic energy or to develop or use atomic energy."

"Complete prohibition" of naval construction was favored, and limitations on "Japanese commercial shipping, confined to insular trade, were discussed." Also advocated were a ban on aircraft manufacture and control of civil aviation.

The conference "paid particular attention to the present Japanese constitution, which carries out many of the principles which the Allied powers would like to see permanently in effect in Japan, such as a guarantee of fundamental human rights," the report said.

The delegates considered the continued exclusion from public office "of persons who have been removed because of their ultra nationalistic and militaristic affiliations."

Attending the conference are representatives of Australia, the United Kingdom, India, Pakistan, Burma, Canada, New Zealand and South Africa.

Circus Employe Held in Slaying Of Fellow Worker

Hubert Thompson, 44, an employe of the Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey Circus, wanted for questioning in the death of another circus employe in Baltimore June 12, was arrested yesterday in Hutchinson, Kans., the Associated Press reported.

The slain employe, who was found dead with five bullet wounds in his chest is a truck drivers' rest tent, was Richard Sheehan, 34, a subcontractor in charge of the circus sanitary crew.

Sheehan's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Sheehan, and his brother, Edward J. Sheehan, live at 5711 N. Washington blvd., Arlington, Va.

Mutual Aid Plan For Europe Delayed

Paris, Aug. 28 (AP).—Officials estimated today that delegates from 16 European nations who are writing a mutual self-aid plan to coordinate with United States assistance under the Marshall program will miss their September 1 deadline and probably will not be ready with the report before September 10.

The informants said they did not regard the probable delay as serious, however, since Congress wil not begin consideration of the Marshall program before January.

Hammer Slaying

Wife Admits Sawing Up Husband

Chicago, Aug. 28 (AP).—A little, plump, graying woman came to a West Side police station today and related, Police Capt. George Homer said, that she hammered her husband to death, sliced up his body with a hacksaw and knife, wrapped the parts in several neat packages and tossed them into the Chicago River.

Mrs. Sosnowski

The tearful account given by Mrs. Anna Sosnowski, 54, he said, dispelled the mystery that had confronted his investigators since Tuesday when packages containing parts of the body were found on the river bank.

"I figured it was him or me this time," he said the wife told him as she described frequent quarrels during her three years of marriage to Tony Sosnowski, 58, a shipping room laborer in a manufacturing plant.

Later the little grandmother led police to a bridge and pointed out where she disposed of the body.

As she stood on the North Avenue span, she turned to Samuel Papanek, assistant State's attorney, and said, "I'd be better off if I jumped in there, too."

Asked if she were sorry he was gone, Mrs. Sosnowski cried:

"I'm not sorry he's dead, the dog. That man, he beat me.

"He died like a dog and I'll die like a dog."

War Crimes Group Fights Delay in Trying High Nazis

Nuernberg, Aug. 28.—The American war crime administration is racing against time and the delaying tactics of German defense lawyers, in an attempt to convict a prison full of top-draw Nazis charged as major war criminals, before congressional funds are exhausted.

The complicated judicial machine to try leading Nazi militarists, S.S. leaders, politicians and big business supporters, will come to a dead stop by the end of this fiscal year due to lack of funds, Brigadier-General Telford-Taylor, chief prosecutor, stated today.

As a result, he admitted, "there is a definite possibility" that a number of major Nazis may escape being tried before these war crimes tribunals," he indicated. "In that eventuality we may empower German courts or American Military Government courts to try them," he said.

Jackson Named By Trade Groups

The association concluded its annual meeting with a luncheon session at which Earl Ferris of New York, president of the National Association of Public Relations Counsel, discussed selling the free enterprise system to the people of America.

Road Stripes Renewed

Chinese Pour Marines Into Red-Held Port

Nanking (Friday), Aug. 29 (INS).—A Chinese news dispatch reported today that 30,000 Chinese government marines have swarmed ashore at a Communist-held port of Shihkiuso on the Shantung Peninsula and established a beachhead. The dispatch failed to give any further details.

Shihkiuso is a sixty miles southeast of Tsingtao, where the U. S. Seventh Fleet had an operational base.

Reds Advancing

Nanking, Aug. 28 (AP).—Communist forces of Gen. Lieu Po-Cheng, ripping deep into Chinese government territory, were reported on the rampage today within 150 miles north of the big city of Hankow.

Only 20 days ago government reports had the one-eyed Liu and his army pinned against the flooded Yellow River in western Shantung province and predicted hi sdestruction in trying to retreat across the steram.

Liu broke out to the southeast, however.

Soviets Insist on Rights

London, Aug. 28 (AP).—The Moscow radio broadcast a statement tonight that Soviet ships retained "the indisputable right" to enter the port of Dairen, Manchuria, despite a reported Chinese decision to close the harbor to foreign shipping.

U. S. Tariff Cut Held Solution for Canada Dollar Dearth

Ottawa, Aug. 28 (AP). — The Financial Post, Canadian businessman's weekly which often has been able to forecast government policy in advance, said in a front-page editorial today that Canada's growingly critical United States dollar shortage "demands" a "forthright approach to Washington for a reduction of its tariffs against us."

Owing to an unfavorable balance of trade with its big neighbor, Canada presently is running out of United States funds at the rate of approximately $100,000,000 monthly, and representatives of the government already have been in touch with Washington seeking a solution before reserves are exhausted, possibly by the end of the year.

Discussions are known to have ranged from possibilities of a United States loan, to private borrowing by Canada and restriction of United States imports.

But the Financial Post said "There is only one clear-cut solution to our dollar problem. It is for us to sell more goods to the United States.

"Canada may have to come to some restrictions on U. S. imports and our travel expenditures south of the border. But measures of that kind are only second best."

The newspaper, published in Toronto, has a nation-wide circulation.

Ruhr Coal Prices Rise 50 Per Cent

Berlin, Aug. 28.—Export prices for German Ruhr coal have been increased nearly 50 per cent, bringing the coal up from about $10 a ton to around $15 a ton, it was announced today by the American and British military governments.

This move, which will undoubtedly mean additional difficulties to those European countries such as France that have dwindling dollar reserves, should bring in about four million dollars more a month in revenue to the fused occupation zones.

U. N. Palestine Report Due

Geneva, Switzerland, Aug. 28 (AP). The United Nations special committee on Palestine annonunced today that its report would include both majority and minority views on solution of the Palestine problem and reliable sources said the majority wuold advocate partition of the country between Arabs and Jews.

Authoritative informants said the majority plan, supported by seven of the 11 members of the committee, provided dividing Palestine into an Arab state and a Jewish state, loosely connected by economic cooperation. The committee majority, however, has not yet agreed on projected boundaries for the two states.

The minority plan is for a single Arab-Jewish state divided into semi-autonomous federated areas. It is supported by India, Iran and Yugoslavia.

Refuge Ship Disabled

Gilbraltar, Aug. 28 (U.P.).—The ocean journey of some 4500 homeless Jewish refugees to the British zone of Germany was interrupted today when one of three British transports developed engine trouble just outside Gilbraltar harbor and was towed back to dock.

This disabled ship, the Empire Rival, sailed with the transport flotilla accompanied by three British frigates just before noon. The ship returned almost immediately and it was announced that departure of the three ships for Hamburg would be delaped 24 hours.

Judge Raedy Fails to Appear At Two Scheduled Hearings

Court and Judge McMahon was assigned to hear Judge Raedy's case.

At 1:50 Attorney Ford, summoned before Judge McMahon, explained Judge Raedy's absence and asked that Rule 14 be invoked. The judge refused to allow the rule because Ford did not have written consent but gave him until 10 a. m. today to obtain it.

Ten witnesses had been summoned. The seven who appeared were excused by Judge Gallagher at 11 a. m. when Ford said he had not had time to prepare the defense. He said he would ask that September 11 or 12 be set as trial date.

Judge Raedy is facing charges of leaving after colliding in connection with an accident involving her 1946 Buick convertible coupe, which struck a parked car near the intersection of 1st and K sts. nw. the night of August 19.

Judge Raedy denied that she was driving the car at the time. She said that she had loaned the car earlier in the evening to a friend of hers, Edward Emerson, a New York newspaperman.

Hilton Rheubottom, 1504 Steven rd., se., an employe of a filling station at 1st and K nw. told police that Judge Raedy's car struck the parked car and then went through a red light. He identified Judge Raedy as the driver.

Willie Allen the parking lot attendant at the Dorchester apts. told police that Judge Raedy, another woman and two men drove into the lot about 11 p. m. He said that there was a man driving the car at that time. Judge Raedy has said she spent the entire evening at home at the Dorchester.

Another witness has placed Judge Raedy at a birthday party at the apartment of Mrs. Mamie T. Hayes, 62 I st. nw. one block from the scene of the accident.

Man Cleared In Death of Scooter Driver

Stuart W. Morrissette, 32, Westgate, Md., was cleared in Hyattsville Police Court yesterday of manslaughter charges in connection with the traffic death August 5 of a 16-year-old youth.

In dismissing the charges, Trial Magistrate Arthur P. Owens said: "I don't know if I ever heard a more conclusive case in the defendant's favor in an automobile manslaughter case. There is no evidence of negligence on his part, gross or otherwise."

Carlton P. Wood, 20, Silver Spring cab driver, testified the deceased youth, Charles I. Martin, 3902 Jefferson st., Hyattsville, in attempting to make a left turn from Hamilton st. into 38th ave. in Hyattsville, had crashed his motor scooter into the left front of the beverage truck driven by Morrissette. Martin's scooter had been following another vehicle which made a right turn at the intersection, Wood, an eyewitness, said.

In his own behalf, Morrissette said the first he saw of the scooter was when it turned from behind the preceding car directly into his path. He said that he was driving about 20 miles an hour.

Bobby E. Garner, 15, 5405 38th ave., a companion riding with Martin on the scooter, suffered minor abrasions.

Manna From Catapult Betrays Smugglers

Berlin (AP).—A British sentry, struck in the head by a loaf of bread in the town of Heerlen near Juelich, uncovered an unusual art of smuggling to date.

The Dutch-German border runs down the Neustrasse in Heerlen. Investigation showed that a Dutchman was using a catapult to drop food packages to a collaborator on the German side of the street, only this time his aim was bad.

Twenty-eight-year-old Dr. Lefever took the stand in his own defense during his trial in Gettysburg, Pa., on charges of assaulting Mrs. Dryer, 23-year-old patient. Alexandria Couple Slain into the alley. The owner of the coal company, W. E. Stalnaker, said the car had been parked for about two hours. Chief Deputy Sheriff Hugh Cutler theorized that the murderer must have been well acquainted with the industrial section to find the isolated parking place.

Police experts took fingerprints from the car and turned them over to the Federal Bureau of Investigation for checking.

Smears of blood were found on the highway near the spot where the bodies were found, indicating the victims had been dragged about 12 feet to the bushes. Investigators believed they were killed elsewhere and the bodies driven to the scene. Four gravel haulers passed by the spot on the highway shortly before the boys made their discovery and saw no blood.

Cutler reconstructed the crime this way:

The Mays picked up the hitch-hiker who was seated in the back seat. He forced May to stop the car and then shot Mrs. May in the back of the head. She slumped into her husband's lap as the hitch-hiker shot May in the temple.

The hitch-hiker then drove the car down the highway, dragged the bodies to the clump of bushes and drove off.

The identification of the couple was made through a driver's license, made out to May's grandmother, Mrs. Lulu May, which was found in his pocket.

Employed in Office Of Grandfather's Firm

Robert L. May 2d, Alexandria bus magnate's grandson reported shot and killed with his wife near Boys Town, Nebr., was employed in the public relations office of his grandfather's firm, the Alexandria, Barcroft & Washington Transit Co.

He left Alexandria two weeks ago with his bride of last October, Elizabeth Piele May, for a Western automobile trip and a visit in Colorado with her relatives. The couple was due home next week and presumably was on the way back when the tragedy occurred.

Mrs. May, 22, was employed as a secretary with the Alexandria law firm of Thomas, Strauss & Backus.

Reported Near Collapse

The dead man's father, Beverly C. May, was reported last night in a state nearing collapse after receiving the news at his home, 16 Belfield rd., Belle Haven, Alexandria. The family said the father has been under doctors' care for the past several weeks and that the shock aggravated his condition.

The grandfather, founder of the A. B. & W. Co., was reported living in Florida.

Young May was born in Alexandria, the son of his father's first wife, now Mrs. James Schmidt, of Colonial Beach, Va. He attended Alexandria public schools, Florida Military Academy, Valley Forge Military Academy, Valley Forge, Pa., and was attending the University of Virginia as a freshman when he entered war service.

Turned down for Army enlistment because of poor eyesight, he joined the Merchant Marine early in 1945 and served a year as a radio operator. He then reentered the University of Virginia but dropped out before the start of last September's term.

He took a position as assistant public relations director of his grandfather's firm in September and the following month was married to Elizabeth, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Piele of 2983 S. Columbus st., Fairlington, Alexandria.

Flying Boat Crash Kills 35 in Norway

Oslo, Norway, Aug. 28 (AP).—Thirty-five persons, including an American woman, were killed today when a Norwegian Airlines Sandringham flying boat crashed against a mountainside in northern Norway.

The crash occurred during fog and rain near Loedingen on Logoten island above the Artic Circle. The plane was en route from Tromsoe to Stavanger.

The victims included 27 passengers and eight crew members. Among them were a Mrs. Jess (further identification not available), an American, who had been visiting in Borkenes near Harstad, in northern Norway; Jan Reinis and Tatjana Selingerova, both Czech journalists, and G. Heine, a Dane. The others were Norwegians.

The craft's chief pilot was Captain Buer, a well-known Norwegian flier. Jarle Ebbesen, the airline's chief inspector, also was a victim.

The plane was named the Kvitbjoern (White Bear).

tion two weeks ago, and Attorney Charles E. Ford, representing the policemen involved, also asked for one this week.

Barrett's action yesterday was taken soon after he presented to the District Commissioners recommendations in which they concurred.

It provided that results of the investigation be taken to the grand jury for criminal action and that it be referred also to Corporation Counsel Vernon E. West to determine if there is evidence to cite the policemen involved before a trial board.

Report Not Released

The Commissioners gave Barrett permission to make public the report but the police chief said he preferred to give it to the United States attorney without revealing its contents.

West said late yesterday he had not yet received the report. Trial board action is independent of what the grand jury may do, he said.

Fay, Barrett and Truscott were unable to say whether grand jury action would include police of the First Precinct for the illegal detention.

Fee Fixing

Among the laity, there is probably very little love lost for the National Association of Real Estate Boards and its Washington affiliate. The association is a lobby—and a formidable one at that, as it demonstrated recently through its success in persuading Congress to eviscerate the Veterans' Emergency Housing Act and the rent-control law. As a lobby, it has undoubtedly had a great deal to do with the current high price of housing. Its lobbying, however, was altogether legal; and we do not suppose that the Department of Justice is going to put a stop to this—or substantially reduce housing costs—by any application of the antitrust laws.

Both the national and the local associations have now been indicted for antitrust law violations. "Our inquiry into the housing field," commented Attorney General Clark, "indicates that artificial restraints on competition, such as those involved in this matter, bear a definite relation to high housing costs." The relationship may be definite; but it is relatively trivial. Commission fixing is not responsible for rent-gouging or for zooming realty values. At worst, it may be said to have poured a little salt into the wounds.

Nevertheless, commission fixing does constitute a restraint of trade forbidden by the Sherman Act, and there is evidence that the real estate groups have been guilty not only of agreeing upon uniform commissions but also of conspiring over a period of years to push these commissions up. According to the grand jury indictment, all members of the Washington Real Estate Board agree, as a condition of membership, to abide by a code of ethics which provides among other things that "brokers should maintain the standard rates of commission adopted by the board and no business should be solicited at lower rates." The indictment notes that the standard form of sales contract generally used by real estate brokers in the District of Columbia stipulates that "the seller agrees to pay the agent the regular rate of commission fixed by the Washington Real Estate Board."

In the real estate business, as in many other businesses, such as insurance, advertising or stockmarketing, entrepreneurial earnings must practically be determined on a commission basis. And it is natural that, among competitors, the commission rate should be about the same. But this does not, of course, justify the competitors in restraining competition on the part of anyone who may choose to render the same service at a lower rate. The prosecution of the real estate boards may have far-reaching consequences. If the Department of Justice proves its case, the gentlemen's agreements and confidential understandings about maintaining commission rates which prevail in other fields will have to be thrown promptly into the discard.

Defense Secrets

It is understandable that during time of peace the popular attitude toward military secrecy should react against the hush-hush rule imposed during the war. That is all to the good. In our opinion there should be no more secrecy surrounding activities of the military than is honestly dictated by national security, and any unwarranted effort to cloister nonessential operations should be resisted. Nevertheless, it seems to us that Army and Navy authorities have reason to be concerned over the stories that they are digging huge caverns in a mountain range near Albuquerque, N. Mex., as "super defenses against a possible World War III." The danger in such half-conjectural reports is that they may imperil the few remaining secrets that are basically necessary for our defense.

The actual story of what is happening at Albuquerque was told in a joint Army-Navy release a month ago. A special weapons project has been established at Sandia base to take over the military functions of the wartime Manhattan District. The program, according to the release, includes "training of special personnel, military participation in the development of atomic weapons of all types, and developing and effecting joint radiological safety measures in coordination with established agencies." The head of the project is Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves.

It should require no great insight to understand that our armed forces must develop and experiment with new weapons if they are to discharge their functions of providing national protection. This has always been the case. The necessity for secrecy, especially on weapons of the atomic variety, also should be manifest. It would be folly to pretend that such proving grounds can be hidden altogether, any more than Oak Ridge could be hidden during the war. But there is a basic minimum of security that must prevail. Attempts to pry beneath the veil in irresponsible "exposes" that serve no purpose except to whet curiosity seem to us a disservice to the self-discipline that Americans must exercise in the atomic age.

Science Policy

It would be hard to place too much emphasis on the importance of the expanded and correlated national science program outlined by John R. Steelman, presidential assistant and chairman of the President's Scientific Research Board. Mr. Steelman says in his first report, Science and Public Policy: "In the war the laboratory became the first line of defense and the scientist, the indispensable warrior. There is no likelihood that this would be changed in the event of another conflict." In other words, the strength of this country lies in the realm of ideas and scientific ingenuity as well as in its great industrial capacity. Aside from the impact of science on defense, scientific research provides the chief means of expanding our standard of living. The title of an earlier report by Dr. Vannevar Bush, Science, the Endless Frontier, implies a fundamental truth: new inventions, new applications of research and basic research itself are taking the place of physical expansion in maintaining a dynamic American economy.

In its lucidly worded study the research board makes it quite clear that the United States is lagging today, especially in basic research. In the past this country has made less than its proportionate contribution to this field. Although the 1947 budget for private and governmental scientific endeavors is considerably higher than before the war, the lion's share of the money is going into military work and into development rather than pure exploration of the unknown. This imbalance is bound in the long run to be stultifying. A contributing factor to the present situation is the continuing shortage of scientific personnel. Between 1940 and 1947, for example, the national research and development budget increased 335 per cent, whereas the supply of trained manpower expanded only 35 per cent. This shortage is felt particularly in the colleges, which are accustomed to work with the raw material of science, because of the exodus of qualified instructors into higher paying industrial jobs. Nor have the colleges themselves the resources to remedy the loss.

Under these conditions the Government could advantageously spend two billion dollars annually by 1957, or 1 per cent of the national income, on achieving a science program balanced between military research, industrial research and basic research and the practical applications that ensue. Because of many limiting factors such as manpower, such a balance cannot be reached at once, and the board wisely has pointed to weak areas, such as basic research and medical research, which need special emphasis. Although some expansion in research budgets may be expected from industry, obviously the main effort in reaching the goal will have to be governmental. Part of the Government's activity, as the board suggests, can come through coordination of the development and research carried on by its own agencies. But a large part of the Federal funds must go to colleges in grants for basic research, a national scholarship and fellowship program and assistance in obtaining laboratories and scientific equipment. By no means the least significant of the board's recommendations is that the Government extend aid in reestablishing European laboratories and thereby contribute to the free exchange of scientific knowledge.

It is natural that the keystone in executing a science policy should be the National Science Foundation, a project which President Truman felt compelled to veto in its final stage because of its administrative unworkability. Happily the research board has called for a foundation with a director responsible to the President, thus eliminating the primary objection. It is unfortunate, we think, that the social sciences are not included with the physical sciences in the scope of the foundation as outlined. The research board itself recognizes that these twin branches of science are an indivisible whole and that they work side by side. We hope, therefore, that when Congress again acts on the National Science Foundation it will broaden the realm to encompass all aspects of science. It is difficult to think of any other national activity, as the research board observed, "which more directly benefits all the people or which makes a larger contribution to the national welfare and security."

British Trade Balances

Some British critics are now charging us with responsibility for the huge deficit in the British balance of payments, because of the rise in prices of goods bought with dollars. In answer, of course, we can point out that the heavy demands made on us by Britain and other countries have contributed substantially to the domestic price rise. Furthermore, if Britain has been forced to pay more for her imports, higher prices have also enabled her to obtain more money for her exports. However, it is undeniably true that rising prices have a very adverse effect on a country importing more than it exports. For, as the British point out, a doubling of prices all around, without any change in the actual physical amounts of exports and imports, would increase the money deficit on trade account correspondingly, just as it would add to the monetary trade surplus of a country like the United States that exports more than it imports.

Allowing for the disruptive effect of price increases, the British trade balance for 1946 showed a marked improvement compared with that of the last prewar year, 1938, the adverse merchandise balance having been reduced from 282 million pounds to 220 million pounds, despite the rise in prices during the interim period. The 1946 volume of imports, moreover, as distinct from value, was estimated to be only two thirds of the 1938 total, whereas the volume of exports was within 10 per cent of the prewar level. But for rising prices, therefore, the showing would have been quite impressive.

Another item that has contributed heavily to Britain's deficit in her dealings with the rest of the world has been her overseas expenditures, which rose from 16 million pounds in 1938 to 300 million pounds last year. These outlays for maintaining occupation armies in Germany and elsewhere will in course of time be drastically cut, and world prices are much more likely to fall than to rise in the years ahead. Consequently, viewed as a long-range problem, an ultimate balancing of payments on international account is not a hopeless undertaking, even though the British are handicapped by a severe shrinkage in returns from overseas investments in the form of interest and dividend payments.

Strawberry Red

Mr. Henry Wallace, whose knack of keeping his name in the newspapers is nothing short of prodigious, announced some days ago that he intends to produce a sort of strawberry superior to any now known by crossing a Russian variety with an American one. Mr. Wallace says that when he has finished this experiment he will send some of the offspring back to Russia, and since he seems sure that they will be welcomed there it may be assumed that this new variety of strawberries will be somewhat redder than the very reddest strawberries hitherto known in these United States.

As might have been expected, this announcement has occasioned a good deal of sarcastic comment among those who consider Mr. Wallace himself a rather alarming experiment in Russo-American ideological hybridization. There are some who, recalling the promise alleged to have been made by Mr. Wallace of a Utopia in which everybody will have a full quart of milk every day, say that this latest experiment with fellow traveling strawberries is merely preparatory to a demand that the universal ration be enlarged to include also one gill of cream. Others have merely reflected rather sadly that Mr. Wallace might have used his horticultural talents to more patriotic purpose by crossing native varieties of the strawberry, the white mulberry and the blueberry to produce an absolutely 100 per cent American fruit with a rich and irresistible George M. Cohan flavor. This, with the aid of the new fast-freezing processes, could be shipped to all parts of the world for propaganda purposes. A single spoonful of such berries liberally sprinkled of course with sugar, would, it is argued, have an effect equivalent to 32 half-hour Voice of America programs. Or served at state banquets between toasts drunk in raw corn whiskey, they would quickly undo some of the unhappy consequences of the caviar and vodka diplomacy of our erstwhile Russian allies.

Still, we suppose its too much to ask a fellow with Mr. Wallace's global outlook to consider merely the selfish interests of his own country. We are inclined to agree with those who say that, if Mr. Wallace is allowed to get away with this strawberry conspiracy, the next thing will be to cross the American Beauty rose with the hammerwort and the seckel pear.

History Repeats Itself

From Shanghai come reports of a lively and growing traffic in able-bodied men to serve as substitute conscripts in the Chinese army. The selling price per man is said to be between 3 and 4 million Chinese dollars, or $75 to $100 in U. S. currency. Of that total the soldier gets about half. The remainder goes to members of the rings engaging in this nefarious practice of selling supplies of manpower to the authorities of districts needing men to fill local draft quotas. Part of the money required by local officials to pay for these substitute conscripts is supplied by young men who would otherwise be drafted.

Most Americans will be shocked to hear of this traffic and inclined to regard it as evidence that the people tolerating such conditions have forfeited their claim to be called civilized. However, what is happening in China today is only a repetition, with variations, of what happened in the United States during the Civil War. After the volunteer system of recruitment broke down in the North in 1862, the Federal Government was forced to resort to the draft. Each State was called upon to supply a certain number of men, first by appeals for voluntary enlistment, with deficits to be filled by conscription. To obtain volunteers to fill their quotas instead of resorting to the hated draft, States, counties and cities paid generous bounties to swell enlistments. Some so-called bounty jumpers, seeing a chance to make money in an easy way, made a business of enlisting, deserting and reenlisting in order to claim multiple bounties. For a limited time, too, a drafted man was permitted to escape service by payment of $300 or by hiring a substitute, as the Chinese apparently are now doing.

Of course, it was the poor, the jobless and the unattached immigrants who provided the bulk of the human war material for this kind of recruitment and the efficiency of the Army and the cause for which it was fighting suffered accordingly. Before passing judgment on the Chinese, it is well to remember these sorry chapters in our history. Though they may not know it, the Chinese are only following the example that we set them not so many years ago.

Quoddy Plan

There seems to be the usual criticism that is given in such cases to the "Quoddy" plan of Mr. Frank Cohen. The Washington Post is joining in with other great "humanitarian" groups in condemning the plan.

Let us assume for one minute that Mr. Cohen has the background that your paper depicts. But, nonetheless, let us bear in mind that Mr. Cohen is the first person in this entire country who has come forward with any concrete, definite plan to help the European refugees.

Can anyone in his endowed democratic righteousness deny this chance for rehabilitation that is offered? The cost of this plan is no greater than it is now costing to maintain DP camps throughout Europe.

President Truman and numerous other individuals have been harping on help for refugees. What has this brought to us? Nothing, absolutely nothing! Now, along comes a sincere, enterprising businessman with a definite plan to help a few thousand refugees and what happens—everyone condemns his plan as that of a quack. Why don't The Washington Post, Government agencies and other interested parties give Mr. Cohen and his group a chance to see what they can do to help these refugees?

The Washington Post, cartoonist, Mr. Block, in his most cynical, selfish mood, saw fit to put Senator Brewster in a garbage can with fish around him and refer to his Howard Hughes days in connection with this plan. I do not approve of Mr. Brewster's escapade at the expense of Mr. Hughes, but it must also be brought out that Mr. Brewster is one of the foremost exponents of help for refugees.

If The Washington Post or any Government agency has any plan that is better than the Cohen plan let them come forward with it, or let him do his best to help this plan be a success. Help these poor people of Europe who know no future except death.

Civil Rights Statute

On August 16 you published a letter suggesting that a referendum be taken among the National Theater's patrons on the question of admitting Negroes to the audiences there.

Who would seriously argue that the right of Negroes to participate effectively in Mississippi elections should depend on the wishes of those who already enjoy that right? If the question of segregation in streetcars should arise in Washington, who would suggest that it ought to be settled by a referendum among white streetcar riders? Or who would dare assert publicly that, when a qualified Negro applies for employment in a Government office, the preferences of the whites already employed there should decide his fate?

My point is that, like the question of suffrage, the issue of equal access to places of public accommodation is an issue of public policy. The National Theater is no more a private club than is the Democratic Party of Mississippi or a Capital Transit streetcar or a Government office.

The real issue is whether this society of ours intends to be democratic or not. The question is, therefore, one of basic public policy—in a real sense, a question of the constitution of society. The proper way to decide such questions is by legislative enactment following full and free discussion—not by polling the present customers, or letting a businessman follow his whims, or "conforming to the mores."

It is significant that no acts of Congress now on the books authorize racial discrimination or require segregation of any kind in the District of Columbia, while many expressly forbid one or both. But Congress has not yet done its full duty by us—"the mores" and the preferences of powerful groups are still allowed to make the Nation's Capital a denial of the creed that "all men are created equal." The sooner Congressmen recognize their responsibility and enact a thorough-going civil rights statute for the District, the better off we all shall be.

Judge Raedy's Answer

Whatever may have been Judge Raedy's qualifications at the time of her appointment to the municipal judgeship, her qualifications, it seems to me, have now been subjected to serious question as a result of at least one of the following: (1) fuddle-headness; (2) lack of candor; (3) deviousness.

She herself should be in the best position to answer the question as to her present qualifications.

"Indonesian Snag"

I read with a sharp sense of shock your editorial of August 21, entitled "Indonesian Snag." I don't think the bitter repudiation of the rights of millions of far-off peoples is in any way mitigated by the pious assurance that the "age of colonialism is in liquidation."

"What made the Dutch take action," you say, "was the inability of the Indonesians to assume any kind of authority." On the contrary, the evidence seems to show that they assumed too much authority. Also, the business section of the New York Times has been pretty continuously full of assurances that the purpose of the Dutch drive was to seize Indonesian assets to buttress the weak Dutch economy.

"The Dutch are now trying to restore the channels of trade which have been blocked by the Republicans," you state. But it is a matter of record that the Dutch blockaded Indonesian ports during the recent period of peace.

"Instead of accepting our good offices, they are seeking to stall by insisting on interminable discussions in the Security Council." The question of how good our offices were, of how sincere we were, is a matter of opinion. However, there is no question about this stalling business. If you will examine the reports I believe you will find that time works on the side of the Dutch and that the Indonesians show every sign of knowing this.

Cure For Monopoly

The Government's instigation of action under the antitrust and related laws against concerns suspected of price fixing is no more likely to be successful than it has been in the past. Certainly it will not stop the present dangerous price rise or the continued growth of monopolies. All experience shows that legal action does not reach the basic causes which induce business men to shut off competition or workers to enforce monopoly wages.

Monopolies develop because businessmen and workers feel insecure and consequently believe they must combine in groups strong enough to enforce their demands. The businessman feels insecure because of fear of loss of markets, higher raw material prices, higher wage rates, changes in Government policy, etc., The worker feels insecure because of fear of unemployment and uncertainty of a sure annual income.

A new approach to the monopoly issue which recognizes these basic insecurities as the cause of the trouble is needed. If certain private risks and insecurities are in considerable part removed, there will be little need for restrictions of production, price fixing, excessively high hourly wage rates, etc. All risks cannot of course be removed but some can be.

Government should survey consumer needs, and, considering the Nation's production and consumption capacity, fix standards and needs for the major types of goods and services. It might then guarantee markets for the predetermined volume of key types of goods and services. These guarantees ought to be made at low (but certain) prices based on what the competitive price would be for a large volume of production. No guarantees would be made for production above the predetermined amounts. Little actual Government buying would be required because producers would be willing to produce, as they did during the war, at low prices provided they were assured of a large market. High prices of themselves do not induce the necessary production.

With such guarantees, producers could assure a large number of jobs at moderate but certain annual wages, thus removing the major cause for labor monopolies which enforce excessively high hourly wages, raise costs of production unduly, and consequently raise prices.

Government should at the same time provide various technical services and educational aids to private businesses and individuals so that producers could fulfill their social obligations, and so that relatively inefficient groups would increase their efficiency. This would prevent subsidy of inefficient producers or consumers. We could then have an economy featured by small and moderate sized concerns without monopoly, operated on the pattern of maximum use of capital and facilities, large volume of business, and low profits per unit.

The cure for monopoly prices and restricted production in the capital goods and raw material industries would be price fixing for these commodities by their chief industrial and agricultural consumers. Since each concern in these categories would have its own prices fixed by somebody else, consumer voting on boards of directors would tend toward low and competitive (though not excessively low) prices based on production costs and supply and demand. The consumer of power, steel, coal and copper obviously has a self-interest in relatively low prices. In such a system nationalization or socialization of heavy industry would be unnecessary.

If this approach to the monopoly problem were taken, legal action against monopolistic practices might reasonably be expected to succeed. We should have a satisfactory alternative to the traditional system of free enterprise or the socialized systems being promoted elsewhere in the world. We should have a free and creative economy which filled popular social needs and at the same time gave adequate prizes to the most vigorous, inventive and efficient individuals. The American system would thus afford both liberty and groceries to the masses of people.

German Industry

BERLIN.—Too often in working out American foreign policy, the right hand does not know what the left hand is doing. That happened with respect to Germany, and the consequences for a time looked so serious that everything we are trying to do here might have gone for nothing. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American military governor, felt that the ground was being cut out from under him, and a rumor of his resignation was current.

Fortunately, the London Conference on the Level of German Industry seems to have gone more smoothly than anyone expected, and therefore the only harmful result of the situation may be delay.

This is what happened. In March of 1946, representatives of the Big Four on the Allied Control Council in Berlin reached an agreement on the level of German industry. It was based on the language of the Potsdam declaration, which said that the occupying powers were to help the Germans "prepare for the eventual reconstruction of their life on a democratic and peaceful basis."

The four-power agreement provided that German steel production in any one year would not be more than 5,800,000 tons, with total capacity at 7,500,000 tons. The agreement meant cutting German production back approximately to the level of the depression year of 1933. Excess plants and machinery were to go as reparations.

Supposedly, under the agreement, there would be an exchange of goods between the four zones. Germany would be a single economic unit.

IT DID NOT work that way. An unexpected burden was foisted on the United States and British zones. Hundreds of thousands of Germans moved in from the Soviet zone, hoping for a better break.

With great difficulty the average level of diet was kept at 1100 to 1500 calories a day, and last winter it fell below even that subsistence minimum. This was true although more than 600 million dollars worth of supplies were being shipped in from outside, mostly from the U. S. A.

Both British and American officials in Germany were in agreement that the level of industry would have to be raised. They began to work out a program for uniting the economies of their two zones. The idea was to make them more nearly self-sufficient, because obviously the British cannot go on footing the bill and the American taxpayer will sooner or later rebel.

Clay was invited by Secretary of State George C. Marshall to attend the Conference of Foreign Ministers in Moscow last March. There he had several long conferences with Marshall and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin. They ordered him finally to go ahead and, in cooperation with the British military government, to work out a new level for industry in the British-United States zones.

THAT PLAN was completed on July 16. Into it had gone weeks of patient work. It provided that sufficient industry would be retained in the two zones so that German production would be approximately at the level of 1936, which was neither a boom year nor a depression year. This level would represent a reduction of 55 to 60 per cent under the wartime year of 1944.

In his report, Clay pointed out that the population increase in the two zones had been 16 per cent since the start of the war. On a per capita basis, the industrial level would still be very low since there were six million more people in the area.

To maintain an essential diet, it was estimated under the plan, one billion dollars to $1,250,000,000 in food would have to be imported. A total of about two billion dollars in goods would have to come from outside. The cost would be met by exports out of the area which in 1936, measured by present prices, were worth $1,750,000,000. Steel capacity would be raised to 10,700,000 tons. The increases in some products, such as machine tools, would be very much greater.

This was the plan Clay and the British put together. Before anything could be done about it, the French protested violently in Washington.

Then Clay learned that a French-United States-British conference was to be held in London to pass on the whole question. That would mean certainly a delay. It might mean that the whole plan was out the window.

Faced with another winter and 40 million hungry Germans, it seemed to Clay at that time that his position was intolerable. Responsibility without power, or with a conflict of powers, adds up to stalemate and defeat. But Clay is not the type to take defeat lying down.

Patent Delay

American inventive ability is being crippled by our antiquated Patent Office. Originally the Patent Office was established to encourage inventors; now everything is done to discourage them. When it takes over a year to get a response from an office established for the very purpose of giving information, there is a condition very depressing to the most optimistic inventor.

Most of the members of the Inventors Club of Miami have simply quit sending applications. Because of this it is possible throughout the country that world-bettering inventions simply die. After senseless hypothetical objections to a time-saving surgical instrument, which objections continued for five years and made the instrument too late for the war, I was finally granted everything asked in the original application.

Matter Of Fact

Nine Little Indians

THE JOB of selecting Harry S. Truman's 1948 running mate is, "in the talk stage." The language is borrowed from a presidential adviser, who has been participating in the talks. What it means is simple. The President and the chieftains of the Democratic organization are already poking and sniffing at the selection of available candidates, like a set of careful housewives looking for a good brisket of beef on a badly stocked butcher's counter.

The specifications officially laid down for the ideal Democratic nominee for the Vice Presidency are revealing in themselves. He is to be a vote-getting Easterner if possible, since Ed Flynn of New York and other party satraps have warned that their States will be hard to hold in the Democratic column. He is to be at least acceptable to the labor and liberal vote. And above all, he is to have "glamour." Even the President, with his inherent modesty, feels that he needs a reasonably striking personality to play Theodore Roosevelt of 1900 to his own more up-to-date McKinley.

Preparing sets of specifications is always agreeable, whatever the purpose. But the President and his advisers would make their choice no harder if they added to the list of desirable vice presidential qualities the power to walk upon the waters. The fact is that no one in the Democratic Party meets the specifications which have been laid down thus far.

THERE IS NO great famine of aspirants, to be sure. Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson is so anxious to make the race that he has actually proposed himself to the President. The President, liking his Cabinet colleague, took the suggestion in good part. Anderson is large, dignified, prosperous, honest, reasonably able and kind to animals. In ordinary times, he would make a perfect vice presidential nominee. But these are not ordinary times. The howls from the satrapies could be heard at the White House all the way from Chicago and New York. The satraps cried that Anderson was unknown, and being Southern, might even frighten votes away in the key States.

Another who might like the job is Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland. He boasts, however, an almost unblemished antilabor record, so that his nomination would cancel out the entire gain made by the President's veto of the Taft-Hartley law. The President is in no position to throw political assets overboard like refuse.

Then there are what may be called the wishful-thinking, or I-am-a-fugitive-from-the-Supreme Court candidates. A name viewed with genuine favor by the Democratic satraps is that of Chief Justice Fred Vinson. Althought a Southerner, Vinson has a record that would give him a real pulling power in the big cities of the North. Among some Democratic leaders, a nominate-Vinson movement actually started a month or so ago. But more practical councillors pointed out that the Chief Justice greatly dislikes involvement of the bench in politics, and is far from needing his head examined. The movement died aborning, as has the comparable movement to nominate that hardy perennial, Justice William O. Douglas.

THUS THE problem, as now envisioned, boils down to a choice between the dark horses and the tiny group of fairly obviously available candidates. A dark horse being currently mentioned is Representative A. S. Mike Monroney, of Oklahoma. Proponents of the dark horse strategy argue that the best course is to pick someone like Monroney, who may be unknown to most voters but possesses a good record and highly effective personality.

Again, however, the satraps want someone their people know. Consequently this game of "nine little Indians hanging on the wall" comes down to three little Indians hanging on the wall. These are Senate Democratic Leader Alben W. Barkley, of Kentucky, Secretary of National Defense James Forrestal, and Secretary of Commerce Averell Harriman.

Barkley's virtues have always been undervalued since President Roosevelt first forced the Senate Democrats to take him as their leader. He has served his party faithfully and well. But he is no longer young and he is not the sort of Southern campaigner who exports well to the crucial North. As for Forrestal and Harriman, no one can deny their claims of outstanding service, great personal distinction and power to deal forcefully with great issues. Their drawbacks are that they both bear the labels of wealth and Wall Street. Once again, the party satraps are extremely reluctant to see either Forrestal or Harriman nominated, and have signified their distaste to the White House.

Nonetheless, beggars cannot be choosers. An habitual bettor on long shots could do far worse than get some money down on Forrestal, who has perhaps a shade the edge. Meanwhile, the preeminence of these two relative political outsiders underlines the Democratic Party's universal dilapidation. That is perhaps the most significant feature of the whole business.

Turbulent Era

By Mark Sullivan

Self-Help And American Help

AS WE COME to the eighth anniversary of the beginning of the recent war, an appropriate reflection is to be found in the words of a distinguished English author, Sir Osbert Sitwell. He is writing, not of the recent war but of the eve of the First World War in 1914, and the period preceding:

Sullivan

"I had the fortune to be born toward the sunset hour of one of the great periodic calms of history. So placid was this brief golden halt that often as a small child, passionately addicted to reading books of history, I used to wonder whether its stream had not already dried up."

Today in Washington one realizes how far from placid the stream of world events has become, how tumultuous its rush. This generation lives in a turmoil so headlong and complex that almost one speculates with a sense of wonder on the policy of mortal man to keep pace.

From the world-wide swirl can be detached one group of events which compose at least a tiny island of constructive effort, an attempt which, if it is successful, might be the basis of hope for a better condition in an important part of the world. This is the Marshall Plan for the restoration of Europe.

AT THE moment hope for the plan is disquieted by developments in the conference of 16 European nations at Paris which are to carry out the European part of the plan. What they have done so far suggests an expectation of greater aid from the United States than is practicable. This, however, was expected and does not dismay our officials. Some steps taken by the Paris Conference are sound, and the conference will be informed by officials of our State Department about the limitations on what may be expected from the United States. The plan will proceed.

The Marshall Plan can be divided into parts. One is a statement by the European nations of what they may do for themselves. This will include agreements upon reducing or removing tariffs, strengthening monetary systems, allocation and priorities for scarce materials, in general, the creation of conditions that build up confidence.

Another part of the plan, to be provided by the Paris Conference, is a statement of what the European nations, after their own all-out effort has been made, will need from us in food, materials and money. This statement will divide their need from us into two categories—what will be needed immediately to carry Europe through the winter, and what will be needed over the next few years until a date when help from this country will no longer be necessary.

Complementary to what is being done at Paris, three American committees set up by President Truman are working feverishly upon a study of our policy to aid Europe and how best we can contribute without dangerous strain upon us. This includes a study of our resources, financial and material, such as coal, oil, farm products and the like.

AFTER EUROPE'S statement of its needs, and our statement of what we can supply, there will be analysis, comparison and checking by our State Department and other Administration officials. Thereafter, action will be up to Congress. That body is already preparing itself for well-informed judgment and evaluation of what and how much we can do. A committee of the House, accompanied by technical experts, left for Europe this week to make its own study; later a committee of the Senate will go. Rarely have committees of Congress approached any task with more sober sense of responsibility.

To state the Marshall Plan so briefly is of course an over-simplification. And the Marshall Plan is not all. Apart from it but bearing directly on it are meetings between the English and American governments to decide on coal production in Germany, and meetings including the French government to decide about increasing the level of industry for Germany. Concurrently goes on the financial and economic crisis in Britain, about which action must be taken very soon. Added to all this are possible crises, either political or economic in Italy, France and some other European countries.

Altogether the decisions which will face our Government and people within the next 30 to 45 days are many and grave. It can be said that our officials, in the State Department and elsewhere in the Administration, face them with energy, with thoroughly informed understanding, and above all with an attitude that looks affirmatively in a constructive direction.

Text of Letters Exchanged By Truman, Pope on Peace

By The Associated Press

Following are the texts of the exchange of letters between President Truman and Pope Pius XII:

The text of President Truman's letter to the Pope, as presented by Myron C. Taylor, the President's personal representative:

Your Holiness:

IN CONTINUANCE of the exchanges of views undertaken from time to time since their beginning, on December 23, 1939, for the purpose of facilitating parallel endeavors for peace and the alleviation of human suffering, I am requesting Mr. Taylor to return to Rome and to resume audiences with Your Holiness at such times as may be found appropriate. These exchanges have already contributed profoundly toward a sound and lasting peace and to the strengthening of the impelling convictions pursued by the peoples of the world in their quest for a moral world order firmly established in the life of nations.

I desire to do everything in my power to support and to contribute to a concert of all the forces striving for a moral world. Those forces are in the homes of peaceful and law-abiding citizens in every part of the world who are exemplifying in their own lives the principles of the good neighbor: The Golden Rule itself. They are on the farms, in the factories, mines and little shops in all parts of the world where the principles of free cooperation and voluntary association in self-government are honored.

These moral aspirations are in the hearts of good men the world over. They are in all churches, and in schools. The war demonstrated that all persons, regardless of divergent religious allegiances can unite their efforts for the preservation and support of the principles of freedom and morality and justice. They must unite their efforts in the cause of enduring peace if they are not one by one to be weakened and rendered impotent at the times of their great need. They have individually and together, the duty to vindicate, by their thoughts and deeds, the great hopes for which men fought in World War II and the hopes which today all serious-thinking men and women throughout the world know must be attained.

The tasks now confronting us are formidable. The conditions for meeting the heavy problems of war settlement and of new problems still unsolved are accompanied by multiplied discouragements. Unless the moral forces of the world now join their strength, discouragement must inevitably deepen and the strength and effectiveness which thereby would be lost by these moral forces would be gained by those forces which oppose and seek to destroy them. The hopes and ideals of mankind have often been jeopardized by force. They will be jeopardized today by any division of the moral forces of the world or, by any refusal to support and strengthen the hopes and ideals of all mankind.

As the chosen leader of the people of the United States I am privileged to pledge full faith to you once again to work with Your Holiness and with every agency of good the world over for an enduring peace. An enduring peace can be built only upon Christian principles, to such a consummation we dedicate all our resources, both spiritual and material, remembering always that except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain who build it.

YOUR HOLINESS, this is a Christian Nation. More than half a century ago that declaration was written into the decrees of the highest court in the land. It is not without significance that the valiant pioneers who left Europe to establish settlements here, at the very beginning of their colonial enterprises, declared their faith in the Christian religion and made ample provision for its practice and for its support. The story of the Christian missionaries who in earliest days endured perils, hardship—even death itself in carrying the message of Jesus Christ to untutored savages is one that still moves the hearts of men.

As a Christian Nation our earnest desire is to work with men of good will everywhere to banish war and causes of war from the world whose Creator desired that men of every race and in every clime should live together in peace and good will and mutual trust. Freedom of conscience, ordained by the fathers of our Constitution to all who live under the Flag of the United States, has been a bulwark of national strength, a source of happiness, from the establishment of our Nation to this day.

I believe that the greatest need of the world today, fundamental to all else, is a renewal of faith. I seek to encourage renewed faith in the dignity and worth of the human person in all lands, to the end that the individual's sacred rights, inherent in his relationship to God and his fellows, will be respected in every land. We must have faith in the inevitable triumph of truth and decency; faith that mankind shall live in freedom, not in the chains of untruth nor in the chains of a collectivist organization of their lives; faith of such fullness that it will energize men and women everywhere to build with tenacity, the better social world order under self-rule. The times demand faith that is strong enough to struggle if need be for the right, that is able to endure troubles and hardships, attack and even contempt from forces of evil—and able to arise reborn and revitalized from the daily struggle. Faith leads to hope, to determination, to trust in the truth and the good, and to sustained effort to create the kind of peace and well-being sought by humble men and women in all lands and which will ultimately prevail between all nations. Through faith, the purposes of God shall be carried out in the hearts and deeds of man. I believe with heartfelt conviction that those who do not recognize their responsibility to Almighty God cannot meet their full duty toward their fellow men.

I have asked Mr. Taylor to convey these views and to say that I seek to cooperate with the efforts of Your Holiness and the efforts of every leader of the world's moral forces. Our common goal is to arouse and invigorate the faith of men to attain eternal values in our own generation — no matter what obstacles exist or may arise in the path.

The Pope's reply:

WE HAVE just received from the hands of your personal representative, Mr. Myron Taylor, Your Excellency's letter of August 6 and we hasten to express our satisfaction and thanks for this latest testimony to the desire and determination of a great and free people to dedicate themselves with their characteristic confidence and generosity to the noble task of strengthening the foundations of that peace for which all peoples of the earth are longing. As their chosen leader Your Excellency seeks to enlist and cement the cooperation of every force and power which can help to accomplish this task. No one more than we will hope for its success and for the happy achievement of the goal. We pledge our resources and earnestly beg God's assistance.

What is proposed is to ensure the foundations of a lasting peace among nations. It were indeed futile to promise long life to any building erected on shifting sands or a cracked and crumbling base. The foundations, we know, of such a peace (the truth finds expression once again in the letter of Your Excellency) can be secured only if they rest on bedrock faith in the one true God, the creator of all men. It was He who of necessity assigned man's purpose in life. It is from Him, with consequent necessity, that man derives personal imprescriptible rights to pursue that purpose and to be unhindered in the attainment of it. Civic society is also of divine origin and indicated by nature itself but it is subsequent to man and meant to be a means to defend him and to help him in the legitimate exercise of his God-given rights. Once the state to the exclusion of God makes itself the source of the rights of the human person, man is forthwith reduced to the condition of a slave or a mere civic commodity to be exploited for the selfish aims of a group that happens to have power. The order of God is overturned and history surely makes it clear to those who wish to read that the inevitable result in the subversion of order between peoples is war. The task then before the friend of peace is clear.

Is Your Excellency oversanguine in hoping to find men throughout the world ready to cooperate for such a worthy enterprise? We think not. Truth has lost none of its power to rally to its cause the most enlightened minds and noblest spirits. Their ardour is fed by the flame of righteous freedom struggling to break through injustice and lying. But those who possess the truth must be conscientious to define it clearly when its foes cleverly distort it; bold to defend it and generous enough to set the course of their lives both national and personal by its dictates. This will require moreover correcting not a few aberations. Social injustices, racial injustices and religious animosities exist today among men and groups who boast of Christian civilization. And they are a very useful and often effective weapon in the hands of those who are bent on destroying all the good which that civilization has brought to men. It is for all sincere lovers of the great human family to unite in wresting those weapons from hostile hands. With that union will come hope that the enemies of God and free men will not prevail.

CERTAINLY Your Excellency and all defenders of the rights of the human person will find wholehearted cooperation from God's church, faithful custodian of eternal truth and loving mother of all. From her foundation almost two thousand years ago she has championed the individual against despotic rule, the labouring man against oppression, religion against persecution. Her divinely given mission often brings her into conflict with the powers of evil whose sole strength is in their physical force and brutalized spirit and her leaders are sent into exile or cast into prison or die under torture. This is history of today but the church is unafraid. She cannot compromise with an avowed enemy of God. She must continue to teach the first and greatest commandment incumbent on every man: 'Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with thy whole heart, with thy whole soul, with all thy strength.' And the second like unto the first: 'Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.' It is her changeless message that man's first duty is to God, then to his fellowman, that that man serves his country best who serves his God most faithfully, that the country that would shackle the word of God, given to men through Jesus Christ, helps not at all the lasting peace of the world. In striving with all the resources at her power to bring men and nations to a clear realization of their duty to God, the church will go on, as she has always done, to offer the most effective contribution to the world's peace and man's eternal salvation.

We are pleased that the letter of Your Excellency has given us the opportunity of saying a word of encouragement for all those who are gravely intent on buttressing the fragile structure of peace until its foundations can be more firmly and wisely established. The munificent charity shown by the American people to the suffering and oppressed in every part of the world, truly worthy of the finest Christian traditions, is a fair token of their sincere desire for universal peace and prosperity. The vast majority of the peoples of the world, we feel sure, share that desire, even in countries where free expression is smothered. God grant their forces may be united towards its relization. There is no room for discouragement or for relaxing of their efforts under the gracious and merciful providence of God, the father of all that is good and holy, and justice will in the end prevail.

Let us assure Your Excellency of our cordial welcome to Mr. Taylor, your personal representative, on his return to Rome; and we are happy to renew the expression of our good wishes for the people of the United States, for the members of their Government, and in particular for its esteemed Chief Executive.

Soviet Blocks Plans for Korea

Seoul, Aug. 28 (U.P.).—Col. Gen. Terenty F. Shtikov, Russian delegate to the Joint Commission on Korea, again blocked formation of a Korean government today by offering a proposal which American officials said would place governmental reins in Communist hands.

Shtikov's statement also rapped United States Maj. Gen. Albert E. Brown for his message of August 25 accusing the Russians of abusing their status as "guests" by interfering in south Korean internal affairs.

Shtikov said the Soviet delegation "is not a mere guest but a member of the international commission . . . that is why the Soviet delegation cannot be indifferent to pogroms against south Korean democratic parties."

Shtikov proposed that the joint commission:

1. Call upon subcommission No. 2 to study the written questionnaires and draw up a draft outlining the provisional government's structure.

2. Create a "consultative body—a provisional all-Korean people's assembly—which would represent various strata of the population and take immediate part in the deliberation of all questions connected with the creation of the provisional Korean democratic government."

The second proposal added that only Koreans representing political and social organizations of more than 10,000 members "and which fully uphold the Moscow decision" be eligible for appointment to the provisional assembly.

Only extreme left-wing parties have announced willingness to abide by the Moscow decision, which called for United States-Soviet trusteeship.

Family of 14 Shares 6 Rooms, Now Come Twins

North Adams, Mass., Aug. 28 (AP).—Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Lescarbeau's private housing problem wasn't eased any today by the arrival of twins, for that made 16 children in their six-room tenement.

Harold and Howard, who joined the Lescarbeau family last night, were the second pair of twin boys in the couple's 18 years of married life. The other pair—Louis and Leon—arrived six years ago.

Lescarbeau, 42-year-old carpenter, and his wife, 38, list their offspring's ages as 17, 16, 15, 14, 13, 11, 10, 9, 7, twins 6, 4, 3 and 2. Mrs. Lescarbeau comes from a family of 12 children and her husband was one of 19.

Mrs. Lescarbeau says she hopes they'll have some more.

Catholic Group Urges Unions To Extend Organization Work

By The Associated Press

The social action department of the National Catholic Welfare Conference last night encouraged unions to sign up America's unorganized workers "as rapidly as possible."

In an advaance salute to the labor movement on the occasion of a national holiday Monday, the department said:

"We encourage it to organize as rapidly as possible the great number of American workers who are still without status or representation in their economic life . . ."

The Catholic organization urged new the creation of a system of industry councils in which labor and management, with Government help, would attempt to work out all of the major problems of economic life: wages, hours, prices, profits, production schedules, etc."

Legislation Asked

It called for such councils a year ago but admitted that "little or nothing" has been done about them.

Yesterday's statement recommended legislation to:

1. Provide "decent accommodations for low-income families" while respecting rights of private enterprise.

2. Supply wider coverage and greater benefits under the Social Security system.

3. Raise the national minimum wage for interstate workers from 40 to at least 65 cents an hour.

4. Make tax laws less complicated while providing "fair incentives" to business and "equitable treatment" of small-income families.

Sharing Plan Advanced

The social action department, headed by Father Raymond A. McGowan, of Brookfield, Mo., said labor had urged increased productivity per man-hour of work and congratulated it for so doing. But there is also needed, it said, "a socially just and reasonably automatic system to distribute the increased productivity of industry as it develops."

It said that means changes in the wage system which could be brought about through the industry council plan. And it bid for President Truman's support of the idea.

The social action department, which strongly criticized the Taft-Hartley Labor Law last June, voiced confidence that labor "voluntarily will correct specific abuses" which the act, in the first instance was presumably designed to eliminate."

Nordic Customs Union Study to Be Urged

Copenhagen, Aug. 28 (AP).—The foreign ministers of Denmark, Norway, Sweden and Iceland will recommend that their respective governments appoint experts to study the possibility of establishing a nordic customs union, it was disclosed tonight.

Truman Plan for Asia Urged to Block Reds

Honolulu, Aug. 27 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Samuel L. Howard, commander of Marine garrison forces in the Pacific, today urged extension of the Truman doctrine to Asia "to stop the march of Communism."

In an address to the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Howard advocated United States aid to the Chinese government declaring it could not exist without outside help."

Howard declared a United States "wait and see" policy toward China must be changed, and munitions, supplies and money be provided "unless all China and eventually India are to become Communist controlled."

Wholesale Prices Reach New Peak

Wholesale prices rose another 0.3 per cent to new postwar peaks in the week ending August 23, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported yesterday.

This took the bureau's price index to 153.3 per cent of the 1926 average, which is 100. It was 1.9 per cent above a month earlier and 19.5 per cent above a year ago. By comparison with 1937, it was 75.8 per cent higher and was 59.4 per cent above the August, 1929, level.

As a group, farm products were 0.3 per cent below a month ago and 12.7 per cent higher than a year earlier.

'Thin Man' and 'Going Native' Sharing Spotlight at Capitol

(Mr. Brady, an instructor in the speech and drama department at Catholic University, has been a frequent contributor to The Washington Post's theater page. He will handle theater reviews while Richard L. Coe is on vacation.)

By Leo Brady

THE eighth edition of "Going Native," Loew's all-Washington revue, took over the stage at the Capitol Theater yesterday, where it will share the F st. spotlight for a week with the shadows of William Powell and Myrna Loy in "The Song of the Thin Man."

As a display of local talent, Producer Gene Ford's show carries on the tradition established a few years ago and no doubt many of this year's performers will eventually turn up in various strata of the bigtime. If the talent is a trifle uneven, and the tempo trips here and there, these are typical revue difficulties and the lady in the seat behind me verbalized audience applause by pronouncing that it was "better than the regular shows."

Noisiest Ovation

Even allowing for pardonable civic prejudice, she was probably basing her enjoyment on performers like Tony Donadio, who deservingly drew the noisiest ovation for his brilliant singing; Robert L. Friend, who has an uncomfortable knack for doing mental tricks in a showmanly manner; Guy Frederick, an efficient magician; Richard Greenfield, who dubbed himself in front of a Betty Hutton record, and Don McArt, who couldn't decide whether to be like Al Jolson or not. Pete Christakos and Joe Garvey were both lively and adept but they managed to cancel each other out by doing practically the same thing.

The dancing chorus is entirely young and handsome and Sam Jack Kaufmann deserves an accolade for the singing group. The climax number built around Gordon Jenkins' "Manhattan Tower" composition would be much more apropos in New York, naturally, even though the music itself and Kay DeWitt make it worth while.

"SONG OF THE THIN MAN." Directed by Edward Buzzell. Produced by Nat Perrin. Screen play by Steve Fisher and Nat Perrin. Story by Stanley Roberts. Based on the characters created by Dashiell Hammett. An MGM picture. At the Capitol.

You'll find it all very pleasant, even if you're forced to wonder why the show included neither a girl singer nor a comedian.

Old Routine, But Good

"The Song of the Thin Man" is pretty much the old D. Hammett refrain—which is to say that it is funny in spots, exciting in spots and comfortable and friendly all around. M-G-M doesn't change the formula for this series any more than they change the three leading characters—including Asta the hound in adition to Powell and Miss Loy.

The only fresh addition to the routine is Keenan Wynn who cracks wise and obscurely as a swing musician. He isn't as funny as you've seen him but he adds to the overall casual, chummy air of the film. The murdered man is a swing band leader who gets his mortal coil shuffled off violently with an eighteenth century revolver. Nick and Nora Charles do their usual night-life prowling—with occasional qualms about their five-year-old son—and are most interesting when they visit jam-joints to listen to spontaneous ickeys gut-bucket. (That's the way people in this picture talk.) If you're a confirmed Hammett fan, you may not think that the thin man is growing a little thin.

Lupino and Clark Do Well In Fair 'Meller' at the Earle

By Orval Hopkins

FOR years we have been a sap about Ida Lupino. After seeing her in a rather inadequate melodrama called "Deep Valley," which opened yesterday at the Earle, we still are.

But Hollywood sometimes asks quite a bit of a girl. Ida can do almost anything and proved it in a picture the name of which doesn't seem to come now, but in which she not only delivered a couple of songs in good journeyman fashion but created a credible character as well.

Now in "Deep Valley" Ida is asked to be afflicted with the stutters. The reason for this is made quite clear, but the device is sort of hauled in by the scruff, worried a bit and then dropped entirely. Presumably Dan Totheroh, who wrote the novel on which the film is based, handled this business of the stammering virgin a little differently. In the movies it only clutters things up. Anyway, Ida does a very nice job with what she has and, as always, is a pleasure to see.

Clark in Good Form

This is the story of the young convict, played by Dane Clark, and quite well, too, who escapes from a California road gang, encounters Ida in the woods, and is forced by the circumstance of a lot of cops with guns to flee to the sanctuary of her father's barn. The picture has gone along at a good clip thus far but, except for one or two subsequent spasms, bogs down about here and trickles to a rather commonplace denouement.

Now that this could be called a poor picture. Not at all. Quite good entertainment, in fact. It's always a pleasure to watch seasoned people like Henry Hull and Fay Bainter at work. They realize, as many a young Hollywood star doesn't, that only rarely is it necessary to gasp and wriggle and flail the eyelids to get a point across. Wayne Morris as a young engineer and Willard Robertson as the sheriff are completely satisfactory.

About the Music

Just one more thing: We may be wholly alone in this, but we think the music which accompanies some of these films has gotten out of hand. It is to be assumed that the score is designed to contribute to the paying customer's enjoyment of the picture. We know somebody who is only annoyed by it. In "Deep Valley," for instance, you have an ominous, dirge-like passage, throbbing with tympani, when Henry Hull is stalking about his old house wondering where the heck everybody is. This switches in a flash to a sprightly, whistly phrase as Ida skips through the brush, then to a forbidding, strident note as the convict comes on the scene, and finally to a swinging, soaring sequence as Ida splashes happily in a mountain pool. This, if we may say so, is ridiculous.

There is also a cartoon, a newsreel and a short item at the Earle. "Deep Valley" also is playing at the Ambassador.

Murvyn Vye Warbles 2 Songs In Bing's 'Connecticut Yankee'

HOLLYWOOD.—Ilona Massey goes into "In Old Los Angeles," with Bill Elliott, John Carroll, Joseph Schildkraut and Andy Devine, which means she's again postponed her marriage to Jay Kurtz. I'm wondering if they'll ever get around to having that knot tied.

Bing (whim of iron) Crosby phoned Bob Fellows, producer of "Connecticut Yankee," that he approves of the script. Bing and Bill Murrow caught so many fish in Seattle, they're growing scales. Crosby will do his next two radio shows in San Francisco to get the benefit of a new audience.

Rhoda Fleming still has the inside track as Bing's leading lady in "Connecticut Yankee," and Murvyn Vye, who'll play a magician in that picture, will sing two songs specially written for him by Johnny Burke and Jimmy Van Heusen. Wait until you hear the sound of Vye's voice. He's the next guy you'll swoon over.

Bandsmen to Record Album

Benny Goodman, Tommy Dorsey, Lionel Hampton, Charlie Barnet and Louis Armstrong have Petrillo's permission to record an album of music for the picture "A Song Is Born," with all profits going to the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund. That should be a collector's item, and its sale could go on for years.

The composer of "Intermezzo" gets rich every time that picture is reissued. The song always goes back on the Hit Parade, and the composer gets 2 cents for every record sold. Already his take is over $100,000. Paulette Goddard cabled Evelyn Keyes that she had bought a Picasso painting for her in Paris. It's one he did during the occupation. I hope it's better than the ones I saw reproduced in a recent magazine.

Constance Collier wrote from London that she'd written a self-profile for the London Bystander. She's had two visits with Queen Mary, and spent a day with Bernard Shaw. Says Connie, "Much as I adore being in London, I'm looking forward to getting back to Hollywood. However, I have so many friends over here—Orson Welles, Margaret Sullavan, David Niven, Joe Mankiewicz, Paulette Goddard—that I had no chance to be homesick." Ruth Warrick canceled out on J. Arthur Rank's production of Sean O'Casey's "Shadow of a Woman," which was to be made in Ireland, because of the tax trouble.

Dennis Day Gets Horse

Dennis Day, while in Mexico, was a guest of Alfredo Rey, President Aleman's cousin. Rey's a great horseman, and he and Dennis rode daily. Now, I'll be darned if he hasn't sent Dennis a pony . . . Ben Chasen (Dave's cousin), a mighty funny night club comedian, is in "That's Life" with Danny Kaye. Incidentally, the title's been changed to "A Song Is Born." Somebody is bound to get mixed up with that title. We've had "A Song to Remember" and "A Star Is Born"—and now "A Song Is Born."

Tex Ritter, with his horse, White Flash, is off on a 3-months' tour of the South. With this tour, Ritter will have played every State in the Union this year. I found on my recent tour that that's the best way for a star to sell himself. Burt Lancaster is taking over Van Johnson's bobby sox following in the outlying districts. The kids want to know more and more about him. One youngster told me she'd seen him in "The Killers" six times.

The Gallup Poll

Four Out of Five Don't Know Who Would Succeed Truman

By George Gallup

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., Aug. 28.—Important domestic and international implications would be involved, if the presidency of the United States were vacated today. Yet four out of five of the Nation's voters do not know what man would move into the White House if that event took place.

By act of Congress in the closing days of the last session, Republican Joseph W. Martin, as Speaker of the House, would take Democrat Harry S. Truman's place in the White House if the President were unable to continue in office.

Voters were asked:

"If anything should happen to President Truman, do you know who would be President?"

The answers:

Don't Know	51%
Speaker of House or Joseph Martin (correct)	22
Secretary of State or George C. Marshall (incorrect)	19
Other incorrect	8

Educational breakdowns reveal wide differences in familiarity with the new succession law.

	College	High School	Grammar School
Don't know	16%	39%	67%
Speaker of House or Joseph Martin	48	29	12
Secretary of State or George C. Marshall	28	24	13
Other incorrect	8	8	8

Older voters are more informed than younger age groups. While only 15 per cent of those under 30 years gave correct answers, 24 per cent of the group over 30 replied "Speaker of the House" or "Joseph Martin."

Republicans had a very slight edge over Democrats in answering correctly.

Prior to the new legislation the Secretary of State was next in line to the Presidency upon the death of the Chief Executive and the Vice President. The change was made by Congress at the active behest of President Truman "so that the office of the President would be filled by an officer who holds his position as a result of the expression of the will of the voters in this country."

When Mr. Truman first made his recommendation, soon after becoming President, a Democrat was Speaker of the House. Now, with a Republican holding that post, the picture is radically different. The GOP, already in control of Congress, would immediately gain occupancy of the White House, if anything befell Mr. Truman. Furthermore, the party would gain a definite advantage in the next election, if Mr. Martin were to become President prior to November, 1948.

American voters were closely divided on the need of changing the succession law while the legislation was pending last spring. At that time 46 per cent of the voters knew that Secretary of State Marshall would have been inducted as President if anything happened to his chief. Of that informed group, an Institute poll revealed, 44 per cent wanted the law left unchanged, while 41 per cent favored the President's recommended change, with 15 per cent holding no opinion.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Peron Is Prisoner of His Generals

(Editor's Note—While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by his old partner, Robert S. Allen.)

By Robert S. Allen

While the Peron delegation has been jolting United States plans for hemisphere defense at the Rio Conference, Peron himself has been experiencing some severe jolts in Buenos Aires.

Col. Peron

According to confidential dispatches from the Argentine capital, in a coup by ultra-Nationalistic army elements Peron has been stripped of real power and made the virtual prisoner of this clique.

Leaders of the clique are Generals Filomeno Valezco, former chief of the federal police, and Oscar Silva, former Peron military aide. The secret coup took place in Peron's home, August 14, in the presence of his full cabinet.

After a stormy argument with the two generals, Peron suddenly announced his intention to resign the presidency.

"You will not," Velazco shot back. "You are not going to pull an October 17 on us. You're going to stay right here and do as you are told."

(The October 17 reference was to the day in 1945 when Peron was freed from jail by huge street demonstrations after eight days' arrest on conspiracy charges.)

Follows Orders

Peron has been following the general's orders since August 14. It was on their order that he abruptly ousted his close friend and economic czar, Miranda, from the cabinet last week. This was the first change in the Peron cabinet since he became President. Miranda, who is reputed to have become immensely wealthy since he tied up with Peron, is strongly disliked by Argentine business interests and large landowners.

Other cabinet changes will be announced shortly. Intention of the military clique is to create a super-cabinet; a small group made up of generals and admirals. Admiral Castro, dominant political figure in the navy, is slated to be in this ruling band.

Underlying the "palace revolution" is the belief of the military that civil war impends in Argentina. Labor, formerly backbone of Peron's support, has become increasingly hostile in recent months as a result of a combination of repressive measures and failure to make good his promises.

Plan of the generals' clique is to set up a form of police state with far-reaching totalitarian controls in order to be in a strong position to combat a mass revolt if and when it occurs.

Note: Significant fact not reported by the Rio press was that Peron's glamorous wife, Eva, did not go to Buenos Aires upon her return from Europe. She went direct to the Rio Conference.

'Bell Cycle'

The "bell cycle" may not be a threat to world peace, but it has thousands of American women angrily shooting from the hipline.

"Bell cycle" is the trade name for the latest feminine fashion trend—those long, tapered skirts with the "hip accent" decreed by style arbiters.

No one in the Government is experiencing a bigger headache from the controversial innovation than Mrs. Virginia Collier, attractive chief of the apparel branch of the Commerce Department's textile and leather division. She has to read the flood of brickbats rolling in from all parts of the country demanding that the Government "do something" about the latest skirt edict.

Chief complaint of the indignant letter-writers is over the expense of buying new wardrobes.

"In general," reports Mrs. Collier, "youth is accepting the change more amenably than older women. Also, judging by the sales of higher-priced garments, the upper-income brackets aren't too antagonistic. But, generally speaking, dollar-volume sales of women's clothing are below last year's. And that's the best yardstick of how women feel about this new style."

Patton Vs. Lee

Very significant in the uproar over Lieut. Gen. ("God-almighty") Lee is the fact that no United States battle commander in Europe has come forward with a single word in his defense. Lee was chief of supply in the ETO.

While a number of combat officers, some of them regulars, have spoken out caustically regarding him, not one has yet said a good word for him. The reason is that Lee was widely unpopular.

The late great Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., repeatedly clashed with Lee over the failure of Third Army to get urgently needed battle supplies and equipment.

On one of Patton's rare visits to SHAEF in London, prior to the invasion, Lee noticed that Paton had brass buttons on his battle jacket. Several days later Lee issued a directive banning brass buttons and ordering that only bone butons be worn. He sent a copy of the order to Patton with a handful of bone buttons.

After reading the order, Patton threw it in the wastebasket and the buttons into a drawer in his desk. He continued to wear his brass buttons until the day he died.

Gun Shy

The House Small Business Committee's probe of farm cooperatives has shrewd Speaker Joe Martin worried.

From his home in North Attleboro, Mass., he sent this warning telegram to Committee Chairman Walter Ploeser, St. Louis Republican: "Take it easy. Don't be rash. Wire me your plan of procedure. Investigation may backfire."

Significantly, Martin sent his wire the same day Senator Owen Brewster, head of the embattled War Investigating Committee, visited him.

Test Ballot

Political chiefs of both parties have their eyes glued on what happens in Cleveland, Ohio, September 30. The big, Midwestern industrial metropolis holds a mayoralty primary that day that may be a significant portent of the 1948 voting trend.

Both parties have strong candidates. The Democrats, popular Mayor Thomas Burke, who won reelection in 1945 by a big majority; the Republicans, Eliot Ness, who gained fame a decade ago as an antigraft crusading safety director.

Ohio went Republican both in the 1944 presidential election and in the 1946 State election. However, Cuyahoga County, in which Cleveland is located, has a preponderant labor constituency. Also, it is the heaviest populated county and has a long independent balloting record. So what happens in the Burke-Ness mayoralty battle is of great moment to both the GOP and Democrats. That's why they are not only watching it closely, but quietly putting a lot of money into the fight.

Swing Session

Goodman Inarticulate Jazz Man

By Bill Gottlieb

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—When Tommy Dorsey punched Benny Goodman in the nose last week for coming to a Hollywood sound track date two hours late, both were acting in character—terrible tempered Tommy for swinging, and preoccupied Benny for not having his mind on business.

Benny Goodman, with whom I'm primarily concerned today, represents the typical talented jazz man—a person who lives only for his music and is disdainful of appointments, surroundings, conversation and anything else that might make him appear normal.

B. G. is unquestionably one of the half dozen greatest men in all American music. Yet except for an innate shrewdness that comes to his aid in spite of himself, Benny is just like the majority of other too-hip musicians found in our big cities—all strange characters lost in their own little world, and determined to do themselves no good, outside of playing their instruments.

I could cite hundreds of instances where fly guys missed major magazine breaks or job auditions because they were too hip to stoop to such mundane matters. And just try talking to them some time about things in general, or even about their music. Except for shrugs (which seem to be understood by others of the inner circle) and monosyllabic expletives of description like "Great!" "Gone!" or "Fine!" you might as well be talking to the wall. These geniuses play wonderful music. Period.

The Man Can't Talk

Getting back to Goodman. Ask music business writers to list their most uncomfortable experiences. I'll bet half will tell of their interviews with Benny. Unless you fall into conversation with him naturally, you're dead. In a formal meeting, he's so ill at ease, so mentally in another world, that he has his interviewer squirming in two minutes flat.

Even business asociates tell of talking to Benny for a half hour at a time knowing his mind is generally somewhere else. Musicians who work for him talk of being in the band for four or five months without Benny seeming to be aware of their existence. He often doesn't know their names. Just calls them "Pops."

Stories of Benny's absent-mindedness are legion. The best came from a friend who was with Benny at home when he wanted to call his stepchild. The name couldn't come to him.

"Hey Pops, come here," he beckoned.

How They Get That Way

There are many explanations for the strange ways of the jazz musician. The most logical one attributes the negative state to the low education levels of so many of them. Musicians with talent find out that when they're freshmen in high school they can earn more money than their fathers; so they quit school. However, when they move among the extreme sophisticates who frequent the clubs where they work, they're lost. So they step behind the protective wall already built by other musicians and convince themselves they are the sharp ones because only they practice the strange rituals of their cult.

RECORD BRIEFS: The widely imitated Claude Thornhill orchestra will continue to be imitated for its work on "Early Autumn," a lovely beguine (Columbia) . . . Stan Kenton builds up to his exciting, jarring brass climaxes on the novelty "Down in Chihuahua" (Capitol) . . . Jean Sablon's bedside manner scores again on his French accented "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now" (RCA Victor) . . . That you don't need the vestige of a voice to be a good singer is amply demonstrated by Arthur Godfrey in his newest album, especially on humorous "Nobody" (Crown) . . . Once again romantic voiced Herb Jeffries and the Buddy Baker orchestra have come up with a record that's an impressive production number rather than a mere waxing of a tune. It happens on "Angel Eyes" (Exclusive) . . . Buddy Clark, who makes a business of simple, straightforward singing, is especially pleasant on "I Kiss Your Hand, Madame" (Columbia).

Cub Plane World Fliers Land in Ireland

London, Aug. 28 (AP).—When George Truman of Los Angeles and Cliff Evans of Washington, D. C., arrived here today on their leisurely round-the-world trip in two light planes, they confessed acquiring a healthy respect for the Atlantic Ocean.

"It's wide and wet and, at one stage, it nearly had us licked," Truman said.

"Our close call came over Iceland, which we knew was somewhere down below us, tucked away in the clouds. He had to come down to 500 feet to find a hole that enabled us to get our bearings. If we had missed Iceland, there just wouldn't have been any second spot to chooose."

Truman and Evans, both former United States Air Force pilots, started their circumnavigation of the globe from New Jersey on August 8.

They had planned to land at Prestwick, Scotland, today, but finding it fogbound they landed and refuled in northern Ireland, then came on to Croydon airport this afternoon. Their tiny planes quickly attracted a crowd which marvelled that such midgets should have conquered the Atlantic.

They have been 42 hours in the air since they left Teterboro, N. J. Their stops have been in Maine, Laborador, Greenland, Iceland and Ireland. The small craft have a range of about 1200 miles with extra fuel tanks. Bad weather is carefully avoided.

They plan to stay here several days. Their next scheduled stop is Ypenburg, near the Hague, in the Netherlands.

Vambery Named Envoy To U. S. by Hungary

Budapest, Hungary, Aug. 28 (AP). The Hungarian government announced today the appointment as minister to Washington of Dr. Rustem Vambery, attorney for Deputy Premier Matyas Rakosi in the Communist leader's treason and murder trial 13 years ago.

Vambery, 74, has been living in the United States since fleeing Hungary in 1938 during the nazification program, writing and lecturing. He returned to Hungary last Sunday.

Paris Thieves Get Ex-Officer's $35,000

Paris, Aug. 28.—French police today were seeking two burglars who stole $35,000 worth of jewels and currency from the suburban home of Col. Robert A. Solborg, former military attache of the American Embassy in Brussels.

The thieves escaped just as Colonel Solborg was returning home about 1 o'clock yesterday morning. Solborg is vice president of the American Rolling Mill Co.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights
Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.
When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Some Candidates Disqualified in Hungary Election

Budapest, Aug. 28 (AP). — A spokesman for the Hungarian government said today that some candidates for Parliament in next Sunday's election had been disqualified and that additional voters had been disqualified with "no possibility of appeal"—but he was not certain of the number of candidates and voters affected or of their party affiliation.

The spokesman, Ivan Boldiszar, undersecretary of state in the ministry of information, told a news conference that "approximately 120 to 125" parliamentary candidates had been disqualified by virtue of losing their right to vote, but "90 per cent" had been reinstated.

Those who have lost their vote today, Boldiszar explained, cannot appeal because they were disenfranchised after the final date set for such appeals under the Hungarian election laws.

"There are bad laws in every country," he observed.

Jap Officer to Die For Executing Fliers

Yokohama, Japan, Aug. 28 (U.P.). An Eighth Army commission today sentenced a Japanese major general to death and a Japanese lieutenant general to 30 years in prison for executing two B-29 fliers in July, 1945. Six Japanese subordinates drew prison sentences for their part in the slayings.

Maj. Gen. Kiotomi Otahara, sentenced to hang, was in charge of the fifteenth army judicial section and was charged with failing to give the Americans a fair trial when he knew "the evidence and charges against them were false and fraudulent." Lieut. Gen. Itaro Uchiyama, former commander of the fifteenth army area, was given 30 years for approving the executions.

800-Year-Old Skull Is Stolen From Church

London, Aug. 28 (AP).—The 800-year-old skull of an earl was the only loot taken by vandals who rifled the vaults in the thirteenth century church of the Knights Templar last weekend.

The librarian of the Middle Temple, an ancient "inn of court" on whose property the blitzed church stands, said today the skull was that of the first Earl of Essex, who was killed in 1144.

Big Housing Program Slated for Puerto Rico

San Juan, Puerto Rico, Aug. 28 (AP).—L. D. Long of Charleston, S. C., announced today the launching of "the largest housing program in the history of the Federal Housing Authority" with the signing of a contract by his construction firm and the Banco de Fomento for a loan creating a four-million-dollar revolving fund for construction of 10,000 homes in Puerto Rico.

Long said the project included building houses all over the island to sell at a maximum of $4000 in monthly payments of $23 to $25. Veterans will be given preference as buyers.

Hotel Owner Loses $30,000 to Gunmen

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 28 (AP). J. M. Kingston, owner of the Winnipeg Hotel, was robbed of a $30,000 payroll today by two men who jumped into his car as he was leaving a downtown bank. Later the hotel man was thrown from the car, which was driven off with the payroll.

U. S. Unfreezes $129,600,000 in Italian Assets

The Treasury yesterday lifted the freeze imposed six years ago on $129,600,000 in assets owned by persons then living in Italy.

Treasury officials said the value is less now, but had no figures. State Department officials said 45 million dollars is known to be owned by Italian citizens.

Claimants, regardless of citizenship, will have to be certified as non-Nazis by some agency to be designated by the Italian government before they can regain their property.

The unfreezing was provided for in an agreement made by the United States and an Italian economic mission earlier this month, when the United States also agreed to write off one billion dollars in claims against Italy and to turn over to Italy 23 ships.

Before then, the United States had released 15 million dollars in assets which were seized during the war.

Deadline Set Sept. 15 for $10 Business Fee Payment

Unincorporated Concerns Grossing $10,000 Must Get License, Pay Tax

Owners of unincorporated businesses which made a gross income of more than $10,000 per year in the District will have to put $10 on the lince for a license here by September 15.

This was announced yesterday by Assessor Edward A. Dent after the Commissioners approved detailed regulations for carrying out provisions of the new District Revenue Act which became law here July 16.

In addition to obtaining licenses, these unincorporated businesses must file returns and pay 5 per cent tax on net income exceeding $10,000 per year, Dent said.

Jerry Klutz is on a week's vacation. His Federal Diary column will resume next Tuesday.

The new provision will tend to make unincorporated businesses carry a tax load "more nearly equal" to that of businesses which are incorporated, he pointed out.

Any business or trade which brings a gross annual income of more than $10,000 to individuals or groups—not corporations—is subject to the unincorporated business tax. This includes persons who rent rooms.

Exceptions to this rule are trades or businesses "which by law, custom or ethics cannot be incorporated" or in which mer than 80 per cent of the gross income is made through personal services.

These exceptions include accounting, chiropody, law, medicine and surgery, osteopathy, pharmacy, physiotherapy, and veterinary medicine and surgery.

An individual engaged in unincorporated business may pay himself a "reasonable" salary and deduct it from the net business income. But this amount, plus the $10,000 exemption (or his share of it if he's in business with others) must be listed as income when he files his individual income-tax return.

Real Estate Tax Bills Sent To 100,000

More than 100,000 tax bills have been mailed to real estate owners here during the past two days and first half payments must be made on schedule before October 1.

This was announced yesterday by Assessor Edward A. Dent, who said the payment deadline would not be postponed, despite late congressional passage of the new revenue act. The revenue act became law July 16.

Dent said the assessed valuation of all taxable District property would be $1,572,527,000 in fiscal 1948, compared to $1,396,017,000 last year.

Real estate tax bills will total $31,450,000 in 1948, representing an increase of $7,020,000 over fiscal 1947, he revealed.

Higher assessments and a tax rate boost from $1.75 to $2 per $100 valuation account for the major portion of the increases.

Tree Surgeons Attempt to Save Washington Elm

Berkeley Springs, W. Va., Aug. 28 (Spl.).—Tree surgeons have been consulted in an effort to save the famous old elm tree said to have been planted by George Washington.

A large section of the tree, in the State park here, collapsed Monday following a storm. The tree, which has a trunk circumference of 15 feet, has been treated by tree surgeons many times.

Gracen B. Hearne, park superintendent, said every effort will be made to preserve the trunk and remaining branches.

Baby's Crying Spell Summons Firemen

Portsmouth, Va., Aug. 28 (AP).—Joy Lee Campbell, 13 months old of Portsmouth, had a crying spell this morning and held her breath just a little too long.

Her parents became alarmed and called the Portsmouth Fire Department. The firemen arrived on the scene, applied a resuscitator and within five minutes had revived the child.

IRON-LUNG PATIENT LEAVES—Capt. Winfred Ettesvold of 6200 Sligo Mill rd., Silver Spring, Md., holds his daughter, Winn Ann, 22 months old, as she kisses her mother goodby yesterday at Bolling Field. Mrs. Carolyn Ettesvold, an "iron-lung" patient at Walter Reed Hospital, was placed aboard a transport plane for a flight to Grand Rapids, Mich., where she will be treated at Blodgett Hospital. Both she and Capt. Ettesvold were stricken with polio in Washington. Her husband, who recovered in five days, went with his wife. Their daughter stayed behind with her grandparents

Prison of an Iron Lung Fails To Hold Spirit of Polio Victim

Mrs. Carolyn Ann Ettesvold, 31-year-old mother afflicted for 11 months with polio, yesterday revealed her key for escaping the prison of an iron lung:

"It takes an iron wiiiiiiii,iiiiiii, "It takes an iron will," said the frail, 70-pound woman.

Interviewed in an ambulance at Bolling Field, as Air Transport Command personnel readied a hospital evacuation C-54 to fly her and her Army husband home to Grand Rapids, Mich., she gave evidence of having that iron will.

Her legs and arms are almost 100 per cent paralyzed—but she ca nstill flex muscles, she can still smile, she made it clear.

Though subject to air sickness, she looked forward to the three and one-half hour trip with calm assurance.

She watched cheerfully as an ATC nurse, two ATC tecnicians and a flight surgeon who were to accompany her, lashed the stretcher to the plane's deck and adjusted a portable iron lung.

The tied rubber sheeting tightly around her neck, wrists and waist, to airproof the aluminum shield that encased her chest. Al electrically operated bollows substituted for crippled respiratory muscles.

Abram Staples Is Named to Va. Court Post

Richmond, Va., Aug. 28 (AP).—Governor Tuck tonight appointed Attorney General Abram P. Staples to the bench of the State Supreme Court of Appeals to succeed the late Associate Justice George L. Browning.

Staples' appointment to the seven-member court becomes effective immediately. He will qualify at the convenience of the court and himself.

The court will convene in Staunton next week for its September term.

Staples, 61 years old, was appointed attorney general in March, 1934, by former Gov. George C. Peery to succeed the late Col. John R. Saunders.

Staples, who was named to the office by the General Assembly in 1936 for the remainder of the unexpired term, has been three times reelected by the people. In the last two Democratic primary elections he had no opposition.

Prior to his election as attorney general, Staples was elected to the State Senate from Roanoke in 1927 and again in 1931.

During his years as attorney general, Staples appeared 13 times before the United States Supreme Court and won 12 victories.

Staples' great uncle, Walter R. Staples, served on the State Supreme Court of Appeals shortly after the Civil War.

The new member of the court was born in Martinsville, in 1885 annd from 1890 until 1934, he maintained his residence in Roanoke.

Staples received his law degree from Washington and Lee University in 1904 and entered the practice of law in Roanoke. He was elected president of the Roanoke Bar Association in 1923, and in 1924, that body, together with the bar associations of several neighboring communities, endorsed Staples for appointment to fill a vacancy on the Supreme Court of Appeals.

During Staples' two terms in the State Senate, he was a member of the important committees on finance, courts of justice, county, city and town organization, roads and internal navigation, privileges and elections and general laws and on the Senate steering committee.

Since VJ-Day

U. S. Agencies End 60,000 Women's Jobs

The Government lost more than 60,000 women workers here since VJ-Day, the Civil Service Commission revealed yesterday. And what happened to them?

Mostly, they're retired primarily to the kitchen, according to Ernest V. Connolly, assistant director of the United States Employment Service here.

When the menfolk came back from the war, thousands of Washington's much-publicized G-girls either caught themselves a man to go home with or returned to the homes they already had.

Most of them, Connolly said, didn't go back to real work at all. They just stayed home and did housework and had babies.

That explains a good part, anyhow, of the huge slash in women workers from the Federal payroll, Connolly said. Latest figures show 92,764 female Government workers in the Metropolitan area compared with 153,844 around VJ-Day.

In July of 1944—the peak period—there were 157,710 women employed in Government in the Metropolitan area.

The decline has been good news to the single girls. Those who managed to survive this year's continuous ax waving find the current ratio of male to female workers, unlike the wartime ratio, is decidedly in their favor.

Since the first of this year, this has been the standing of men to women: January, 117,403 to 102,803; February, 117,131 to 102,236; March, 116,200 to 101,784; April, 116,057 to 99,153; May, 114,826 to 96,728; June, 112,135 to 92,764.

Over the Nation, the number of women employed by the Federal Government in the continental U. S. dropped below the half-million level early in 1947, and declined further to 440,700 by the end of June, the Civil Service Commission reported.

Postwar reductions in staff have affected both the number and proportion of women to a greater extent than men, the Commission pointed out.

In Washington alone more than 10,000 women have been dropped from the Federal payroll since January compared with about 5000 men.

Government cutbacks, he added, have left in their wake "a large supply of translators, social workers, public relations men, editors and various types of professional analysts."

Unemployment was placed at 25,000 and openings at 1400.

Va. Farmers Aid Beltsville Dairy Breeding

35 Bulls on Loan In State for Proving, Qualities as Sires

By Frank E. Taylor
Associated Press Staff Writer

Virginia farmers are helping Federal dairy breeding by borrowing Beltsville bulls.

Virginia is a leading State, Federal officials said yesterday, in this Federal-State cooperative program for herd improvement and proving of bulls.

There are now 35 bulls loaned to Virginia farmers—more than to any other State—and at least 100 bulls from the Beltsville, Md., research center have been used in the State since the start of the program 26 years ago.

The program, officials said, is of mutual benefit. The research center learns from the farmer's herd records how well the bull is transmitting superior dairy qualities to daughters, and the farmer improves the production capacity of his herd without the expense of buying high-priced bulls.

Outstanding Contributor

The research center, itself, cannot undertake to prove the many bulls it breeds.

The officials cited a Virginian, James McGee of Fredericksburg, as an outstanding contributor and benefactor of the program. McGee interested in developing a high-producing herd of Jersey cattle, has stuck with the Beltsville program for 26 years.

He has used only sons of proved sires from the Beltsville herd. The first six bulls he used are now adequately proved, the officials said.

The yearly average butterfat production per cow rose from 243 pounds 26 years ago to 481 in 1946. During the past 10 years the average has not fallen below 400 pounds.

Holsteins Predominate

The 35 bulls now on loan to Virginia farmers are 25 Holsteins and 10 Jerseys.

Borrowers include:

Jerseys—R. E. Brown of Orange County; R. W. Curtis, Madison County, and D. S. Hill, Orange County.

Holsteins—Mrs. E. S. Pemberton, of near Richmond; J. C. Hamilton, near Warrenton; J. B. Smith, Fairfax; G. M. James, Herndon; E. C. Norman, Purcellville; F. S. Clark, Culpeper; T. C. Slaughter, Culpeper; D. H. Lewis, Manassas; Harry Walton, Covington; C. W. Smith, Hewlett, and T. B. Joyce, Woodbridge.

Student Admitted Killing Divorcee, Policeman Says

Baltimore, Aug. 28 (AP).—Police Lieut. Leo T. Kelly testified today that a 17-year-old Baltimore high school student admitted striking with a brick a 32-year-old New York divorcee, who was killed seven hours after arriving here Aug. 16, but that he didn't know why he did it.

Kelly took the stand at a hearing for Charles F. Masek, who is charged with asaulting and causing the death of Mrs. Mina Taylor. The student pleaded innocent and was ordered held for the grand jury.

Kelly summed up under questioning by Assistant State's Attorney John C. Weiss a statement the lieutenant said was signed by Masek. The statement was not introduced.

Mrs. Taylor was found dying on the street corner early the morning of August 16 by residents of the area attracted by her moans. She arrived the evening before to visit her sister, Mrs. Dora Whittington.

Labor Day Travel Seen Near Record

Great Exodus Starts Today; Planes and Trains Added; Tourists Awaited

A near-record exchange of Government workers for tourists over the three-day Labor Day weekend was in prospect yesterday as "fair and warmer" weather was predicted.

Extra sections on planes, trains and buses, and the American Automobile Association's prediction of 300 traffic fatalities, give promise of a typical restless American holiday weekend.

Though outgoing travelers are expected to be more numerous than incoming visitors, the reopening of department stores for Saturday business tomorrow, after eight weeks of Saturday closing, may keep downtown streets populated for one of the three days.

Banks Closed Two Days

Banks will be closed here both tomorrow and Monday, together with Government offices.

District Court, though in session tomorrow, will be closed on Monday. Municipal Court, also open tomorrow, will handle lockup cases in the criminal division only on the holiday. No civil cases will be heard.

The only postal agency open Monday in the District will be the Main Postoffice, whose stamp and parcel post windows will be open all day, while the general delivery window will close at noon.

Though railroads were more conservative, some airlines reported possible record-breaking travel. American said its Chicago, New York and New England flights were booked "almost solid," while West Coast bookings were "heavy." Capitol Airlines, expecting one of its heaviest weekends with 29 extra sections scheduled, was telling all prospective passengers that all flights were expected to operate without weather interruptions today.

A United Airlines survey resulted in a perdiction of "the heaviest volume of passenger traffic ever carried over a holiday period," and Eastern looked for "the biggest weekend we ever had out of Washington." TWA erported it was almots completely booked.

Extra Trains Added

The Pennsylvania Railroad plans 23 additional esctions today ebtwee nhere and New York and 36 on Monday, and the Baltimore & Ohio wil lalso add extra cars and sections.

The AAA, which has had numerous inquiries from motorists indicating travel to northern States, Canada and such beaches as Atlantic City and Virginia Beach, made a special appeal for humane treatment of dogs during the weekend.

Don't lock up Towzer with a dish of food and water when you go on your trip, the Auto Club suggested. Take him along, not only for his sake, but also to help protect your personal property left in the car, and even your children's safety or lives.

The AAA, District Traffic Director George E. Keneipp and the National Automobile Dealers Association asked auto drivers to take every safety precaution they can.

The Dealers Association cited Dr. Paul Neal of the National Institute of Health as recommending a half hour rest for each two or three hours of driving.

Keneipp, who said two persons were killed here in auto accidents during last year's Labor Day weekend, cautioned motorists especially against high speeds, fatigue and driving after drinking.

The Board of Trade's information center will be open from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. every day during the weekend, ready to serve tourists seeking data on rooms, tourist attractions and other subjects of interest to visitors. The center is located on the first floor of the Star Building at Pennsylvania ave. and 11th st. nw.

Md. Fair Offers $58,000 in Prizes

Timonium, Md., Aug. 28 (AP).—Almost $58,000 in cash prizes will be awarded winning exhibitors of cattle, hogs, sheep and horses at the sixty-sixth Maryland State Fair next week, Matt L. Daiger, president of the State Fair and Agricultural Society, said today.

Daiger said this amount topped all records for the Timonium event.

In addition there will be prizes and ribbons, and in some instances trophies, for those capturing first places, in the grain, cannery, baking and needlework displays.

Exhibits will begin moving to the fair grounds tomorrow, and the gates will be open early Monday.

Girl Bookkeeper Faces Embezzling Count

Baltimore, Aug. 28 (AP).—Police today charged a 25-year-old redhead with embezzling $10,000 from the mayonnaise factory here where she was a bookkeeper and announced she had been arrested while vacationing with friends at Newton, Mass.

Henry J. Kriss, captain of detectives, identified her as Miss Irene Cochrane and said a warrant charging embezzlement was sworn out Tuesday when a shortage was discovered in her absence.

Police at Newton said Miss Cochrane had not indicated whether she would contest extradition to Maryland and no date has been set for a hearing.

Trade Board Heaps Presents On Retiring Woman Employe

Mrs. Mary F. Collins yesterday completed 24 years of active service with the Washington Board of Trade as guest of honor at an informal good-bye party.

She has the distinction of being the first staff member to receive a retirement pension.

William H. Press, executive secretary of the board, heaped present after present on the beaming, 64-year-old lady at the party held in the Board of Trade offices in the Evening Star Building, 11th and Pennsylvania ave. nw.

Her former colleagues, 30 strong, got a good chuckle when a toy telephone was unwrapped, a jestful reminder of her many years spent as a switchboard operator.

Other girls were a picture of herself, an electric iron, an orchid and a table lamp.

After presiding over a cake-cutting and ice cream passing ceremony, she reminisced about the old days of 1924—when the board staff numbered only three employes, and when their big mission was to build the Memorial Bridge.

But even more enthusiasm was shown when asked about plans for the immediate future.

Before settling down to live alone at 3208 19th st. nw., her home since coming here from Indianapolis at the age of 8, she expects to spend this fall at her summer cottage at Deale, Md., on the Chesapeake Bay, and the winter in Florida. Her husband, Walter H. Collins, died 7 years ago.

She adds, "I don't want to see another telephone—not in my house."

Falls Church Ends Year With Surplus

The town of Falls Church, Va., will wind up its fiscal year Sunday night with a healthy surplus, possibly in excess of $15,000.

Although a complete report will not be available until the figures for this month are compiled, increased revenues in the first 11 months of the year have assured a substantial year's end budget balance, according to James E. Durant, chairman of the twon council finance committee.

Durant said revenues already have exceeded expectations by about $17,000. At the same time, he said the town has been able to keep its operating expenses about on the level contemplated in the 1946-47 budget, despite greatly increased costs for municipal operations.

Principal source of the revenue was a business and merchants tax imposed through an ordinance adopted several months ago. The measure, which was not contemplated in last year's budget, has already netted the town about $14,000, Durant said.

An amusement tax, which was enacted at about the same time as the business license measure, has produced $3000 above expected receipts.

While these additional revenues bolstered the towns funds, only two departments over-expended their budget estimates, according to Durant's figures. They were the administrative branch, which has been faced with exceptionally heavy legal fees and survey costs, and the police department which overexpended its budget because an additional policeman was employed during the year.

Under the system employed in Falls Church, a new budget will not be prepared until late next month, despite the fact that the fiscal year will start Monday.

This is because the town council is not authorized to act on a budget until the beginning of a new council term. The new term also starts Monday.

Until the budget is prepared, the town will operate on surplus funds left over from the current budget, Durant said.

In the event there was no surplus, it would be necessary for the town to float a temporary loan.

The new fiscal year also will inaugurate the use of a new town manager system for the first time in the town's history.

Roy S. Dunn, former town manager of Wytheville, Va., recently appointed to the administrative post in Falls Church, will officially assume his duties Monday.

Leahy to Head Chest X-Ray Survey Here

William E. Leahy, former District director of Selective Service, has been named chairman of the Washington Chest X-ray Campaign which will begin early in 1948.

Leahy

Health Officer George C. Ruhland, who announced the appointment yesterday praised Leahy's interest in the District's tuberculosis program and said "we are assured of a very successful survey under such able guidance."

"While the actual survey will probably not get under way until after the first of the year," Dr. Ruhland said, "there are numerous details of organization and planning which must be developed prior to the actual X-raying."

The Health Department has already asked the Commissioners to permit a recruiting campaign for 40 clerical workers—outisde civil service ranks if necessary—if enough employes are not obtained by November 15, District officials said.

The chest X-ray will be conducted through the joint efforts of the U. S. Public Health Service, which will contribute technical services and X-ray equipment; the D. C. Tuberculosis Association, which will donate $35,000 for "educational" purposes; and the District Health Department, which received $66,000 for the survey from Congress in the 1948 District budget.

Leahy, a Georgetown University Law School graduate and a member of the District bar, was director of the Selective Service program from 1941 until its closing early this year.

He is also president of Columbus University Law School and has served as U. S. Attorney for Washington, special U. S. Attorney, and special Assistant Attorney General of the United States.

The victim Harland E. Beck, of 1321 Belmont st. nw., who was standing on the sidewalk inspecting a house for future painting when the truck bore down on him. Police said a railing blocked his escape path.

He told police he did not know his truck had struck Beck until after his vehicle came to a stop against a nearby tree.

The truck driver and pedestrians pushed the truck from the side of the house to free the victim. He was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. William Horn, of Emergency Hospital.

Day, driver for the Home Laundry, 1101 Raum st. ne., was held on a technical charge of manslaughter to await action of the coroner.

Mrs. Ruby Lineberry, 45, of 622 Portland st. se., sustained a cut scalp at 12:10 p. m. yesterday, when struck by a backing automobile which police said was operated by Jorge Del Canto, 30, of 1219 Savannah st. se., at Nichols ave. and Portland st. se. Police said Del Canto backed off Nichols ave. into Portland st. in striking the woman pedestrian.

Earlier yesterday, Bernard L. Ford, 26, of 1426 Montello ave. ne., suffered a cut lip, and his passenger, James Holmes, 39, of 635 Kenilworth ave., was admitted to Casualty Hospital with head cuts in a collision between a truck and a Capital Transit Co. bus. Police said Ford's truck struck the bus, stopped at 17th st. above C st. ne.

Motorists Cautioned To Take Unusual Care

Richmond, Va., Aug. 28 (AP).—Virginia State police today cautioned motorists that unusual care must be maintained over the Labor Day weekend, if traffic accidents and their resulting fatalities are to be held to a minimum.

Records show 1946 Labor Day weekend cost eight lives in traffic accidents in Virginia.

Col. C. W. Woodson, superintendent of State police, pointed out that traffic is approximately 13 per cent heavier than for last year, and that an unusually heavy traffic movement was expected to start late Friday evening when thousands of motorists will head for the seashore and mountains.

The superintendent suggested that speeds too fast for conditions would probably be the largest single contributing cause of weekend accidents and cautioned motorists to govern their speeds by traffic and weather conditions.

The State police head stated that all available troopers would be on road patrol over the weekend and that special attention would be given to speed violators and to the drinking driver. The superintendent emphasized his warning by pointing out that a total of 61 lives had been lost in Labor Day weekend traffic accidents in Virginia since 1940.

The department wants to know all about the crabs when they are found: how big, what kind and where and when caught.

Information assembled will be used in the department's study of crab migration and growth.

And each tag mailed in will bring a reward of $1 to the finder.

Work May Clear Cells

Frederick, Md., Aug. 28.—A work program will eliminate the overcrowded condition of the Frederick County jail, Sheriff Guy Anders said today. Cells are crowded now with inmates serving 90-day sentences, which magistrates have been imposing in an effort to discourage repeaters.

The one sure way to clear the jail cells of the "old regulars," the sheriff said, is to put the prisoners to work. Labor is the one thing the prisoners abhor, Anders said.

Attempts to get the County Commissioners and the County Roads Board to make work for the men have met with no success, so they will continue to burden the taxpayers, the sheriff declared.

Check-Up on D. C. Airport Instrument Landing Delayed

A scheduled check-up on the Washington National Airport Instrument-Weather Landing Approach System was called off yesterday morning because the Capital was blanketed with actual instrument weather.

The Air Transport Association Douglas DC-3 flying laboratory slated to make the test, as part of a 13,300-mile survey of similar installation at the country's principal commercial airports, arrived on time in the Washington area from its New York base. It was forced, however, to take its place in a stack of 12 air liners waiting their turn to descend through the low cloud ceiling with the result that its landing was delayed two hours.

It was unable to take off again for the standard three-mile circuit of the airport in search of possible false courses" or other Instrument Landing System aberrations without "getting messed up in another stack" and delaying regular airline arrivals. It cleared instead for Richmond, the next airport on the ATA's itinerary of

Plans Outlined For West Virginia Arson Department

Charles Town, W. Va., Aug. 28 (AP).—Plans for creation of a new State arson department and fire prevention bureau were outlined today to delegates at the West Virginia Firemen's Association convention.

Fire Marshal Robert H. Kidd said the arson department would be headed by C. F. Robb, former State police ballistics expert. President Dana C. Thum of the Southern Fire Fighters Association will be chief of the fire prevention bureau, which will be in operation September 1.

Kidd said arson usually occurs in times of hardship and depression, when "men burn their property to save themselves from financial ruin."

"In times of emotional strain, during or following world conflicts, arson becomes more prevalent," he added.

Sessions opened this morning with 160 delegates already registered. Convention Chairman C. F. Reininger estimated the number would reach 2000 by Saturday.

Crowded Skies Bring Change in CAA Regulations

The Civil Aeronautics Administration yesterday juggled its rules to take care of a sky-full of airplanes.

Emphasizing importance of new air traffic rules for every pilot "whether he flies a transport or merely takes an occasional hop on Sunday afternoon," CAA announced effective date of the new rules as October 8.

They raise the ceiling for low flying, designating a limit of 500 feet from any "person, vessel, vehicle of structure." The regulation now in effect merely specifies a minimum of 1000 feet above the ground.

Acrobatic flying is forbidden not only over settled areas, but also within any civil airway or control zone and when visibility is less than 3 miles and at an altitude lower than 1500 feet.

Tomato Packer Denies Raising Skinners' Pay

Easton, Md., Aug. 28 (AP).—George T. Harrison, of the Harrison & Jarboe tomato packing company, today denied reports that his firm had agreed to pay tomato skinners at the rate of 20 cents per bucket.

Harrison said his firm is still paying 15 cents, the rate that prevailed before the protest walkout yesterday.

He added that the Dawson-Stafford plant at Chapel Station, which granted the higher rate after a brief strike Monday, would return to the old scale at the beginning of next week.

The non-unionized processing workers asked for the increase to match the 20 cents being paid at the Phillips packing pant in Cambridge, Dorchester County.

Counting Pennies with Carolyn

How delightful, these warm days, to enjoy the wonderful convenience of shopping at the Shirlington Business Center. Here is plenty of parking space . . . you needn't be an expert driver to park your car, right in the heart of the Center, a few steps from every shop.

On this week's trip, you'll see something new has been added. Elfin's Ice Cream Store, first and only store of its kind in the Shirlington Shopping Area, opened this week in the Shirlington Theater Building. It takes an important place among the hundred fine stores that will eventually comprise this beautiful, modern business center. Elfin's huge soda fountain and tables seat 67 people. Here you may indulge in your favorite treat . . . homemade ice cream, ice cream cake, ice cream pie or fancy ice cream roll, all made from milk, cream and eggs fresh from the dairy. All these delicious dessert treats, and fine candy, are also sold to take home with you, for the pleasure of your family.

Don't put off your visit to the friendly Shirlington Radio Shop until your radio needs repairs. This is the place to come when you need any sort of famous electrical equipment—fans, waffle irons, electric irons, vacuum cleaners! You'll find it rewarding, too, to see the display of all types and makes of AM and FM radios and table model combinations—Emerson, Westinghouse, Admiral, etc.—portables and table models from $19.95 to $59.95.

Nugent's collection of new Fall fashions satisfies your craving for exciting and different clothes, now that Labor Day is here. A suit is usually first on most wardrobe agenda. Here, lovely all-wool gabardines and strictly man-tailored glen plaid wools emphasize lithe waistlines, fuller hips . . . cost only $35 and $39.95. Classic dresses, planned for school or office, are longer, fuller, have important new details. In plaid wool checks or grey rayon gabardine with pleated skirts, you pay from $7.99 to $13.99 for them.

Blouses, sweaters, undies and hose—Berger Emerald Toe has a grand collection—round out your wardrobe. A unique policy of handling merchandise direct from maker to you keeps styles exclusive, prices low. A case in point is the lovely Berger-design tab blouse of heavy washable rayon crepe in aqua, pink or beige at only $4.99. Most everything here is tested for launderability to save you washday blues! This store prides itself on the quality and beauty of its hosiery—gives you style and value to make every penny count.

Ever wonder what you would do without Woolworth's to pick up last minute things you always seem to need before a long week-end like this . . . or any week-end? It's wonderful to dash into the huge, modern Shirlington Woolworth and get whatever you want, from hairpins to towels, in a very few minutes.

For safety's sake in driving over this dangerous-on-the-road week-end, have your car checked at the Gulf Station while you're shopping. Thorough Gulflex lubrication and vacuum cleaning help to put it in A-1 condition.

You'll enjoy the shows in the air-cooled Shirlington Theater—Friday, Aug. 29, "Living in a Big Way"; Saturday, Aug. 30, double feature, "News Hounds" and "Frontier Scouts."

Shirlington's Diaper Darling Contest is getting under way. To enter your winning baby, all you need do is get an entry blank from any store in the Shirlington Business Center and fill it out.

Braves Jolt Reds Twice, Near Second

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

THAT ALL-AMERICAN statement maker, George Preston Marshall, apparently is down to his last press release or has tapped out completely because nothing has been heard from him in the last 72 hours. That is practically an eternity of silence for Marshall at this time of year, which is always the open-mouth season for the Redskins' president.

POVICH

In the past week Marshall has been beaten to every draw by National League Football Commissioner Bert Bell, who is not a fast man with a statement, yet he beat Marshall into print with his own response to the All-America Conference's challenge to a play-off game between the two leagues.

It wasn't much of a statement by Bell in reply to the windy challenge made by Admiral Jonas Ingram, the AAC commissioner, consisting merely of a brush-off crack: "We don't play postseason games," but it got printed and as yet there has been no claim of foul by Marshall.

Marshall is not as young as formerly and it could be that his statement-finger is not so quick; or perhaps Commissioner Bell hushed him with the advice that Mr. Bell would speak for the league, although that is to be doubted because Mr. Marshall is one of Mr. Bell's employers.

AT ANY RATE when the same challenge was flung to the National Football League last year by Mr. Arthur McBride, owner of the Cleveland club of the AAC, Mr. Marshall undertook to speak for the NFL. He said something to the effect of "Pish-tish, tell 'em to get a reputation first," which is exactly what the AAC went out and did, even if it was just a superimposed job, and somewhat redundant.

What Mr. McBride's Cleveland Indians did last season was to outdraw Mr. Marshall's Redskins and every other club in Marshall's league and set a new record for pro football attendance. Apparently it had accumulated a reputation somehow, somewhere, because the fans flocked to the AAC games in Cleveland in far greater numbers than they ever turned out for the NFL club that was chased out of that city.

Even this week's offer by the AAC to play the National Football League's champion for any agreeable charity did not interest the NFL, which is very surprising inasmuch as Mr. Marshall is only one of the very many charitably-inclined owners of that league, who in the past has doted on charity affairs.

BELL'S TERSE COMMENT, "We don't play postseason games," was a wonderful kind of statement, and very smart, too, when stacked against previous statements of his predecessor in office, Elmer Layden, who once suffered an unfortunate rush of words to the head when the All-America Conference started to open up for business a couple of years ago.

At that time, when the subject of a play-off between the formative AAC and the NFL was first broached to Commissioner Layden, he looked down his nose and chuckled up his sleeve (quite a trick, no fooling) and said of the new league, "They haven't even got a football yet." No football league commissioner of the present or future will ever envy that line to the point of saying, "I wish I had said that."

The AAC not only went out and got a football, but they got a lot of footballs and a lot of football players that the National League tried to get, and they grabbed a lot of players the NFL already had, and they grabbed off a lot of the NFL's customers, too. In their first year, they played to more than 1,400,000 customers, a figure the NFL didn't achieve until its twentieth year in business.

INADVERTENTLY, THE NFL boosted the prestige of the All-America Conference again only last week when the Chicago Bears, the National Football Champions, took a 16-0 beating from the College All-Stars. It was virtually an AAC victory over the Bears, at any rate it was an AAC party, because Buddy Young and George Ratterman and Julie Rykovich and five other starting members of the college eleven moved immediately onto AAC rosters.

Bert Bell is a very discerning fellow at any rate. When he snubbed the AAC with his refusal to sanction a play-off game, he at least made tacit recognition that there is an All-America Conference. Elmer Layden and George Marshall always maintained the fiction that only the NFL was in the big league football business. Bell, in effect, said there actually was an All-America Conference.

Now it's the AAC's turn to get smart and cut out all those challenges that are becoming sillier by the week. It's a gratuitous deference to the National Football League which delights in snubbing the AAC. The AAC ought to get hep to itself and realize it's a big boy now and needs the NFL no more than the old league needs the AAC. This nonlovers quarrel is hurting 'em both.

Dodgers Nip Cubs, 6 to 5; Lead by 7

Brooklyn, Aug. 28 (AP).—Brooklyn's Dodgers made a big step forward in their drive for the National League pennant today by defeating the Chicago Cubs, 6 to 2, as the runner-up St. Louis Cardinals dropped seven games behind by losing to the New York Giants, 6 to 5.

The Dodgers have 27 games left to play, the Cardinals 29.

Johnny Jorgensen, rookie third-baseman who has been on the bench for a week, returned to the Dodger lineup and belted Cub pitching for a double and a single that drove in four runs and spoiled Chicago Manager Charley Grimm's 49th birthday.

Nicholson Homers Twice

All Chicago runs were results of Bill Nicholson's home run bat, the outfielder getting his 18th circuit smash in the second inning and then came back in the fourth with his 19th.

Jorgensen's double bounced off the right-field wall in the first inning and scored Ed Stanky, who had walked, Arky Vaughan and Gene Hermanski. Hermanski, who also got on base by a walk, had pulled up at third base but Umpire Beans Reardon ruled that the runner had been interfered with by Peanuts Lowrey, Cub third baseman, and sent the Dodger outfielder home.

The blow sent Hank Wyse to the showers and brought Hank Borowy to the mound. Bruce Edwards greeted him with a bounder that zoomed over Lowrey's head to score Jorgensen.

Vaughan, who singled in the first, walked in the fifth and was propelled across on singles by Carl Furillo and Jorgensen. The final Dodger tally came in the eighth on Stanky's double, Jackie Robinson's sacrifice and Pete Reiser's fly to Phil Cavarretta.

Marx Jewelers Win U. S. Title

Johnstown, Pa., Aug. 28 (AP).—Showing their mastery from the start, the Marx Jewelers of Washington, D. C., trounced New Orleans St. Aloysius, 8-2, tonight to win the All-American junior amateur baseball title.

Building five hits into five runs in the third inning, Washington obtained a substantial lead. Triples by Bill Kallas and Sal De Giorge highlighted the big inning.

New Orleans attempted a comeback in the sixth inning, getting its runs on two errors and a single by Luther Payer.

Les Webber Back With Cleveland

Wichita, Kans., Aug. 28 (AP).—Lester Webber, ace right hander for the Atwater (Calif.) Packers in the National Semipro Baseball Tournament and former major leaguer, returns to the Cleveland Indian roster Friday for a salary believed to be "in excess of $25,000," tournament officials reported today.

Operating a real estate business at Santa Maria, Calif., Webber pitched for Santa Maria in semipro ball this year, joining Atwater, California semipro champions, for the national tourney.

In his only start, Monday night, he let the Honolulu Stars down with 3 hits and 17 strikeouts.

Webber's pro experience includes service with the Brooklyn Dodgers, Cleveland, Baltimore in the International League, and Seattle in the Pacific Coast League.

Mize Lashes No. 44 as Giants Win

CONGRATULATIONS—Johnny Mize (left), New York Giants first baseman, is congratulated by Teammate Ray Poat, rookie pitcher, after Mize hit his forty-fourth homerun of the season yesterday in a 6-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in New York. Poat pitched the Giants' 6-4 victory over the Cards Wednesday night

Cards Lose Third Straight, 6 to 5

New York, Aug. 28 (AP).—Big Johnny Mize of the New York Giants took another stride forward in his quest of a new major league home run record today as he hammered his forty-fourth of the year while the New York Giants were slapping down the faltering St. Louis Cardinals, 6-5.

The loss—the Cards' second in a row to New York and third in succession—dropped the Redbirds seven full games behind the pace-setting Brooklyn Dodgers in the National League race, as the Brooks clipped the Chicago Cubs, 6-2.

Three-Run Smash

Mize's circuit smash came in the first inning with two runners aboard. He parked it in the upper right field stands. It gave the Giants a 3-2 advantage, as the Cards had opened with two runs on Bill Rigney's boot of Stan Musial's grounder, Enos Slaughter's double and Ron Northey's single.

Thereafter the Cards' scoring was confined to bases-empty homers. Musial, Slaughter and Whitey Kurowski poled them.

Mize's homer put him five games and five days up on Babe Ruth's 1927 schedule, when the Bambino set the record of 60.

Griff Gives Bluege a Pat on Back

Ossie Denies He 'Talked Contract'

MANAGER OSSIE BLUEGE of the seventh-place Nats gained an unsolicited vote of confidence from Owner Clark Griffith yesterday in a two-hour conference at Griffith Stadium.

"I left the team for a day to talk over the pitching situation with Mr. Griffith and he said I've done a good job," said Bluege. He ridiculed reports that (1) he came to Washington to resign or (2) to seek stronger authority over any disgruntled players.

He denied he asked for a renewal of his managerial contract which expires at the end of the season. "We didn't talk contract," he said, "that will come later, when the season closes."

Griffith affirmed his confidence in Bluege with the statement that "I complimented him on the way he handled the players' rumpus in the West. I told him then I would back him up, and if he saw reason to fine any players I would double their fines."

THE NATS' owner, like Bluege, declared there was no discussion of the club's managerial plans for 1948, saying, "I never make any announcements about managers until after the season, but I did tell Bluege I was satisfied with the job he was doing."

He said he had summoned Bluege chiefly for a personal report on what had appeared to be an alarming pitching situation on the club. "Chic Pierretti is out for the season with a chip in his elbow, and I was getting reports that Early Wynn, Walter Masterson, Sid Hudson and Tom Ferrick had sore arms," said Griffith.

Pitching Staff Chief Concern

Griffith proposed that the club recall Bill Kennedy, 19-game winner from Chattanooga immediately, but Bluege rejected that plan as unnecessary, pointing out that Wynn, Ferrick and Masterson were now ready to take their regular turns. Sid Hudson is still troubled, however, by a sore shoulder.

Griffith denied any plan to trade Second Baseman Gerry Priddy, accused by Bluege as the only malcontent on the squad.

At Long Last—Nats and Bobo Clash Tonight

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

New York, Aug. 28.—The spectacle of a seventh place club anxious to tangle with the league leaders will be unfolded at Yankee Stadium tomorrow night when the Nats meet the Yankees.

Ordinarily, the Nats who had an off day today, have no desire to become involved with Bucky Harris' pacesetters, but this time things are different.

The reason for the hopped-up enthusiasm the Nats are displaying is Mr. Louis Norman Newsom, a June graduate of Clark Griffith A.C.

Yankees Catch Cue

The Yankee management, catching the frolicksome spirit which the American Legion Convention is spreading through this town like wild fire, invited Mr. Newsom to pitch against his old comrades and he accepted with much gusto.

Bobo's eagerness to face the Nats was exceeded only by the Nats' eagerness for him to do it. It'll mark the first time the Nats have seen their old friend since he was sold to the Yanks.

"I hope our reunion won't be pleasant—for Bobo, that is," said Early Wynn, who'll do the Nat flinging. Wynn has no particular love for Bobo, the ill-feeling stemming from opening day when Newsom talked his way into the pitching assignment over Wynn.

Bobo has done right handsomely since he joined the New Yorkers. He's won five for 'em, scoring in his first four starts.

Wynn will be chucking for his fourteenth. He won his last start, 3-2, against Detroit. He was tagged with three consecutive 2-1 defeats before he finally crashed through against the Tigers.

The Nats won six of their 14 games in their final invasion of the West and now sport a two-game winning streak.

Congress Takes Cut in Tickets

Congress took a cut today.

Eeach member of Congress was notified by Army officials he would be allotted only two tickets to the Army-Notre Dame football game at South Bend, Ind., November 8, instead of the usual eight.

The reduction was made necessary by the limited seating capacity of the Notre Dame Stadium, the Army explained. Formerly, the game was held at Yankee Stadium, New York.

As consolation, the Military Academy's Athletic Association advised members of Congress that they would be able to get their customary eight tickets for the Army-Navy game to be played at Philadelphia, November 29.

Filchock's Feats Move Canadians To Fight for Him

Hamilton, Ont., Aug. 28 (AP).—The Hamilton Tigers are determined to play Frank Filchock in the Inter-Provincial Rugby Football Union this season—so much so that they'll go to the law courts if necessary.

That's what club president Jack Lange said today following the impressive debut last night of "the flinging Czech," suspended in the United States by the National League last November for failure to report a bribe and now the center of a football controversy over his appearance in Canada.

Filchock starred last night as his mates defeated Toronto, 32-0, quarterbacking and passing his mates to four of their five touchdowns. The only time he ran with the ball was when he intercepted a Toronto flip.

Hal Newhouser Fined $250 for 'Indifference'

Detroit, Aug. 28 (AP).—Hal Newhouser, blond Detroit Tiger lefthander, collared wtih an unimpressive record of 13 victories and 15 defeats this year after three straight "20-win" seasons, drew a $250 fine from Manager Steve O'Neill today for "indifference."

The stout Irish pilot of the Tigers hinted there'll be more like it if the Tigers "aren't in there hustling like they should be."

Specifically, Newhouser was charged with "an indifferent performance" in the third inning of today's game when the Boston Red Sox ganged upon him for seven hits and five runs en route to a 13-to-3 triumph.

O'Neill cited also Hal's "steadfast refusal to leave the mound . . . after being summoned to the bench."

"It didn't look good to have him arguing about being summoned to the dugout," O'Neill declared as the Tigers caught their night train for St. Louis.

More Fines or More Hustle

"I told him I ought to fine him $250 for the way he was acting and he continued to argue. There wasn't anything for me to do but hang it on him."

O'Neill said he hadn't levied another player fine since he came to Detroit as manager in 1943, but added:

"This won't be the last one. I expect everybody to hustle out there and if they don't there'll be more fines."

Newhouser, arriving to catch his train, declared he didn't talk back to Steve.

"I was bearing down all the time. I thought I could get 'em out and didn't want to leave," Hal said. "It's the first time I ever was fined by a manager and I don't see how he could have thought I wasn't trying."

O'Neill said Hal had insisted he was trying "but it didn't look like it to me. He was certainly pitching inferior ball."

Bad Boy Back in 1939

Newhouser came into the league with a bad temperament back in 1939 as a 17-year-old Detroit sandlot product and was o "problem child" during the managerial tenure of Del Baker.

He hit his winning stride with the advent of O'Neill as Tiger manager, however, and his temperamental displays quickly fell off as his victories mountd upward.

Hal has won 93 games during the last four seasons for Detroit and twice was selected the most valuable player in the American League.

Beaten only nine times each year in 1944, 1945 and 1946, Newhouser seemed destined to become one of Detroit's pitching "greats" until things started going badly this year.

O'Neill said that Newhouser would be called on to take his regular pitching turn against the St. Louis Browns next Sunday.

8-7 Opener Ends in 16th; Finale, 3-2

Boston, Aug. 28 (AP).—The Boston Braves today moved within one game of the second-place St. Louis Cardinals by twice beating the Cincinnati Reds, taking the opener 8-7 in 16 innings and winning the nightcap, called after five and a half frames because of darkness, 3-2.

Bob Elliott, Boston candidate for the National League's most valuable player award, knocked in his 100th run in the marathon opener, the longest game of the season in the National League. The lengthiest contest of the season was June 8 in the American League when Washington edged Chicago 1-0 in 18 innings.

Ed Erautt, fifth Cinci hurler, hurler, forced in the winning Boston run by walking Tommy Holmes with he bases loaded and two out in the sixteenth.

Starter Johnny Sain was hit hard by the Reds who clouted him for 11 hits in the first six innings.

Gil Figures in Nats' 1948 Plans

"No sale," was the comment of Clark Griffith yesterday on the report that a major league club had offered $100,000 for Outfielder Gil Coan, of the Washington-owned Chattanooga team.

"We're buying players, not selling them," said the Washington owner. "Coan figures in the plans for our 1948 outfield. He seems to be ready after another good year in the minors. I turned down a $100,000 offer for him from the Giants two years ago."

Griffith disclosed that Coan was among five Chattanooga players who would be called up to Washington for the final weeks of the season after the Southern Association play-offs close next month. Pitcher Bill Kennedy, 19-game winner, Infielder Eddie Lyons, Outfielder Earl Wooten and Pitcher Tones are the others.

Griffith Rejects $100,000 Offer For Young Coan

Chattanooga, Aug. 28 (AP).—A major league baseball club has offered $100,000 for Chattanooga Outfielder Gil Coan, Lookout President Joe Engel said here.

Engel said he would not name the club unless the offer was accepted. He said he would contact Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Senators, who owns Coan's contract.

If the deal goes through, it will be the largest amount ever paid for a Southern League player.

Engel said the major league club wanted Coan for delivery September 2.

The speedy outfielder is leading the league in stolen bases, total bases and triples. He is close to the leaders in total hits and homers.

His batting average is .339.

Yankees Counting on Kramer To Crush Australians Again

By Gayle Talbot

New York, Aug. 28 (AP).—The American and Australian Davis Cup teams put in their last serious practice licks on the stadium court at Forest Hills today in preparation for the five-match international tennis classic to be waged Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

First the two American singles stars, Jack Kramer and Ted Schroeder, and then the Aussie duo of Jack Bromwich and Dinny Pails took over the damp turf inside the big horseshoe and spent an hour apiece tuning up their games for the decisive test.

Tomorrow at 1 p. m. (EDT) the members of the two squads, together with a rare collection of tennis brass, will gather in the clubhouse and make the official draw to see who plays whom in the opening singles matches on Saturday.

Schroeder May Not Repeat

The Australians, still smarting somewhat from the 5-0 hiding they received last Christmas week in Melbourne, hope that the first match pits their veteran cup star, Bromwich, against Schroeder, just as it did in Melbourne. On that occasion Schroeder pulled out a thrilling five-set victory by relentlessly attacking at the net.

"Somehow, I don't quite believe that Schroeder can beat Jack again," said Roy Cowling, nonplaying Australian captain. "After all, he just barely did it the last time, and his volleying game that day was terrific. I don't know whether anybody could have beaten Ted that day. He simply doesn't figure to be quite that good again."

Investigator Haight Finds Dust Bowl All Wet

He Learns About Whole Wheat, Rye

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Perhaps these vacation memories which my relatives are beginning to class with Aunt Lou's gallstone operation, have been a bit rough on rugged Colorado.

So before I get chased off to the races let me say it is truly nature's wonderland and a sportsman's paradise.

The All-American eyeful isn't the only attraction. After your look-see, providing you have the price, almost any kind of sports action is at your command with the possible exceptions of sailfishing and surfboard riding. It wouldn't surprise me, however, if the ingenious Coloradoans imported a small ocean.

In addition to the inevitable mountain climbing and hiking, there are baseball, fishing, golf, horseback riding, ice skating, roller skating, bathing beaches, shuffle board, tennis, etc.

Spectator sports include golf tournaments, rodeos, ice hockey, polo, horse shows and, last but far from least, the Pike's Peak auto race on Labor Day.

Being somewhat bowl conscious through sports page association with the Rose Bowl, Orange Bowl, Sugar Bowl, etc., I decided to inquire about the dust bowl before I returned East.

Among the tourists who flocked the Pike's Peak area were many who had the right-off-the-farm appearance, plus fat bankrolls. It wasn't long before I learned their identity. They were farmers.

"Don't let the fact that some are wearing overalls fool you," said my informant. "Maybe you haven't noticed the grain market, but these fellows, most of them, are really in the money."

Before I went west, the closest I had gotten to the Nation's grain business was when a waitress asked if I'd have white, whole wheat or rye or bourbon.

With a grain man available, I developed a certain am

Purse Raise Demand Met By Marlboro

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 28 (AP).—Twelve race horse owners and trainers were suspended for a year by the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association at a meeting of that body here last night. The action came as a result of these members racing their horses at Hagerstown August 15 and 16 after the HPBA called a strike against the half-mile track when the management turned down demands for increased purses.

H. B. Ferguson, secretary of the association, said the list of those suspended would be withheld until the action is ratified by three-fourths of the association's board of directors.

Ferguson explained that suspension would mean the withholding of financial help in case of accidents or sickness and the discontinuation of other services given horsemen. He said members of the association will not refuse to run their horses against those entered by suspended men.

Perhaps the greatest difficulty faced by the banned group will be in getting their horses shod, according to one spokesman. The blacksmith union, as well as the principle van owners, were said to be backing the association's action.

It was learned that one owner-trainer, Mike Johnson, had been suspended only until January 1 while another, Alan T. Clarke, had been cleared. Both Johnson and Clarke ran horses on the "strike" dates.

Ferguson announced at the same time that HBPA had agreed with the management of the half-mile track at Marlboro, Md., on a program which will call for minimum purses of $1000, two $1200 races daily, and two $1500 events when the horses making the summer circuit of Maryland half-milers move there for 10 days.

The same terms are in effect here for the current meeting, which closes this week. Purses at Hagerstown were mostly $800 with one or two $100 and $1200 events.

Blind New Starter At Laurel's Meeting

For the first time in more than 30 years Maryland racing will have a new starter this fall. Jim Milton has retired from that position and will devote his time to other official capacities at the tracks.

The Laurel management announced yesterday that Eddie Blind, whom Maryland fans saw in action for the first time during the Bel Air meeting, will be the starter for the session opening on October 1.

Blind has been a starting crew member for more than 20 years and recently has been assistant to Starter George Cassidy on the New York tracks.

Worsham on Edge for Western

$12,500 Test Draws Star Pros Today

By Ben Funk

Salt Lake City, Aug. 28 (AP).—The putter trouble that has plagued square-jawed Lew Worsham since he rose from the unknown ranks to snare the U. S. open golf championship seemed to have been corrected today as he warmed up for the $12,500 Western open tournament.

The 29-year-old ex-sailor from Washington, D. C., was in beaming good humor after a tour of the Salt Lake City Country Club greens during which his putter behaved exceptionally well.

"I'm erally hitting a lot better," admitted Worsham, who hasn't won a tournament since hi ssensational victory over Sam Snead of Hot Springs, Va., for the National open crown six weeks ago. His confident grin indicated that he means to berak that victory drought this week.

Practicing a Lot

"Sure, I went into a slump after the National open," he said, "but lots of the boys do that. It's been putting trouble mostly. I've been averaging 33 to 34 putts a round and I need to bring that down to about 30.

"I've been practicing a lot with some new clubs and I think I'll do much better in this tournament."

Following the National Open, Worsham was beaten in the quarterfinals of the PGA tournament by Vic Ghezzi of Rumson, N. J., and was far off form in the Columbus and St. Paul opens. He says his game improved in succeeding tournaments at Spokane, Portland and Reno.

After a practice round in which he posted a 2-under-par 70, Worsham predicted that Salt Lake City's scenic course at the foot of the Wasatch Mountain range would be "fairly easy for the straight hitters" but tough for those who miss the fairways.

Favorite Listed

Among the top tournament favorites in addition to Worsham are Bobby Locke, the South African star; Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., the defending Western Open champ; Snead, the British Open champ; Jim Ferrier of San Francisco, the PGA titleholder; Ghezzi, former PGA champ; Johnny Bulla of Phoenix, Ariz, and Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, who is considered by many as the best of the amateurs.

Lew's Brother Wins 1st Match

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 28 (AP). Robert (Bub) Worsham of Washington, D. C., 17-year-old brother of National Open Champion Lew Worsham, today survived his first round of matched play in the National Caddy Golf Tournament.

Young Worsham eliminated Robert Manley of Cincinnati, 3 and 2, but finished the 18 holes with a 75, three over par on the Ohio State University championship course.

Worsham plays Ronald Guariglia of Normandy, Mo., in the second round.

Another entry from the D. C. area, Stanley Mouser of Friendship Heights, lost to George Allmon, Kansas City, Mo., 2 down.

Rockets, Dons In A-A Grid Debut Tonight

Chicago, Aug. 28 (AP).—The All-America Football Conference tomorrow night launches its second season in a key battleground city of its box-office scrap with the long-established National League.

Coached by James (Sleepy Jim) Crowley, who last year was the new league's commissioner, the Chicago Rockets open a seven-game home season at Soldier Field against the Los Angeles Dons.

There are no actual schedule conflicts between the Rockets and the rival National loop's Chicago Cardinals and champion Bears, but the fact the three teams offer a total of 30 Chicago contests may result in some selective sight-seeing by local fans.

Colts, Browns Play Pre-Season Game

Bowling Green, Ohio, Aug. 28. The Cleveland Browns will meet the Baltimore Colts in an All-American Conference preseason football game here tomorrow night at the Rubber Bowl.

The Browns, conference champions in the first year of the loop, will field almost the same lineup that played the championship game against the New York Yankees last December. Halfback Tom Colella is the lone player who did not open against the Yanks.

The Colts are the youngest team in the circuit and of unknown quantity.

Inter-Allied Swim

Prague, Aug. 28 (AP).—Swimmers and divers of England, United States, France, Holland, Czechoslovakia, Belgium and Denmark start a three-day inter-allied swimming and diving championship at Lize Stadium, Usti, in northern Bohemia, tomorrow.

Skins Squad In East-West Game Tonight

Santa Ana, Calif., Aug. 28.—Forty-nine Washington Redskin football players who know full well that an unlucky total of 13 must be cut off the quad before the National League season opens, clash at Municipal Stadium here tomorrow night in the fifth annual East vs. West game, which will go a long way toward determining who stays put.

Coach Turk Edwards, who saw the Los Angeles Rams roll out 10 touchdowns in their intra-squad game Wednesday night, also hopes to get a true line on his talent in this struggle since there is only a week left to prepare for the contest with the Rams at Memorial Coliseum on September 5.

The West eleven goes into Friday's struggle with more than a casual advantage because of the presence of Sammy Baugh, the league's best passer, at quarterback. Pitching for the East will be Jim Youel.

While Baugh obviously isn't playing for a spot on the team, he will get a real test since John Adams, big tackle on the East team, and a nemeiss of all pass throwers in the league, is going to be in a position to give Slingin' Sam a busy evening.

It is expected that at least a half dozen players will be trimmed off the squad after Friday night's game. Of the 30 linemen, 10 must go by September 28 and of the 19 backs, four will have to be eliminated.

Eight Pacific Coast stars, five of them former Trojans at Southern California, grace the West's starting lineup.

Hoyas Place Hopes on Sophs

Emphasis on sophomores marks a return to prewar football policy at Georgetown.

Sophs Tony Beyer, Connie O'Doherty and Johnny Preston are promising candidates in the wide-open scramble for backfield berths. Beyer is the Georgetown prep grad whose broken field sprints were largely responsible for the Hoyas' triumph over St. Louis last fall.

O'Doherty is also a veteran of the '46 squad while Preston returns to the team after suffering a broken arm is spring drills.

Up from the "B" squad is Tony Galla, a 6-foot, 200-pounder who may well solve Hagerty's fullback problem. Galla, a junior who drew widespread attention last spring, appears to be one of the few upperclassmen who will start for the Hilltoppers.

Sweepstake Final Tonight Involves 16 Cars at Lanham

The 50-lap National Capital Sweepstakes championship finale, involving 16 cars qualifying from an all-star field, headlines tonight's seven-event midget competition at West Lanham (Md.) Speedway at 8:30 o'clock.

One of the largest crowds may see George Fonder, Lansdale, Pa., pilot and holder of both the 25 and 50-lap track records at Lanham make an all-out bid to shatter the 50-lap mark he set July 25.

Mike Joseph, popular driver of the Washington-owned Offenhauser of John Giacofci, Ed "Dutch" Schaefer, Floral Park, Long Island, and another skipper to be named round out the Offenhauser field.

About 26 Ford V-8 skippers will be headed by Larry Bloomer, former National champion from Norristown, Pa., who won two events and placed second in the feature last week. Ernie McCoy, Jim Forte, John Favinger, Hawley Kight, Red Redmond, Mike San Felice and Carl Miller also are entered.

Our Haight In Wet Bowl

wouldn't run down your cheek. But that's changed.

"Right after the dust bowl years, the Agriculture Department came through with a lot of advice like certain ways to plow, letting land rest a year and not burning the field stubble, etc.

"Practically all the wheat farmers changed to these methods for a while. But the rains came and now many have gone back to old habits. Next year seems to be out of their minds. They simply plant all they can, raise all they can and sell all they can."

I asked if there couldn't be another dust bowl and he answered: "Sure, but right now the wheat farmer is throwing the dice right. Some day he's going to crap out.

"Did you notice coming through the wheat country that many of the farm houses are boarded up? Well, these farmers have moved to the city. They distribute their hands to the tractors in the morning and pick them up after work.

"I don't say all are rich, but they have made a lot of dough out of wheat, and I mean spending dough, too. The majority are not throwing it away, either. They are investing in good machinery and buying more land. The size of some farms is unbelieveable. I know one man who had 100,000 acres of wheat this year.

"However, prosperity goes to some heads. For instance, a fellow who had been struggling for years, sold 120,000 bushels the other day and called a steamship agency in Denver and booked a round-the-world trip for his whole family."

Perhaps I should have taken that grain man with a grain of salt but he seemed to be leveling.

Speaking of the drought and heat, I encountered temperatures of 100 or more in a dozen cities coming and going and don't believe that bunk about "it's not the same kind of heat you have in Washington."

Incidentally, the heat wave broke and Haight went broke the same day.

Kavakos Plays Thrifty Beverage

Kavakos Grill softball team faces a stern test under the floodlights at Griffith Stadium tomorrow night, where it meets Thrifty Beverages in the 9:15 o'clock finale of a benefit doubleheader.

Mount Rainier Recreation plays hosts to Baltimore Frame Refrigeration School in an 8 o'clock opener of the bargain bill that donates its receipts to a fund financing the city-wide champion in regional and national tournament competition next month.

Jack Smith and Thrifty Beverages' Freddie Kramer, both of whom are credited with 18 wins and 2 losses, are to duel on the firing line.

Maryland Staff Off for Meeting

Four members of the University of Maryland athletics staff, headed by Football Coach Jim Tatum, will leave tomorrow for a meeting of Southern Conference officials at Raleigh, N. C.

Tatum, Director of Athletics Walter S. Driskill, Basketball Coach Flucie Stewart and George L. Carroll, athletics publicity director, will attend.

Fall openings of summer-shuttered clubs will begin to pop soon after Labor Day. Top bracket club openings due in September include those of the Club Cairo (Ben Blue will probably head their first revue), Balalaika and Treasure Island. Costly and fancy floor shows will be unveiled at all these spots.

WEISSINGER STEPS UP. That popular hotel man, Manager Harry Weissinger of the Annapolis, has been named general manager of the Hay-Adams, Hamilton and Annapolis hotels, all units of the Manager chain. He will combine his new duties with the managership of the Annapolis. Since coming to Washington and taking over at the Annapolis in 1938, Mr. Weissinger has been active in civic and club life. He is a member of the Washington Board of Trade, Variety Club, Touchdown Club, Hotel Greeters of America, Hotel Sales Management Association International and the Elks.

THE MARY KAAIHUE TRIO, highly original in fun and melody technics, and singing pianist Del-Loyd McKaye opened at Quonset Inn last night. This belongs at the top of your "must see" memos.

CHARMING DROPPERS-IN. Lovely members of the "Red Mill" company, now at the National Theater, park regularly in the Rainbow Room before and after shows. They're living at the Hamilton Hotel . . . Terry Carpenter and Lynn Wilson of WINX looked mighty pretty in the Sazerac Room of the Old New Orleans. Terry was in suave summer black. Lynn sported a tiny sailor about as big as a doll's hat . . . Jean Davis, New York booking agent, blew into the Lotus looking like a fall style prevue in an egg-plant-colored skirt and mauve blouse with balloon sleeves and tight cuffs. She confessed that the outfit nearly smothered her every time she stepped out of air-cooled interiors.

WINDSOR ROOM RETURNS. After an intensive doing-over, that be-dizzying spot, the Windsor Room, will be reopened next Thursday. Owner Matt Windsor has been scouring Manhattan for bright talent, plans to star Cassi Cassano, baritoning guitarist, and a group of New York singers. Notables of the theater will be guests at the opening party . . . The Windsor will be open for luncheon, dinner and cocktail sessions.

Rodolfo Carnejo, noted Filipino concert pianist and composer, will open in the Cafe Caprice of the Roger Smith Hotel on Monday, September 8 . . . Sammy Seymour's Band, which closes at the hot.l's Starlight Roof tomorrow, will get only one day's vacation. They'll make their bow at El Patio on Monday.

HAPPY LISTENING. Those "Carrousel" tunes baritoned so glowingly by Bob Ellis in the Metronome Room . . . The way Marian Kingsley sings that old Jimmy Dorsey tune, "I'm Glad There Is You," in the King Cole Room . . . Jack Norman's uproarious rendition of "Show Me the Way to Go Home" and "You Are My Sunshine" at Merry-Land . . . At the other end of the musical scale are the lovely Fritz Kreisler arrangements played at the Madrillon by the Lazala Trio

Virginia Road Allocations Given Tentative Approval

Richmond, Va., Aug. 28 (AP).—State Highway Commissioner James A. Anderson announced today that the State Highway Commission has approved tentative allocations of 20 million dollars for construction on Virginia's primary highway network in the 1948-49 fiscal year.

The tentative allocations will be subject to public hearings next month. Few changes are anticipated, however, and the allocations are expected to be confirmed as announced.

Among the largest allocations by the commission is one for $459,564 to cover costs of a bridge across the Piankitank River on Route 225. The bridge would replace the Twigg Ferry, between Mathews and Middlesex counties, which the Highway Department regards as inadequate to serve traffic in the area.

New Bridge at Narrows

One of the other major allocations amounts to $600,000 and is for construction of a new bridge across the New River on Route 61 at Narrows.

The Richmond highway district leads the other districts with allocations of $3,054,527, which includes funds for further four-lane work on Route 60 between Richmond and Williamsburg and $200,000 for improvements on Route 1 in the Richmond area.

Another of the bridge projects calls for $350,000 for a span over the South fork of the Shenandoah River at Alma on Route 12 in Page County, where the existing bridge is considered unsuitable for traffic and hazardous because of poor alignment with the roadway.

The 20-million-dollar State total includes $13,604,195 in State funds, with the remainder made up of Federal aid money under the Government's postwar construction program. By districts other grants from the fund call for $2,676,111 in the Bristol area; $2,648,387 in the Salem district; $2,398,967 in Lynchburg; $2,969,246 in Suffolk; $2,402,464 in Culpeper; $2,409,744 in Staunton and $1,440,554 in Fredericksburg.

To Make Up Deficits

The commission emphasized that it had less than 10 cents for every dollar necessary to meet immediate needs and for that reason many badly needed improvements will have to wait until funds become available.

Public hearings on the tentative allocations will be held on September 30 at 9 a. m. at City Market Auditorium, Roanoke, when the Salem, Bristol, Staunton and Lynchburg districts will be heard in that order.

At the Central Highway Office building at Richmond on Wednesday, October 1, at 9 a. m. the Richmond, Fredericksburg, Culpeper and Suffolk districts will be heard.

Doctors Hope To Aid Boy, Long a Mute

Baltimore, Aug. 28 (AP).—It will take several weeks of examination before doctors at Johns Hopkins Hospital know whether 12-year-old Douglas Sutherland will ever talk again.

The boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Sutherland, brought him here by plane from Bloemfontein, South Africa, in the hope of restoring the speech he lost nine years ago.

The boy's father, a railroad clerk, said Douglas suffered a mental shock during a minor operation at the age of 3, and has not spoken since.

Dr. Leo Kanner, head psychiatrist of the hospital's children's clinic, explained today that preliminary examination will involve a "biopsy," which means that a microscopically small portion of the brain cortex will have to be removed and examinted.

Although such an operation may sound freightening to the layman, Dr. Kanner said the procedure amounts to "even less than having one's tonsils removed."

The removed tissue will undergo a complex system of straining and microscopic eamination, in an effort to diagnose the cause of Douglas' affliction.

X-ray examination also will be employed.

Senator Byrd Host at Orchard Picnic Tomorrow

Winchester, Va., Aug. 28 (AP).—Everything is in readiness for Senator Harry F. Byrd's annual orchard picnic tomorrow—with the day to start with a demonstration of fog-spraying.

In this fruit growers and representatives of allied industries—usually numbering 2000 strong at the picnics at "Rosemont"—will see a type of spray which is fast taking the place of the nozzle method of application.

Among those who will be present will be Governor Tuck as house guest of Senator and Mrs. Byrd. He and the others will partake of an old-fashioned picnic lunch—fried chicken, country-cured ham sandwiches and other delicacies—and will hear a series of talks on subjects of interest to apple growers during the afternoon.

31 Fined in Baltimore For Jobless Pay Fraud

Baltimore, Aug. 28 (AP).—Thirty-one persons were fined a total of about $5350 today on charges of defrauding the Employment Security Board of jobless benefits.

Judge Herman M. Moser also imposed sentences ranging from three to six months in jail, depending on the amount of money involved in each case, but sentences were suspended on condition the defendants restored payments to the board.

WASHINGTON: FRIDAY, AUGUST 29, 1947

For Modern Living

By Harry Goodwin—The Washington Post

IT'S easy to mix, match and make a room with the unit furniture so much in vogue this fall. The four units grouped together here to form a large dining room piece are copied from Hepplewhite originals. They may also be used separately or in smaller groupings. The two end pieces could serve as bedside tables, the shelves as a hanging wall bracket, and the center piece as a chest in a bedroom

On the Homefront—

Fall Furniture Combines New With Old Favorites

By Lucia Brown

Do you want a handsome reproduction of an early American sideboard? A charming French provincial sofa at a medium price? A suave modern chair that combines unique beauty with solid comfort?

Your chances of finding them in Washington stores are better now than at any time since 1941.

Of course, there are still some shortages. Dealers say that innerspring mattresses in better grades are scarce. Deliveries are slow on dining room and bedroom furniture, particularly in mahogany and other dark woods. But in living room pieces you can find practically anything you want at prices that aren't as much above prewar levels as you might expect.

Honestly Functional

Welcome and exciting are the new designs that are appearing in great abundance. Many are by young designers—some are still in their early twenties—and their vigorous, adventurous spirit shows in their work. The new, moden furniture is colorful and dramatic. But at the same time, it's simple, substantial, and more honestly functional than the furniture of the past.

Noticeable this year is the use of the designers' names in identifying their work. Salesmen point to pieces designed by Eames or MacGregor, Edward J. Wormley or Norman Bel Geddes. The names of designers are mentioned in furniture departments almost as much now as in fashionable dress and hat shops.

Many pieces of the new furniture are interchangeable and may be grouped and regrouped in different rooms of the house. Matching chests and shelves, for instance, can be placed together to make a large sideboard in the dining room. Or they may be used as single pieces scattered through dining room, bedroom, and living room. Chairs may be used to form sofas, love seats, or chaise longues. And there's a "server"—a new interpretation of the eighteenth century dining room piece—that's recommended for use in almost every room in the house.

"Flexible is certainly the word for this year's furniture," the interior decorator in one Washington store said. "It's particularly fine for young couples who may be moving later to larger living quarters and want pieces that can be used in various ways in different rooms."

Combining different woods in the same room—"blonde" and mahogany, for instance—is suggested by decorators in discussing the new furniture. They also favor a skillful balancing of the modern with baroque and classical pieces to give interesting effects. White lamps made of classic Grecian statuary are used in the same room with large modern chests of Cordovan mahogany and brightly upholstered chairs and sofa.

In the midst of all the talk of new designs, the enduring American penchant for classic styles has not been forgotten. Most of the current reproductions are really "adaptations," however—furniture styled along the lines of old pieces but adapted to contemporary living. Extra drawer space has been added to desks and chests. Beds aren't so heavy looking and, of course, much more comfortable. Low coffee tables and other pieces undreamt of by our Revolutionary ancestors are fashioned along eighteenth century lines.

Colors Are Lively

Upholstery on both modern and classical furniture reflects the American love of color.

By Thomas Kelley—The Washington Post

A STRAIGHT line is not the shortest distance to relaxation, so MacGregor, California designer, has fashioned his new "contour" chair with a couple of zig-zags. Its lines support the human body in a comfortable sitting position. There's a place to rest the head and extra length to support the legs clear to the bend of the knee

By Harry Goodwin—The Washington Post

TYPICAL of the many furniture favorites now available again are these pieces from a French Provincial line which was discontinued during the war. They are made of maple with an Old World walnut finish and the sofa is upholstered in brown and white toile d'jouy. Enough of this furniture—considered medium-priced for French Provincial—to equip the average living room can be purchased

Her Highness Even Looks Like A Princess

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

TUESDAY NIGHT the State Department is giving a reception for Princess Ashraf, twin sister of Iran's Shah Mohammed Reza. It's one of many parties to honor H. H., who's truly as pretty as a Princess is supposed to be.

She's slim, wears her raven bob tucked under, her long nails dipped fashionably in crimson. Rows of tiny pink and blue marquise dolls were appliqued to her black silk dress the day she was interviewed by the press. Her white straw bonnet was haloed by a froth of lilies of the valley. An elaborate diamond concoction clipped the decolletage, and there was an inch long marquis bril-

MEMBERS OF official and diplomatic society attended a reception for Princess Ashraf Pahlavi yesterday afternoon at the Iranian Embassy. About 300 guests gathered in the air-cooled drawing room or out on the garden terrace between the hours of 6 and 9. In the absence of the Ambassador, the Charge d'Affaires and Mme. Noury-Esfandiary were hosts to Her Royal Highness.

Your Questions On Homemaking

1. How can I remove nail polish from a polka-dotted housecoat?

2. What is the best way to remove scorch from white clothes? R. B.

1. Acetone or commercial nail-polish remover can be used to remove nail polish from all materials except acetate rayon and vinyon. If your housecoat is rayon, test with the remover first on an inside seam to be sure it won't injure the fabric. If it doesn't, sponge the stains, using a white blotter or absorbent cloth underneath. If yours is a rayon that is injured by remover, use the following method instead: Wet the stain well with carbon tetrachloride or gasoline, then apply a drop of banana oil to the stain. Brush lightly with a soft cloth, using an upward motion to pick up dissolved polish. For heavy stains, use dry-cleaning soap with the banana oil.

2. Sun bleaching for a day or two, following a thorough washing in soap and water, is the best way to remove scorch stains from white cottons and linens. Bleaching with hydrogen peroxide is helpful if the stains are stubborn. Dampen a white cotton cloth with the peroxide and lay it on the stain. Cover with a clean, dry cloth, then press with a medium hot iron.

Two of my white candlewick spreads were stored in a cardboard carton on the concrete floor of a garage. The cardboard absorbed moisture and stained one of them with a soggy brown stain. Both bedspreads became quite mildewed. I washed them by hand, then hung them in the sun. I also had them laundered at a laundry. The mildew and brown stain still remain, diminished but clearly visible. What else can I do to remove them? R. S. O.

Dip the stains in Javelle water or other chlorine bleach for no longer than one minute. Then dip into a weak vinegar solution (two tablespoons to a cup of water) to stop the action of the chlorine. Finally, rinse well wih water.

Can you give me a good recipe for coconut pie? R. H.

A recipe for coconut cream pie follows:

½ cup flour or 3 tablespoons cornstarch.
½ teaspoon salt.
2 cups milk, scalded.
3 eggs, separated.
1 cup shredded coconut.
2 tablespoons butter.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
1 baked (9-inch) pastry shell.

Mix together 2/3 cup sugar, flour and salt. Gradually stir in milk and cook over boiling water 10 minutes, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Pour small amount into slightly beaten egg yolks, then gradually pour into thickened milk and cook about two minutes, stirring constantly. Add butter and vanilla. Cool slightly, and add ½ cup shredded coconut. Pour into baked pastry shell and cover with meringue made by gradually beating the remaining 1/3 cup of sugar into the stiffly beaten egg whites. Sprinkle remainder of coconut over top and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 15 minutes, or until delicately browned. (If desired only two eggs and ¾ cup sugar can be used in making this pie.)

To R. M. and E. D.: The stains you asked about can sometimes be removed from clothes or carpeting by sponging with a weak ammonia or soda solution. If this isn't successful, try sponging with lemon juice or vinegar. However, if the color of the material has been destroyed, it will probably be impossible to restore it except by redyeing.

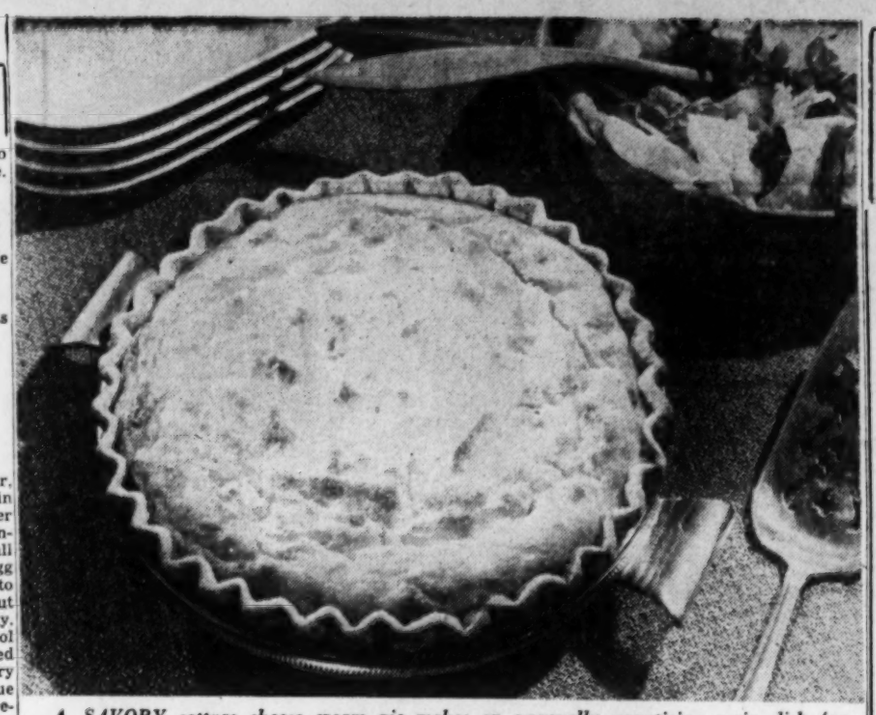
Susie Q

"I know . . . let's compromise by going to the formal!"



A SAVORY cottage cheese cream pie makes an unusually appetizing main dish for lunch or supper. It's an excellent way to use up sour cream, too

For the Thrifty Cook

Sour Cream Uses—Soup to Dessert

SUMMERTIME is apt to be sour cream time. It's hard to keep exactly even with your cream supply even when the weather's cool. During the sizzling season, it's almost impossible.

If cream sours after several sojourns on breakfast or dinner table, take advantage of the situation. Use it in cooking, as a garnish, or in dressing before it has a chance to develop a cheesy taste.

To start at the beginning of the meal, whipped sour cream makes a delicious topping for certain soups—beet, pea, or bean, for instance. Keep the cream cold while you're whipping it. And be sure not to whip too long, as it will quickly turn to butter. Drop a teaspoonful on the top of each bowl of hot or iced soup just before serving.

Sour cream gravy lends a piquant flavor to dried beef. And with pot roast, baked ham, or fish, there's nothing better than sour cream horseradish sauce. To make it, add about 6 tablespoons of grated horseradish to 1 cup of whipped sour cream. Season with salt and pepper.

How About a Pie?

A tasty main dish made with sour cream is Savory Cottage Cheese Cream Pie. Here's the recipe:

2 cups (1 lb.) creamed cottage cheese
¾ cup sour cream
2 cups mashed potatoes, hot
1 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons finely chopped onion
3 tablespoons chopped pimiento
2 eggs, well beaten
1½ tablespoons butter

Combine cottage cheese with sour cream. Beat in mashed potatoes, blending thoroughly. Add salt, onion and pimiento. Mix well. Fold in beaten eggs. Turn into unbaked pie shell. Dot with butter. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) 1¼ hours or until brown. Serve hot or cold as main dish with mixed green salad. This recipe makes 8 servings.

Farmer's Chop Suey

Vegetables—cooked or raw—also profit by association with sour cream. One such combination is Farmer's Chop Suey, made of the following:

¼ cup coarsely shredded lettuce
3 slices cucumber, quartered
1 new green onion, sliced
¼ medium tomato, diced
2 radishes, sliced
Sour cream
Salt

Have all the fresh vegetables cold and crisp. Slice into a salad bowl. Add seasonings to suit taste, and enough sour cream to moisten well (about 1/3 cup.) This recipe makes one serving.

And for Dessert

Sour cream makes a big hit in the dessert field in such appetizing dishes as Sour Cream Pecan Pie, a recipe for which follows:

1 unbaked 8-inch pie shell
3 eggs, separated
¾ cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
⅛ teaspoon salt
½ cup chopped pecans
1 tablespoon coconut
1 cup sour cream
⅛ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
6 tablespoons sugar

Beat egg yolks well. Combine sugar, cornstarch and salt. Add to egg yolks, mixing well. Stir in chopped pecans and coconut. Add sour cream and blend thoroughly. Pour into unbaked pie shell and bake in moderate oven (350° F.) for 50 minutes or until filling has browned and is set. Remove from oven and reduce heat to 325° F. Beat egg whites until frothy. Add salt and cream of tartar and continue beating until almost stiff enough to peak. Add sugar gradually, beating until stiff but not dry. Pile lightly on filling. Bake in slow oven (325° F.) 15 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool and serve.

Unique Freezer Service

A novel solution to the food storage problem in small apartments is now being enjoyed by tenants in seven large Chicago apartment buildings, where a unique frozen food locker rental plan has been launched. A company has installed frozen food storage cabinets in the basement or store room of the apartment buildings and offers individual lockers for rent to tenants for a small fee.

Market Memo
By Lucia Brown

MEAT cases are filled with smoked hams, luncheon meats, and frankfurters—all the picnic favorites—ready for the Labor Day weekend. To go with them, why not use one of the various types of ready-made beaten biscuit? Some are made with whole wheat flour, some with cheese, and they're cut in many shapes and sizes now.

Fresh jumbo shrimp from the gulf are slow in coming in this year because of recent storms. One local dealer . . . who maintains his own fishing fleet down at Morgan City, La. . . . has received a few, but they're not cheap. Crab flakes are still one of the best seafood buys. A pound retails for 75 to 90 cents. . . . and that's enough to make crab cakes, salad, souffle, or casserole for six to eight persons.

Bigger and beter California oranges are coming in. Watermelon supplies are still good. Corn is slightly lower in some stores . . . tomatoes slightly higher. The cooler weather makes those new crop sweet potaties even more welcome. Try some with summer apples in a combination baked dish. . . . or coked with sausages as the piece de resistance for the meal.

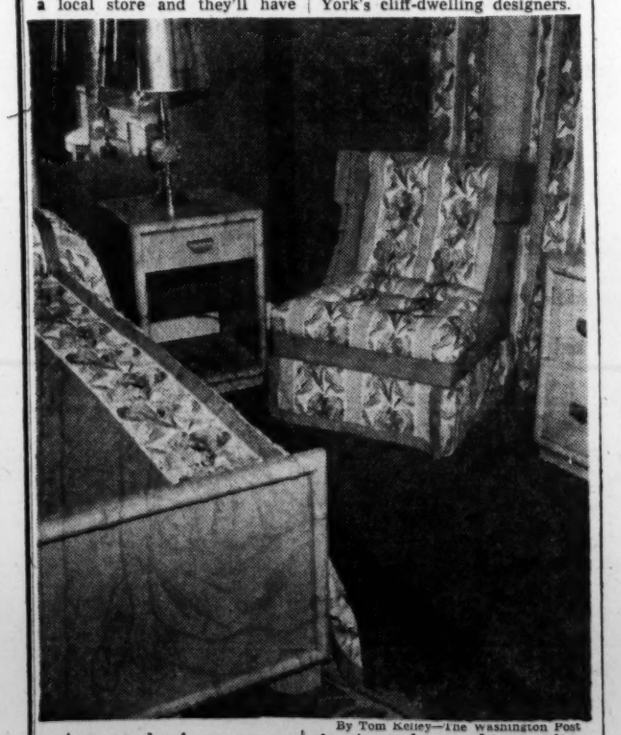
Traditional and Modern Designs Blend in New Fall Furniture

Tones are soft and restful, however, and combinations are skillfully blended. Prints and textured weaves are fresh and lively. A number of new types of fabrics are used. Metal threads appear in some of them—metal threads that won't tarnish because they're coated with a thin layer of transparent plastic.

Of interest to many people is the fact that you can again have furniture upholstered to order in any color of leather. All you have to do is to take a swatch in to the furniture department of a local store and they'll have furniture covered with leather that's an exact match. "Muslinline" furniture is back, too—furniture that you buy minus upholstery and have covered with the material of your choice.

This fall's furniture collections are truly American in that the pieces come from all over the country—New York, Michigan, California, and points in between. There seems to be something distinctive about the offerings of each section, from the breezy, expansive designs of Far Western artists to the sophisticated creations of New York's cliff-dwelling designers.



By Tom Kelley—The Washington Post

An example of contemporary furniture that combines utility with beauty is this comfortable bedroom chair. It's upholstered in multicord in solid pink and gray, and brown, and pink print. Demonstrating the current fondness for "units" that can be used singly or together is the fact that 35 pieces—bedspread, curtains, pillows, closet fittings, and others—can be bought in the same material in the same store.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Two Men Become Great Friends in War Zone, But the Wife of One Can't Fathom the Other Wife, Who Is Possessive Towards Both Men

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My husband Bill became great friends with Jim in the Pacific theater. During a crucial phase of the war, Bill was dispatched back to this country while Jim remained in combat.

On arrival here, Bill got in touch with Jim's wife. Naturally she was anxious to have firsthand information about Jim, so she and Bill exchanged letters. In time, Bill and I travelled hundreds of miles to her city to meet her.

Although she has great wealth and social position, she didn't impress us with the fact. I thought her one of the sweetest, most charming girls I'd ever met and I assumed she would write to both of us thereafter. Instead she continued to write directly to Bill, with the usual "Give my love to Doris" ending.

This seemed a bit odd, but I didn't think too much about it at the time. However, the shooting-war has been over now for quite a while. Both men are home for good, safe and sound—yet Jane still writes to Bill. Apparently Jim is a poor correspondent, with Jane in charge of the writing department.

Man Ridicules Wife's Dismay

WHEN Bill writes them, which isn't often, he writes to both Jane and Jim and signs his letters "Bill and Doris." All to no avail. Either Jane doesn't get the point or doesn't want to. I'm inclined to believe the latter.

A few months ago we got together for a wonderful time. Jane was as charming as the first day I met her, and on our return home we found a box from Jane—an assortment of foodstuffs she knew I liked. A nice gesture, I thought, and immediately wrote to her, expressing our appreciation. My letter was ignored.

Recently, when we received an announcement of the birth of their child, Bill wrote saying how happy we were to hear the grand news. Within 10 days he had a letter from Jane in the hospital, with the usual "Love to Doris" ending. This to me is the last straw. Bill seems to think it isn't intentional on Jane's part. I say it's deliberate—in a very nice subtle sort of way.

Just what's back of Jane's nonsense I've no way of knowing. She is completely in love with her husband; in fact, a bit on the possessive side, I noticed in the short time we were in their company. Perhaps that's the clue to her persistence in writing to Bill? In any event, what should I do? Am I being ridiculous, as my husband says? Incidentally, he knows I am writing to you. D. P.

Woman's Motives Are Complex, Ugly

DEAR D. P.: Very complex motives, none of them pretty, underlie Jane's more direct than subtle campaign to take Bill's scalp by mail. She is one of the more conspicuous examples of neurotic personality begot of wealth and social standing.

In the top-dog stratum of a dog-eat-dog society, it's not uncommon for persons to feel that their only security inheres in controlling others completely, who figure in their experience.

I've no space in which to try to dissect Jane's motives at length, but will suggest: 1. She may want Bill's special attention on a private pipeline just for its 'own sake, partly—because he's decent, honorable, seemingly invulnerable to sophisticate trifling, and because her ego can't tolerate an attractive man's complete devotion to another woman and indifference to her, once they've met.

Man of Good Sense Would Snub Vixen

2. HOWEVER, the fact that Bill and Jim in spirit are closer than brothers, plus the fact that she is "possessive" of Jim, probably is a more significant factor. In a sense, emotionally she devours Jim—and her purpose is to swallow up anybody else who gets really close to him! Bill for example. Thus eliminating competition; and thus also, slyly, with neurotic malice, punishing Jim for having a "buddy."

If Jim doesn't write to Bill, it's probably because Jane's performance insidiously blights his enthusiasm for it—and I've no doubt her unconscious aim is precisely that; and probably carries over into all their joint social relationships.

What to do? Tell Bill I say if he's got good sense, also integrity as husband and buddy, he'll wash his hands of Jane's "Dear Bill" letters—(1) by putting you up to bat as his social secretary in the exchange, if she audaciously persists in courting reply; and (2) by writing direct to Jim at his office address, when he has man's-news of interest for the latter. M. H.

IT'S time to brush up on the three R's again and to worry about the fall school wardrobe. Above, Judy Martin, Jack Sampson and Lois Foust (left to right), all of Hunting Terrace Apartments, Alexandria, have one big problem already taken care of—that of finding sturdy school shoes with long-lasting soles. Their shoes have soles of plastic called "Vinylite" that won't mark the kitchen floors but are just as flexible and strong as rubber soles. The shoes are available at an F st. store

Trying to Look Pretty Takes 59 Days Yearly

IF WE CAN take a man's word for it in a man's magazine, we women spend a fourth of our lifetime attaining—or trying to attain—glamour.

That's how author Walter Sorell sees it in his article, "Beauty Is Her Duty" in Esquire magazine.

All told, the male of the species spends only 10 days a year on his looks. (Says Sorrell). He complains bitterly about shaving because it seems so senseless to him to have to erase something today that will certainly be there again tomorrow. But due to the compulsions of life the high and mighty man succumbs and does not even mind bleeding occasionally for his folly.

Mr. Sorell has divided women's "well-wasted" hours into a number of categories, including hair, face, hands, feet, skin and shopping. By the use of a little higher mathematics, in his article, he has arrived at the amount of time the little woman spends because "Beauty is her duty." Here are some of his figures:

Combing and patting hair, 273 hours per year.
Looking for gray hairs, 4 hours per year.
Window shopping, 60 hours per year.
Exchanging articles purchased, 6 hours per year.
Studying fashions, reading folders about beauty aids, worrying about diet, 60 hours per year.
Looking at other women, 6 hours per year.

The sum total of all this primping, shopping and beauty preparation is 1419 hours or 59 days—about two months out of every year.

Has Anyone Told You?

A BOON to traveling mothers and babies is the new electric bottle warmer that heats when you plug it into the place for the cigarette lighter on the automobile dashboard.

BACK ON THE MARKET are efficient doormats made of strips cut from old automobile tires. Some of them have a good-looking chenille surface, made by trimming the rubber down a bit and leaving short threads of the fabric sticking up.

HEMS THAT LOOK as though they're hand-done can be made on your sewing machine with the new "invisible hemmer." This attachment, which fits on most types of machine, makes a "blind" stitch that can hardly be seen. It's a handy gadget to have, with so many hems to let out this fall.

Iran's Princess Resembles Her Father, Famous Shah

liant on her right hand. On the left, besides a solitaire and wedding band, a gold ring jingled with tiny bangles.

Like Her Father

TOPPING THIS pleasing all-in-all, the Princess is obviously equipped with humor, vivacity and, we are told, a healthy temper. Of all her brothers and sisters she's most like her remarkable papa, the late Reza Shah.

Born in a small village, he was a member of a simple family. He joined a Persian cavalry regiment officered by Russian Cossacks, and by sheer energy and persistence eventually rose to general. Later, he never hesitated to recount in picturesque detail the tough treatment he'd undergone from the Cossacks. He then shoved up to Minister of War, dictator, and in 1925 when the then current Shah abdicated, took over the throne.

Reza Shah started modernizing his country with great vigor. He came a cropper in 1941 when British and Russian troops marched in to find evacuation of German troops had been a trifle overdelayed. The doughty Shah abdicated in favor of his son Mohammed, went to the Island of Mauritius, then Johannesburg, where, a short time later, he died.

The present Shah, extremely capable and as handsome as his sister is pretty, is married to Princess Fawzia of Egypt. The Princess has returned to Cairo, however, and as their only child is a girl, a half brother is heir to the throne.

Decorated By Russians

PRINCESS ASHRAF, who's here sponsored by the Red Cross, has done a remarkable social welfare job. She's married to Ahmad Shafigh, has two small sons.

Last year she journeyed to Russia to see how their social welfare problems were being solved and, incidentally, received a Soviet decoration for her help in raising funds for their war victims.

Accompanying her is a remarkable woman, half English, half Russian—Mme. Ashra—who was once a member of Anna Pavlova's ballet company. Mme. Ashra is married to an Iranian general and during the 20 years she's lived in Tehran has done much to promote both theater and dancing.

Sultan's Invitation to Borneo

IT SEEMED VERY odd to see a Sultan from Borneo and such exotically named gentlemen as Tjokorde Gde Rake Soekawati, Anak Agoeng Gde Agoeng and Nadjamoeddin Daeng Malewa sitting on an overstuffed sofa in a Washington hotel room. Not only were they sitting European fashion, but they were handsomely dressed in Western clothing, and the stylish-looking Sultan not only spoke exquisite English but confessed to being equally at home in six other tongues! The Sultan had an English foster mother and served in the Dutch Indonesian army—which helped considerably.

The four flew here from the far Pacific islands to appear before the United Nations Security Council—but so far they've had no luck. Between them they represent some 21 million people—some of them from the paradisical Island of Bali.

They don't want to be either under Dutch rule nor ruled by present republican leaders. Instead they wish for independence, British dominion fashion, in an East Indonesian federation under Dutch protection.

The Sultan asked reporters and writers to visit him in Borneo and see for themselves what is going on. So anyone with literary skill, seeking fascinating adventure, should accept his invitation. His name is Sjarif Hamid Alkadri.

Bowens to Live In Arlington

Daniel E. Bowen and his bride, the former Miss Dorothy V. Alford, have gone on a wedding trip by motor to Kansas City following their marriage August 19. They will live in Arlington, Va., on their return.

Their wedding took place at Clarenden Methodist Church Arlington with the Rev. C. Fred Williams officiating.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mrs. Bessie V. Alford of Arlington, and the late Mr. Alford, was given in marriage by her brother, James E. Alford. She wore white taffeta fashioned with a bustle skirt, a veil held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms and she carried white roses. Mrs. Ray E. Rockhold of Elmhurst, Long Island, who attended her sister, wore ice blue marquisette with a matching hat and she carried a colonial bouquet.

Morris E. Johnson, brother-in-law of the bride, was best man and Alvin D. Lynch of Cabin John, Md., and James W. Davis of Washington were ushers.

Mrs. Freeman Hunter Tillotson, the former Adria Adrian of Washington, was married on July 12 in Honolulu. She will return to the United States to reside in Washington

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Officer—No Gentleman

The other day we ran an item about "an officer and a gentleman." Here's the other extreme, as reported by Mrs. W. I. M., who lives on Dinwiddie st., in Arlington.

"I drove my son into town to get his glasses fixed. On 15th st. nw., between I and K, parked cars lined the curb, so I pulled into a vacant space.

"The sign said that parking was prohibited, and that 'standing' was also prohibited during certain hours.

"So I told my son that I couldn't park and go with him, but that I'd 'stand' there for a minute while he took his glasses into the shop.

"The boy had no sooner left than a policeman appeared and proceeded to give me a very rude bawling out for 'parking.'

"I protested that I'd just arrived and was just 'standing' for a minute or two, but he snarled: 'When your wheels are stopped, you're parked.'

"What sort of nonsense is this? How can an auto 'stand' when its wheels are turning?"

It beats me, Mrs. M. Maybe the cop's bunions hurt that day.

DO NOT DISTURB

I'm so weary of salesmen
Who flock 'round my door.
How they bother and pester,
And manage to bore.

With much chatter and blather
Their tongues really flap,
And invariably manage
To ruin my nap.

So I warn you that some day
My door's going to slam;
That'll be my way of saying,
"Dear Salesman—please scram!"

(Thanks to Mrs. Macy Braide of 3340 Clay pl. ne.)

GIVE-AWAYS

"Four adorable kittens who want nice homes. One has six toes, like her mommie." (WOodley 5388).

SECRET

Lester Kinzler, of the Suburban Hardware Stores, entrusts me with a secret.

He confides that the District Heights (Md.) Citizen's Association is holding its annual boat ride on the S. S. Potomac tonight, and that tickets are on sale at practically all District Heights stores.

Lester says that he's not one of these publicity-seeking fellows who tries to get items like this in the paper, so he hopes that I'll keep it strictly confidential.

The motto of the Suburban Hardware Stores is "everything for the home and garden." Wonder if they sell halo polish?

HEAVENS, NO!

In sending in her second contribution to the column, a District Liner recently wrote:

"Please don't think I'm intoxicated by the sight of my name in print, or that I'm trying to take over your column."

Heaven perish the forbid!

Your friends like to see a familiar name in the paper and exclaim, "Hey—here's good old Betty Brown's name."

And as for taking over the column—on most days, any change would be an improvement.

FOOLER

This one is almost sure to fool anybody on whom you try it. Hand a friend a piece of string and say:

"Arrange this on the table in a loop which you estimate is the size of your waist."

When he's finished, snip off the string to the length guessed, and then invite the subject to try the estimate on for size.

CHANCE OF A LIFETIME

Oliver Ediss reports that in a store at 1730 Pennsylvania ave. nw. there's a sign which says:

"Alterations — Men and Women."

Bolte to Write Book About England

New York.—Prof. Marc Connelly went to Chicago to spend some time with Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Lewis, before assuming his professional duties at Yale's Drama School. Lewis spoke of his current historical project, The Life of General Grant, which he has been writing for the past few years, and which he may finish next year. He is deeply immersed in this work and thinks of little else . . . When Connelly left he asked the Lewises: "When will you be in New York?" . . . "We can't possibly come East," replied Mrs. Lewis, "until Grant takes Richmond."

The newest attack on Chiang-kai-shek will come from the diaries of General Stilwell, which William Sloane Associates will publish . . . The first night-club casualty of the new long-in-back dresses was Mrs. E. Waddell of Gramercy Park, who tripped over her long gown while dancing at the Stork Club this morning. She fell on her face and suffered a concussion and possible fracture. She was rushed by ambulance to Roosevelt Hospital . . . Charles G. Bolte, the former head of the American Veterans' Committee, who leaves for a two-year stay at Oxford next month, has contracted to write a book about England.

Howard Hughes' Flying Boat, which was the subject of the Senatorial investigation, is described in print as the "Hercules." At the Hughes' office it's referred to as the "H-4," to indicate that this is the fourth model made by Hughes . . . Hughes was in New York when the announcement was made about the "Hercules." He immediately phoned his West Coast office and berated the man who had issued the release. "I want it called the "H-4," Hughes told him. "The 'H' is for Hughes—me, and not 'Hercules.' I worked on it and it should be identified with me instead of with a Greek who's been dead 4000 years."

The distance record for contributions to the Damon Runyon Fund was set with a $100 check from the Oriental Trading Co., Ltd., of Shanghai. It was sent in memory of Nathan Alexander, vice president of the American Safety Razor Co., who died of cancer . . . Marion Hargrove is finishing his first novel. It's about young marriage and the radio business . . . Ed Begley, who plays the father in "All My Sons," has impersonated the voice of Franklin D. Roosevelt on hundreds of radio shows. In the movie, "The Roosevelt Story," Begley is heard as the Voice of Opposition, heckling Roosevelt's policies.

Lord and Lady Rothermere arrive from England next week . . . Joshua Logan and Leland Hayward will coproduce "Mr. Roberts," if the author can present a workable dramatization . . . Geoffrey Hellman, the profile writer, and author of the forthcoming "How to Disappear for An Hour," has been invited to conduct the lectures on biographical writing at Columbia University.

Hedy Lamarr and Ben Hecht had a business appointment with Hunt Stromberg. They arrived punctually, rang the doorbell and Stromberg opened the door and ushered them in . . . After the greetings had been extended, Stromberg excused himself and said that he'd be down in a minute. He went upstairs and Hecht and Miss Lamarr waited—for almost an hour. "I think he forgot about us and just dozed off," Hecht whispered. "Let's try again" . . . They went outside and rang the doorbell. Stromberg opened the door and greeted them. "Sorry we're a bit late," Hecht apologized . . . "Oh, it's quite all right," Stromberg assured them. "I'm glad you were able to come." And then, with no mention of their earlier arrival, Hecht and Miss Lamarr sat down to talk business with the producer-host.

Portraits

By James J. Metcalfe

Vase

A vase is used for flowers fair . . . To keep them fresh and bright . . . And stand them in a special place . . . For everyone's delight . . . But now and then the vessel is . . . Of greater use than these . . . For those who live in hopes and dreams . . . Or dwell in memories . . . It is the fond remembrance of . . . A gift from someone dear . . . Or it has held the roses of . . . A sweeter yesteryear . . . It is a palace on the path . . . Of promises and plots . . . Where love belongs to lilacs or . . . The soft forget-me-nots . . . A vase may be a place to keep . . . The flowers fresh and bright . . . Or it may be a loving cup . . . Of silver stars at night.
